CITY AND VICINITY.

PROBS.—Strong winds and gales from the south and west, fair to cloudy warm weather, with rain in some localities, followed by cooler weather to-morrow.

GRAND CONCERT.—See in an adjoining column the notice of St. Paul's ladies grand concert on Thursday, December 8th. The event of the season. Low prices. Look at the array of first-class talent.

SUDDEN DEATH.—A little 5 year old daughter of Mr. Geo. McGarrothy, of Garden Island, who was apparently in her usual health on Sunday, died suddenly yesterday, death being caused by inward convulsions.

CHARCOAL WORKS.—The new Charcoal Works at Sharbott Lake have been enclosed, and the retorts will be put up this week. It is expected that the works will be in running order by the end of another month.

CHRISTMAS.—Families who are preparing for Christmas should call at the Golden Lion Grocery for new fruit, icing sugar, extracts, pastry flour, and everything they require for the holidays, as all the goods are fresh and now selling retail at wholesale prices.

A BAD EYE.—Yesterday a young man named Dickson struck himself, accidentally, in the eye with a hammer. In consequence there is a serious contused wound. Dr. T. M. Fenwick was visited and gave medical relief. The sight of the eye is probably uninjured.

DEATH OF MR. E. H. PARKER.—We regret to learn of the demise of a citizen who was generally respected, Mr. E. H. Parker, for many years a druggist, doing business where Mr. J. G. King is now located. He was a man of modest, retiring disposition, skilled and venerated in his profession. His health has been failing for some time. His memory will be kindly cherished.

COUNCIL REPRESENTATION.—More interest is being taken in the municipal elections as the day of nomination approaches. Some notable retirements are reported, namely, those of Messrs. Ald. Irving, McMahon and Gage. Mr. Robinson is not decided as to whether he will run again or drop out. Dr. Dupuis will seek re-election, and Mr. J. Redden's friends insist upon him being a member of the Council.

A NOTABLE CHRISTENING.—Last evening there was a prayer meeting at Mr. Charles Cochrane's, Gleuburnie, after which there was a christening of no fewer than twelve children, four of Mr. W. Rankin's, one of Mr. W. Craig's, and seven of Mr. C. Cochrane's. Of these there were two pairs of twins; there would have been three pairs, but death intervened and removed one of the number. Rev. T. S. Chambers performed the ceremony, the most remarkable of the kind that has been performed in this vicinity.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.—James Davy, who was arrested here, for larceny at Clark's Mills, has been committed for trial by Mr. J. A. Shibley, of Yarker. On Friday Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Conroy, of Clark's Mills retired to rest. About an hour afterwards Davy entered the room with a light but the women suspected nothing until morning when the money was missed. Mrs. Clark proved to the $5 bill and one of the $1 bills Mrs. Johnson had paid to Mrs. Clark on Friday. The prisoner pleaded "not guilty." He was committed to the Napanee gaol. Mr. Shibley thinks it very singular that out of so many magistrates in Clark's Mills there was not one qualified to conduct a criminal case.

Police Court—Tuesday.

Charles Wilson politely acknowledged that he had been intoxicated yesterday. He was a sailor on the prop. "Georgian," which brought a deck load of whiskey from Walkerville. It was his first public offence and he hoped it would be his last. The Magistrate hoped so too, and discharged him.

Some weeks ago Mr. Metcalfe purchased a large consignment of goods, to be disposed of by auction in this city. In extending his business he secured an uptown store and hired a salesman, being unable in consequence of other business engagements and ill health to conduct the business himself. As he did not auction off goods himself he was of the opinion that Mr. O'Neil could sell under his license. The city authorities thought different, and had the two summoned to appear before the Magistrate. Mr. Metcalfe appeared this morning and had the case adjourned for a week pending a settlement of the case.

AN ANNIVERSARY MEETING.

Addresses and Music in the Williamsville Sunday School—Favorable Report.

