PLACES OF NOMINATION.

The Council also went into Committee (Ald. Gaskin presiding) while the places of nomination were appointed. They are to take place at the houses specified above in the following subdivisions: Nos. 2, 3, 5, 8, 10, 14, and 16.

CONSOLIDATION OF BY-LAWS.

The Select Committee on the consolidation of the City by-laws submitted an estimate from the publisher of the News, for the printing of the consolidated by-laws of the city, the adoption of which the Committee recommended. The by-laws will cost 70c. per page.—Confirmed.

HOLIDAY OBSERVANCES.

On motion of Ald. Gaskin, seconded by Ald. McCammon, the 26th and 2nd of January were declared holidays, to be observed as Christmas and New Year in lieu of the regular dates which fall on Sunday, the Mayor to issue the usual proclamation to that effect but with the understanding that it will not interfere with the elections.—Carried.

STREET RAILWAY TROUBLE.

Ald. J. Carson moved, seconded by Ald. Law, that the Mayor be requested to communicate with the Manager of the Street Railway and have carried out the arrangements with the city for the running of cars over the whole line of the road, in compliance with the charter.

Ald. McCammon—That matter should be attended to at once. Certainly the present condition of Princess street is an outrage against which the citizens have reason to cry out. The streets should be filled and rounded off properly. The centre of the highway is a fearful gutter.

Ald. J. Carson—At the bridge there is on the street ten or twelve inches of water. It is dangerous to drive across the track with a buggy.

Ald. McCammon — Capital election card: good for you, John.

Ald. Law related his experience. Last Thursday he attempted to cross the track and the horse tripping and falling caused a breaking of the harness.

Ald. Robinson had ordered the Engineer to fill in the street. It seemed as if this official could not obey orders.

Ald. J. P. Gildersleeve—The President of the road told me that it was the intention to put the road in a proper condition when the cars ceased running over the portion of road spoken of.

The Mayor—The filling in of the road by the city is one thing, but the collection of the cost of the same is quite another.

Ald. C. F. Gildersleeve—Can't we appoint a Receiver?

Ald. McGuire said there was another question—whether the Company had a right to cease running the cars over the entire line. The agreement with the city was that they were to run the cars from one end to the other, and he knew persons who had purchased property in Williamsville with the prospect that there would be easy access to the business portion of the city by means of the street cars. It was quite possible that the Company was leaving the street in the terrible condition in which it now was in the hope that the city would fill up the hollows and holes and relieve the former of its awkward position. The shortened line was not of so much service to the citizens as that which was not now in use. He would not agree to any measure which took from the Company any of the responsibility which attached to it and deprived the citizens of their rights.

Ald. J. P. Gildersleeve—I have been, under the impression that Ald. McGuire was again going to be a candidate for the representation of Sydenham Ward, but after that speech I should fancy he is going to run for Rideau Ward. (Laughter.)

The motion was carried, and the Council adjourned at 10 o'clock. The Finance Committee afterwards met to adjudicate upon back tax matters.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The Globe calls out lustily for a new rubber factory. Can it be that the editor's conscience is in need of repairs?

Guiteau was in the habit of subscribing for newspapers and never paying for them. Let there be no further sympathy for the villain.

The World: If there be a more stupid scribe in this province than the Smellfungus of the Mail heaven help that scribe, for a surgical operation cannot.

The World: Talleyrand said of the first Napoleon that he conducted himself as though good taste were his personal enemy. This is the only respect in which the editor of the Mail resembles Napoleon.

Though ridiculously weak in number in the Quebec Legislature the Opposition will be powerful in debate. Messrs. Joly, Mercier, Irvine and Marchand being all powerful performers on the jaw-bone. Theirs will be a case of all talk and no cider.

At the Irish National Convention, held in Chicago this week, an exuberant delegate named McMahon said he would equip a man-of-war against Britain and pay its expenses to England and back, and then handed in $5.

