The Toronto Teleprain mentions as a solution of the exemption difficulty, the suggestion that a sort of permissive act might be passed conferring upon cities the power to abolish exemptions or to let them alone. The reason assigned for such a step is the fact that the exemption question . no which largely, in fact almost a , affects the cities, rural constituer. . being troubled with but little of the and of property now exempt from tax and. It is suggested, therefore, that a cu r -r could be conferred upon cities : esting them with the powers-which now inhere in the Legisla: ure -to abolis all exemptions objectionable to the local majority. This may be a very fair plan and may work well, though we cannot but think that it looks like a betrayal of weakness on the pert of the Legannin, this to abnes gate its functions in favour of municipal corporations.