The Church at Williamsville was filled to its utmost capacity last evening on the occasion of the anniversary service of its Sunday School. Many were forced to return home unable to gain an entrance. The Superintendent of the school, Mr. A. Shaw, must be congratulated upon the success of the meeting and of his school.

Rev. W. W. Madge, B.A., occupied the chair and called the meeting to order. The school sang "Gospel Bells," and there was prayer by Rev. G. G. Huxtable. After the Chairman's address, Master R. English and A. McMahon recited a dialogue, which was well received. The report of the school was read by the Superintendent in absence of the Secretary, showing it to be in a very prosperous condition, numerically and financially. The Superintendent supplemented the report by a short address in regard to the working of the school, which is composed of children from every denomination except the Roman Catholic.

Rev. G. G. Huxtable, Mr. Trenaman, and Mr. Chown delivered stirring addresses, which kept the attention of the young and advanced in years. During the evening Masters F. Sears, D. Campbell and E. Vandewater recited a dialogue and Misses Miriam Couper and Lottie Wilder sang "Bringing in the Sheaves" with good effect, the school generally joining in the chorus. Misses Rhoda Bryant and Etta Smith sang "Beautiful Valley of Eden," which was received with great favor.

Too much praise cannot be given to Miss Etta Smith, the organist of the school, and others who had the training of the scholars in their several parts. A pleasant meeting was brought to a close by the school singing "What a Gathering That Will Be," and the Rev. G. G. Huxtable pronouncing the benediction.

Promotion of Father Cicolari.

A few days ago His Lordship Bishop Cleary appointed Rev. Father Cicolari, of Peterboro, son of Mr. A. Cicolari, of this city, to the pastoral charge of the parish of Lochiel, below Cornwall, made vacant by the removal of Rev. Father Graham. On Sunday last Rev. Father Lynch made the announcement to his congregation. Father Lynch spoke in strong terms of the pleasant relations that had subsisted between Father Cicolari and himself, and of the regret he felt at his departure, though this was alleviated by the knowledge that Father Cicolari had been promoted.

The Peterboro Review states that after mass the members of the congregation formed a Committee, appointing Dr. O'Sullivan Chairman and Mr. T. Kelly Secretary. It was determined to present Father Cicolari with a purse, for which subscriptions to the amount of $370 were collected during the afternoon. An address was drawn up and presented in the evening after vespers to Father Cicolari. Dr. O'Sullivan read the address with much feeling, and Mr. J. Hackett presented the above handsome sum in the presence of the congregation.

Father Ciolari, who was deeply affected, made a feeling reply, thanking the congregation for their gift and the expressions of love and regard. Father Ciolari arrived here last evening and is now stopping at his father's. He will remain here a few days before leaving for his new field of duty.

NOT SO SMART AFTER ALL.

The Average Thief Mock Overrated His Skill Below Mediocrity—Two Cases in Point.

Proverbs are commonly believed to contain the sum of general truth in condensed form. This is not always so, matured experience furnishing numerous exceptions. The familiar "honesty among thieves," popularly believed to be universally true, is found in actual fact to be as false as it is fair. We do not mean to say that there are not here and there a few professionals who are honorable enough to stand by their word, in prosperity or adversity, but these are solitary exceptions only to be found among the very best crackamen. The uniform experience and testimony of our prison and penitentiary officials, Wardens, and Governors is, that prisoners, as a rule, are notorious for their jealousy, distrust, and falsity towards each other. But not only is their alleged honesty among their own ranks greatly exaggerated, but their boasted abilities and professional shrewdness are vastly over-estimated. It is granted that extensive robberies are frequently committed and enormous sums lost which could not have been accomplished without considerable brain work and skilful manipulation. But the most successful operator in these dishonest speculations has no hesitation in confidentially acknowledging that the many wonderful stories which find a place in our most powerful journals, contain at least seventy-five per cent of sensational stuff and nonsense. We have only carefully to examine the crime records of our own country, or that of our