Boston Transcript: The cashier of the Bank of Prince Edward Island, having got his bank in a bad fix, has migrated to the States. We can't understand why he should come here. The United States market is already overstocked with such cashiers.

Guiteau's brother in his testimony on the assassin, described him as cold-blooded, selfish, and thoroughly disreputable, with no other aim in life than to become notorious. He is perfectly sane, and has always been so.

Mrs. Scoville, the sister of the assassin received a letter from him some days before the 2nd of July, in which he informed her of his intention to murder the President, and that she telegraphed her husband to return to Chicago, which he did, and heard of the assassination on his arrival. Had she telegraphed to Washington instead, the deed of blood would have been averted.

Cured by Prayer and Married.

Honsdale, Penn., Dec. 6.—The wedding of Miss Lillie D. Tyler, of Damascus, Wayne County, Penn., to Mr. John G. Mitchell, of the same town, took place a day or two ago, precisely one year from the mysterious cure of the young lady. Miss Tyler had been an invalid for upward of six years with a peculiar disease, which kept her confined to her room most of the time. She was treated by eminent physicians from New York and Philadelphia, but in vain. In October, 1880, she heard of a female in Connecticut who cured people by prayer, and to this person Miss Tyler wrote, receiving a reply appointing the 20th as the day when Lillie should, with her friends, pray for her restoration to health. The day came, and Miss Tyler was so weak she could scarcely raise her head from the pillow. The company included her family and her pastor, the Rev. Thos. Wescot. At noon they commenced their prayers, and before night the young lady was able to go about the house. As her cure has been entirely effected, she has redeemed her pledge made long ago to Mr. Mitchell, and they were married last Saturday by the same clergyman who prayed so fervently only a year before for her recovery. The case has attracted wide-spread attention, and the story as told by the bride is true in every particular.

Daily British Whig.

Oppifer per Orbem Diem.

Referring to the speech of Sir Leonard Tilley, at Brockville, in which he is reported to have said that agricultural machines could be purchased cheaper now than during the Mackenzie regime, we made mention of the heavy duty which the manufacturers had to pay, remarking that they could not meet their increased expenses without adding to the selling price of their goods. We gave an instance—that the Cossitt Bros., of Brockville, paid in duty on raw material in 1873 $3,071, and in 1881 $7,810, an advance in favour of the Government and against them of $4,739. An omission in a previous paragraph makes it necessary that we should repeat the statement, with the remark that farmers having to bear the tax, indirectly, would have cheaper machines still but for the N. P.

No man, except perhaps the late Hon. Lotellier de St. Just, has been attacked with such venom by the Tory press as Mr. Turcotte, late Speaker of the Quebec Legislature. Why? Because he chose to vote at a critical time in favor of Hon. Mr. Joly and assist in defeating a corrupt administration. Mr. Turcotte is not the only one who has changed his political opinions. Mr. Joly's retirement from office was brought about by a conspiracy most vile. Four of his supporters were tampered with and induced to desert him, the reward of two of them being seats in the Government and of a third appointment to a lucrative position under the crown. What were these but traitors of the worst kind, and yet their offences have been condoned and approved of simply because a party service has been rendered. The less said on this subject by the Tory press the better.

SIR JOHN'S AUTOBIOGRAPHY.

The Premier is not dead, is not very near dissolution, nor is he on the point of retirement. We state this to re assure the readers of our estimable local contemporary. The ridiculous eulogium of last evening, has, therefore, no particular significance, being merely a fitful explosion. Autobiography laid on with a white wash brush is a very pretty personal decoration and has the invaluable quality of offending nobody except the recipient. He usually is a very eminent man, but generally also he likes his blushing honors laid upon him with some regard for modesty and discrimination. The gentleman who heaps them up as a coal heaver would a load of coal does a well-intentioned but highly mistaken act of kindness.

