MECHANICAL INSTITUTES. REVIEW OF THE LOCAL ORGANIZATION FROM JANUARY TO THE PRESENT TIME. A SHORT OUTLOOK.

A Bunch in the Records Committee for Position of Honor. Current Financial Condition of the Kingston Local Institute. Attractive Reading Room.

Not for many years, never, perhaps, has the Mechanical Institute, been so active and so well managed as it is at present. A variety of circumstances has combined to make it so.

From the time of its revival for the third time until lately it had a precarious existence, at times manifesting a spirit of activity, but often failing to receive that enthusiastic support which such prosperity need not be expected.

All through its fluctuations of fortune there have been a few, whose loyalty and helpfulness no adversity could affect, and these are the moving spirits of the present organization.

The Institute, through original design to benefit mechanics, has not been exclusive in regard to membership, and hence we find in the old and new records the names of representatives of almost all classes in the community.