to satisfy ourselves that a large percentage of the thefts and robberies are accomplished either by the daring and reckless use of brute force, or petty sneak operations, notorious only for the lack of any evidence of the application of brain power or mechanical skill. The few—and when properly analysed they are very few—heavy losses which carry on their face any evidence of diplomacy and consumate skill, have two sides, only one of which, and that the real one, is known to a privileged few. Looking at the actual facts connected with these "magnificent hauls" we almost invariably find that the talismanic motor has been wrapped up in the almighty dollar influence which paved the way to easy success, or to the credulity of some public men who have been too easily caught in the confidence trap. Doubtless there exists combinations and societies which are admirably organized, and produce some remarkably fine implements which, in the hands of experienced burglars, effect astonishing work; but the expert, in reading the over-drawn accounts of the management and production of these illegal organizations, never fails to smile at the gullibility of editors and the puerile credulity of the honest but inexperienced public. We have not forgotten the too frequent remarkable escapes of notorious crackamen, from some of the supposed most secure penitentiaries in the world. But even in pursuing investigations in this direction we can take the evidence connected with the most notable evasions on record, and demonstrate the fact that they have been effected through the possession and influence of money more than through the employment of any extraordinary skill or mechanical ingenuity. We do not require to go to foreign countries for unknown professionals to have this view of the matter substantiated. We take an example at our own doors. The presently in the Kingston Penitentiary, is a convenient and pertinent illustration. It must be admitted that whether under the different names of Wells, Bullard or Thompson, he has been engaged in robberies which have been very generally voted a success. But no one who understands the matter presumes to say that it was through his superior skill or eminent business capacity that he, to use a professional phrase, beat the Massachusetts prison out of a twenty years' sentence. We know he came to Canada, not as Wells, the possessor of a hundred thousand dollars, or as Bullard, the owner of half that sum, but as Charles Thompson "dead broke." The result in his case, as in almost all those wonderful smart men, was that in his necessity he took to petty larceny in company with one Charles Durand, another "dead broke" United States professional. They soon got "nabbed," and having no money to "square things" were sent to the penitentiary for five years. Thompson is still there, and, stripped of his ill-gotten gains, he appears a very common mortal indeed, and while ordinarily intelligent is by no means the paragon of super-human talents or the unequalled expert that many would lead us to believe. The very smartest of the thieves would rarely rise above mediocrity in an honest business calling.

Sudden Death From Choking.

Yesterday afternoon Andrew Juniac, a man advanced in years, who had been ditching at Cataraqui, came to the city, putting up at Mr. James McGowan's hotel, corner of King street and Place d'Armes. About 6 o'clock he entered the dining room and sat down to supper. He had partaken of but a few mouthfuls of meat when he choked, his face rapidly changing colour. He was pounded on the back and otherwise treated with the view of granting relief but without effect. Dr. T. M. Fenwick was sent for but found absent from his surgery. Dr. Phelan was then secured. On his arrival Juniac was still living, but the physician's skill did not avail, and the sufferer died shortly afterwards. Juniac was well known in the city. He was a quiet and industrious fellow. His remains, after death were taken to his daughter's home. The funeral took place to-day. Mr. McGowan states that the deceased had not been in his house for two months before.

FIRE THIS MORNING.

Rumor that the Powder Magazine was Threatened—Quite a Scare.