Our contemporary is, however, fighting phantoms. No one, not even his most unyielding opponent in Kingston, has denied the eminence of "this celebrated man," "this illustrious man," who has been "a chief instrument" "under Providence" and the Daily News gush, of course, in transforming the provinces into a Dominion, though the late Hon. George Brown has been known as the veritable father of the scheme. But the electors of Kingston have every right to take exception to the sentiment that he has mightily honoured Kingston by representing it for more than a quarter of a century. The fact that the citizens "reposed confidence in him," to use our contemporary's words further, "while he was still a raw and untried youth," and that they stuck to him through thick-and-thin, through single and double shuffles, in the sunshine of office and in the very shadow of the Pacific Scandal, until his term had exceeded that of any politician of the century, is a powerful evidence that they placed Sir John under a deep obligation to them. How will the veteran Conservatives who have struggled for him year after year, at personal and pecuniary sacrifice, relish the taunt now thrust at them that the debt is yet against them, because he graciously honoured the city?

Our contemporary's simile between the fly and the lofty building, and the Daily News editor and the lofty Sir John whose faults he cannot see because of the "noble proportions of his whole political structure," is a very happy one, but the deduction is not so acceptable. Because Sir John was an eminent, an illustrious, a Providential man, therefore Kingston should sacrifice herself for the benefit of the rest of the country for another quarter of a century if need be. Fortunately for Kingston it has emerged from this sentimental, slow going, Conservative notion of "loyalty to Sir John" and has asserted its right to be looked after as other constituencies are, by home members, or those at least having a regard once in a while for the interests of their constituents, and who think it worth while to drop in occasionally and see them. They accepted as gospel truth his claim of "enforced residence at Ottawa," even as a private member, and by rapidly decreasing majorities warned him that Ottawa was the place he should offer for. This may be "bread and butter politics," but it is common sense all the same, and Sir John feels the force of it or we should not find Sir Hector Langevin paying particular attention to Kingston harbor, or the eminent, celebrated and Providential Premier at last promising a Kingston delegation to do something substantial for the place he, merely rewarded with the honor of his name.

Kingston Collegiate Institute.

To the Editor of the British Whig.

SIR,—I regret exceedingly that the circulars presented to the Council last evening make it appear that Mr. Gordon, mathematical master in the Collegiate Institute, holds only a Second Class certificate. Mr. Gordon holds a First Class. Even if he held only the lower grade, the large number of successful pupils whom he has from time to time prepared for the University and other examinations amply testify to his scholarship and qualifications for his present position.

Yours, etc.,

Lacons: Arrangement of Items of Local and General Interest—Gossip that is Readable.

"I'm not such an Orangeman as you think I am."—Capt. Gaskin.

The Street Railway came in for another dressing at the Council last evening.

The Belleville School Board is bankrupt and the teachers can't get their salaries now due.

"There are too many Catholics in the civil service in Kingston."—Capt. Gaskin at Harrowsmith.

The ruralists should be on their guard against the frauds which are now being practised by sharpers.

The Clerk of the Peace has been authorized to search for the service of jurors for 1879, 1880 and 1881.

The new Council is threatened with a revision of the consolidated by-laws. The retiring members feel for their successors.

During the season at Alexandria Bay and the Thousand Island Park quite a number of marriages seem to have been contracted.

John E Breuse and Dennis Sullivan have been appointed County Constables. The latter has subscribed to the oath, but the former has not.

Mr. John Duff, Police Magistrate, and Mr. R. M. Rose, occupied seats on the bench beside His Honor Judge Price at the General Sessions to-day.

Members of the Tory party have an impression that Sir John Macdonald will succeed the Marquis of Lorne as Governor-general of the Dominion. Very improbable.

Petitions are in circulation at Waterford (and receiving signatures) praying for the release of Bedford Green, now serving a term in the Kingston Penitentiary for forgery.

The Ottawa Citizen says the young men who follow the leadership of Sir John Macdonald know that he is not perfect. Thank goodness, the number is not innumerable.