This morning about 10 o'clock, much excitement was caused by the report that there was a fire at Fort Frederick, opposite the city and immediately in front of the Royal Military College. The first announcement was received by telephone at the police office. The Mayor was communicated with. He ordered out the fire brigade. The bell was rung and the members of the fire department soon collected, but owing to the horses being beyond the fire limits some time was lost in taking the engine over the bridge. Only the hook and ladder waggon and hose reel were despatched on anything like time. On arrival at the scene of the operations it was found that the roof of the tower on the eastern side was ablaze. The tower was occupied by two members of "B" Battery and their families. From them it was learned that the fire originated from a defective flue. With the Babcock extinguisher from the College they had labored to subdue the flames, and had nearly succeeded when the heavy wind, blowing from the southwest, fanned it into a more threatening form. The firemen soon gained a mastery over it, however. The damage will not be great, but the danger for a while was alarming. The unusual excitement was due to the belief that many tons of powder were stored in the magazine not a stone's throw from the fire. The Government guarantees damage to engine or apparatus when called out to protect its property, but the engine got over the bridge and back to-day without accident—no small wonder truly. Capt. Fairclough and the few Battery men at hand worked energetically against the fire, but though the College authorities called out the city brigade the cadets were not even mustered to take a part in defence of Government property. The College has a trained fire corps. Why not have called it out first?

MARINE NOTES.

The Hero will lay up in a day or so.

The schr. B. W. Folger is at Picton light. She will probably load there.

The schrs. Ryan and Nellie Sherwood sought shelter in South Bay last night.

The str. Armenia arrived here this morning from Ogdensburg and left for Deseronto, where she will lay up.

Capt. G. Malone, of the barque Alexander, has returned from Chicago. The vessel paid its way all through the season, he says. He has laid her up at Chicago.

The Canadian propeller Europe, which carried away the lock gates at Port Dalhousie and collided with the schr. M. Fillmore there, has arrived in Buffalo with 17,721 bushels of barley.

The steam barges Saxon and Kingsford have arrived at Deseronto from Oswego, and were nearly cut through with ice. The Saxon discharged her load there. They both ran back to Picton.

The prop. Celtic arrived here yesterday for Hamilton with 100 tons of iron. She encountered a good deal of ice in the canals en route from Montreal. The Captain was afraid he would not reach Hamilton.

The schr. Eureka, as soon as she unloads the coal she now has, will go to Gananoque to load barley for Oswego. Capt. Saunders has made upwards of 25 trips across the lake this year. He will continue to run until the freezing of the lake occurs.

The schr. Erie Belle is still in the harbor awaiting favourable winds before sailing for Toronto. Her insurance runs out to-morrow noon, and she can hardly reach her destination by that time. The probabilities are she can not reach Toronto this season. Owing to the winds, which captains have noticed for the past month blowing from the west and south west, and which it thought will continue.

Additional Honors Conferred.

Rev. Dr. Wilson has returned from his brief vacation, during which he attended the convocation at Trinity College, Toronto, and had his scholarship acknowledged in a fitting and most appreciable way. Since his arrival in Kingston he has been still further honored. The following communication from the Bishop explains itself:

"MY DEAR DR. WILSON:—Since my return home I learned that you had attained to your degree of D.D. As shewing my appreciation of your example, of the honor which, amid many parochial duties, you have got by "good attendance to reading," I have great pleasure in appointing you to be one of my Examining Chaplains; and I trust it is not too late to ask you to take part in the ordination examinations next week.

"Believe me, faithfully yours,

"J. T. ONTARIO."

Dr. Wilson's cup of gratification runneth over. He esteems the favours of the Bishop the greater inasmuch as he has not asked his Lordship for them. He has been offered many excellent positions, but declined them. In this case he will accept, and with a feeling of satisfaction which even appointment to a rectory could not inspire.

Dr. Wilson's relatives in the ministry have been as prominently recognized as himself. His brother-in-law, a Canadian, Rev. A. O. L. True, though but a short time settled in his diocese, has been appointed by Bishop Kepp to the Rectory of St. Gabrael, about 200 miles from San Francisco, Cal.; and another brother-in-law, Rev. C. H. Mockridge M.A., has been appointed to the Cathedral at Hamilton. Dr. Wilson will receive the earnest felicitations of his many friends.

A NEW INDUSTRY.

Proposal to Establish a Wheel Factory in the City—A Fair Offer to the Capitalists.

Messrs. E. Armant and Louis Bradshaw have negotiated for the purpose of seeing what can be done towards forming in the city a Company for the manufacture of patent wheels. The latter is a genius and has three or four patents which are said to be very valuable. The first have a small factory in Montreal, but they have been crippled for want of capital. They desire to come west in the hope that the business will be improved in this respect, and that the works may be located more convenient to the wood which they require. They have been offered inducements to establish an industry of this kind in Toronto and also in Galt. With Mayor Penze they have had some correspondence and Mr. Armant and Mr. John Laidlaw have come here to test their financial chances and to judge themselves of the railway and other facilities of the place. The proprietors agree to sell their patents and good will for the sum of $25,000, to be paid in stock of the Company, and they bind themselves not to draw any dividends upon their stock until the other shareholders shall have received a dividend of 7 per cent. They are willing also, as a means of inspiring confidence, to have the works under the control and direction of a local Board, and they will labour in it themselves at foreman's wages. A number of gentlemen likely to take stock in it have been seen, and they will meet Messrs. Armant and Laidlaw at the Mayor's office to-night. Others interested in the scheme are invited to be present.

ALIVE IN A COFFIN.

A Young Woman Supposed to be Dead Comes to Life Again.

Quebec, Oct. 28.—A servant girl in the employ of Mr. Pierre Gauvreau, of this city, named Josephine Gautreau, recently received information from a reliable source of the sudden death of a younger sister, employed in a cotton factory at Lawrence, Mass. She accordingly donned mourning garb, but what was her surprise when on Wednesday last she received a letter, written in the hand writing of the sister she had supposed to be dead. From the letter she learned that her sister had been ordered by her physician to use chloroform to induce sleep, and, taking an overdose, she had been overtaken by a sleep so profound that it was thought she was dead. She was accordingly prepared for burial, and the mass for the repose of her soul was being celebrated, when all who were in the church were horrified by hearing a scream from the coffin. It was immediately opened and the young woman taken to the presbytery adjoining the church, where, under skilful attention, she quickly recovered, and is now on her way to her birthplace, in Quebec.

Winners of Gold Pieces.

To the Editor of the British Whig.

DEAR SIR,—Please permit us to announce, through the columns of your journal, the names of the ladies who have won the gold pieces competed for by the disposal of tickets for the grand drawing of prizes in aid of the De La Salle Novitiate and Normal School:

Mrs. C. W. Crowley, Princess street, having sold 122 tickets, secures the $20 gold piece, presented by His Worship Mayor Penze.

Miss H. Reeves, Brock street, having sold 60 tickets, secures the $10 gold piece, presented by Dr. Sullivan.

Miss V. R. Morrison, Johnson street, having sold 50 tickets, secures the $5 gold piece, presented by Dr. Phelan.

The winners of these prizes are respectfully requested to call for the same to-morrow, at our residence, from 2 to 3 o'clock p.m.

To the ladies who have so fairly and deservedly merited the prizes kindly offered by the distinguished gentlemen above mentioned, to all the other ladies who have so cheerfully disposed of tickets for the grand drawing, and to the ladies and gentlemen who have so generously subscribed towards the object of said drawing, we tender our most sincere thanks.

The numbers which have won prizes at the grand drawing in Toronto will appear in The Tribune and Irish Canadian of this week, and from thence be reproduced in the Kingston papers.

Yours sincerely,

BRO. HALWARD.

Kingston, Nov. 29, 1881.

Origin of the Word "Grog."

SIR,—The Montreal Witness of the 25th inst., has an article, clipped from the Halifax Recorder, on the origin of the word grog. The writer is altogether mistaken in stating that the word had its origin in 1828. I remember that in the year 1822, when the 10th Rifles lay in Montreal, some of the recruits when brought up to be tried for being drunk pleaded that their ration of Jamaica spirits made them drunk. Col. Andrews, then Commanding Officer, ordered the strength of the rum ration for the whole regiment to be reduced by adding an equal quantity of water. It was then called grog but I find the origin of the word grog dates much further back. See Webster's dictionary, unabridged.