The farmers who have been holding their grain will lose heavily. The American market quotations show a great drop in prices. N.P. is not much avail in the present emergency.

SCANDAL AT SHANNONVILLE.

An Aged Man's Amorous Misconduct—Flying to Escape a Public Exposure of His Sin.

(Belleville Intelligencer.)

The good people of Shannonville are at present very much exercised over a scandal of sufficient dimensions to serve as a sole topic for conversation in a much larger community. A wealthy miller, who has for several years been carrying on business at Shannonville but living in a village in Prince Edward County, was sitting in his office one day, about a month ago, when a lively and good looking young woman entered for the purpose of making change. The miller, notwithstanding the frosts of three score years and five, and in spite of the fact that he was a prominent church official and a local preacher, could not smother the amorous flame that awoke in him as he gazed on the young lady. He made overtures to her, which she scornfully repelled. Her refusal, however, only served to fan his amorous flame to a greater heat, and he laid hold on her. A desperate struggle ensued, the result of which was that youthful vigor triumphed and the lady escaped from the loving embrace of her ancient lover. An attempt was at first made to hush the affair up, but it gradually leaked out and became almost the sole theme of conversation among the fashionable society of Shannonville. The husband of the lady had only been married to her some three months and was naturally indignant at the attempted usurpation of his conjugal rights. He came to Belleville shortly after he heard of the affair, and instructed a lawyer of this city to institute proceedings against the would be disturber of his family peace. But, worse than that, the church officials met in solemn conclave, deprived their erring brother of his official dignities, withheld from him the privilege of preaching, and incontinently turned him out of the church. Unable to bear the weight of these humiliations, and dreading the legal troubles which were threatened, the unhappy old gentleman disposed of his milling property at a sacrifice last week, and left on Saturday night for parts unknown, one more illustration of the woes that wait upon all those "who love not wisely but too well."

Sabbath Observance.

To the Editor of the British Whig.

DEAR SIR,—I have been informed on good authority that work is regularly carried on in the Locomotive Works in this city on Sunday. At first I could scarce believe the report, but on making further inquiry found that I had been rightly informed. We all rejoice in the benefit the Works are to the city in bringing mechanics here, but there is no one but what will regret that such an evil has been introduced as the desecration of the Lord's Day.

There is a Sabbath Reformation Society in this city and it will be well, if now, as when the street railway violated the sanctity of the Sabbath, the Society take steps to suppress this evil. Hoping action will be taken immediately in this matter,

I remain, yours sincerely
A LOVER OF THE SABBATH.

VIENNA CONFLAGRATION.

A Great Burial—Hundreds of Bodies Interred—Scenes at the Grave.

Vienna, Dec. 12.—The bodies of 126 victims of the disaster at the Ring theatre were interred at the Central Friedhof yesterday by their friends. To-day 151 were placed in the vast common grave that, before it closes, will have received the few charred remains and ashes of 700 more of the victims. Of these now buried only 125 have been identified. The rest are unrecognizable by their friends and relatives. This is best, for the memories of the loved departed are happier than they would have been otherwise. The vast excavation is 108 feet long by 14 wide, with three openings for lowering the coffins. It will be of all, irrespective of their confessions, Catholics, Protestants, Greeks and Jews, all rest together as these fetid death together. It was a solemn and touching ceremony. Twenty thousand people and walked the long four or five miles to the great cemetery in Vienna. A company of lancers and cavalry rested as a guard of honour at the portals. From the gates to the semi-circle of the gates in the centre of the cemetery two lines of infantry extended, broken for two-thirds of its extent by another line extending to the right and left, the whole forming the outline of the cross. Around the head of the cross were the semi-circle arcades. In front of these were 92 metal coffins of all sizes, covered with wreaths, in the same semi-circular plan. Between the two portions of the arcade was an immense catafalque lighted with a forest of tapers. In front were placed the deposited by the mourners and imperial and official sympathizers. Then the procession of clergy and officials went to the large grave and the coffins were lowered, one after the other, into the great grave, where they were received by dim figures down in the gloomy vault and placed beside each other in long rows. At two o'clock the ceremonies at the Friedhof were over. The remains of the other six or seven hundred victims will be placed in large metal coffins and interred as found, without further religious ceremony.

TREATY CONDITIONS.

Important Diplomatic Correspondence—National Obligations Reviewed.

London, Dec. 12.—It is stated that in a despatch which the United States Minister here received from the United States Secretary of State is elaborate, and in cities strong, historical evidence to show that the Clayton-Bulwer Treaty was regarded both in England and the United States, from the time its signature, as a failure to adjust the relative claims of the two powers to a controlling influence in the waters of the new world. It insists upon its abrogation as essential to the future good understanding between them. It is reported that this despatch from Earl Granville is in reply to Blaine's circular touching the Panama Canal. It is said that Granville invites the attention of the United States to the terms of Clayton treaty as binding the United States to assent to a joint protectorate and guarantee over any transit of the Isthmus.

AMERICAN DESPATCHES.

New York, Dec. 12.—The Tribune says Representative Willets, of Michigan, who devoted so much study to the subject of Polygamy, will introduce several bills designed to make more effective the present laws for its suppression. One bill provides that the legislative power in Utah shall be vested in a Governor and Council, consisting of nine members, appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate. It is understood that some time before his assassination Garfield held a long consultation with Willets in regard to the form of Government for Utah. At first Garfield favoured in remitting the Government of the territory to the Governor and the Judges of the Supreme Court thereof, but finally he assented to Willets' views.

The Sun says Blaine expects to be relieved by his successor on Wednesday or Thursday. It is understood that Frelinghuysen will make a few changes in the Department.

Coal Oil Explosion

Ottawa, Dec. 12.—Mrs. John Dunn, a widow, lived with her two small children in a little cottage in Mount Sherwood, and earned a living by charring in the Geological Museum. This morning Mrs. Dunn rose about a quarter past four and went down stairs to make a fire. Shortly afterwards one of the children heard a moaning noise, and thinking something had happened ran down stairs. He found the kitchen full of smoke, and his mother lying on the floor in apparent agony, with her clothing still burning in patches where it was not already burned off. He screamed an alarm, bringing the other child and a young man down stairs. By this time both the floor and the walls were on fire. They extinguished the fire and carried the unfortunate woman to bed. The poor victim was burned to a crisp from the neck to the ankles. There is no possibility of recovery. The coal oil lamp was found on the kitchen floor with the top blown off, giving evidence that an explosion had taken place.

Fool of Somebody's Nest.

The Belleville Ontario truthfully says:

"The Kingston News is an enigma. We have tried to get at the meaning of some of its profound editorials, but always gave up the task in despair. Rhetorical flourishes, disjointed and ambiguous, are made to do duty for argument. With the assurance of an oracle, it undertakes to expose some sin the Ontario has committed, anent the Globe's report of the late Tory convention, and after a presumptuous plunge into the Pyerian Spring, it emerges—a drowned rat. It accuses us of having stigmatized the convention as 'a nefarious organization.' We deny the allegation and defy the allegator. It was a "Tory organization," or convention, if you please. That's bad enough in all conscience, but it was not "nefarious"—not quite. With equal presumption the News pretends (only pretends) to question our knowledge of that historical English institution of the 15th century, yclept the Star Chamber; and then, to overwhelm us with its erudition, it pitches into the Journal of Commerce without another word about the Star Chamber. This may be rhetoric, but we repeat, it is not argument. * * * What the Journal of Commerce says about Sir Leonard Tilley's figures may be relevant to the matter, but we can't see how. It is never too late to learn, and though one of the bald headed young men we are not adverse to sitting at the feet of this modern Gamaliel for a while."
