SATURDAY NIGHT.

As flows the river,
Calm and deep.
In allegee toward the ses.
Be floweth ever.
And conseth never.
The love of God to me.

What passe he bringeth
To my heart,
Deep as the soundless sea
How sweetly singeth
The soul that clingeth,
My loving Lord, to Thee

He has the largest life who lives in lives of the largest number of people.

One set of beneficence, one act of use fulness, is worth all the abstract sentiment in the world.

The idle should not be classed among the living; they are a sort of dead men not fit to be buried.

Benefit your friends, that they may love you still more dearly; benefit your enemies, that they may become your

To pin out faith on another man's sleeve, and submit to be led by authority, deprives us of independence, and subjects usto just contempt.

Woman and men of retiring timidity are cowardly only in dangers which affect themselves, but the first to rescue when others are endangered. - Richter. No trait of character is rarer, none more admirable, than thoughtful inde-ings of others. Three-fourths of the successful men of the day owe much of their prosperity to a wife's help. The load of life is so heavy that it takes a team of two to draw it. The ship not only wants a captain, but a

There are some days when it is impossible to think, and when it is unwisdem to do so. The mind, like the maid, has whimsical spells of wishing to be let alone and having its own way. Only on certain days are the oracles to be consult-

It is easier to pull up many weeds out the heart; and to procure a hundred flowers to adorn a knot, than one grace to purify the soul. It is more natural to corrupt man to envy, than to imitate the spiritual excellencies of others.

The language of sermons should always be kind. During the preparation let the soul be filled with love; make no concealed or sharp thrusts intending to wound feelings or repay some fancied insult.
It may show the wisdom of the serpent, but not the harmlersness of the dove. think it is Francis De Sales who says.
'I would give one hundred serpents for one deve.'—Bishop Simpson.

It was a first command and counsel of my earliest youth, always to do what my conscience told me to be a doty, and to leave the consequence to God. I have always followed it, and I have no reason to complain that my obedience to it has been a temperary sacrifice. I have found it, on the contrary, the road to prosperity and happiness and wealth; and I shall point out the same path to my children. -Lord Erakine.

That view of life which makes of this world an arena for money making, and the other view which makes of Heaven a mere bank of deposit for treasures 'which neither moth nor rust corrupt, and where thieves do not break through and steal,' are alike ignoble. The highest heaven which we may hope to attain when we quit the life that now is, is not above the sititude of our own minds, and the lowest hell is not deeper than our own bosoms. What heaven is we know not, nor can we tell till we reach it, if perchance we be thought worthy; but there is no warrant in holy writ or in the revelations of our own reason for believing that it exists for us apart from our characters and capacities. We must in some sense take perishable treasures are not accumulated to our credit in a distant locality. To follow the figure, every man opens his account in the next life with the deposit he

A marry or cheerful countenance was always one of the things which Jeremy Taylor said his enemies and persecutore could not take away from him. THE ELECTORS

KINGSTON

As the Election for the Local Legislature will take place within a few months, I beg to inform the Electors of the City of Kingston that I will again be a Candidate for the position I now hold, and that I will commence a personal canvass of the city in a few days. I rest my claim to the position on what I have already done, and when elected will follow on in the same straightforward course I have always pursued, having an eye single to the presperity of the Province, the advancement of the city, and specially to the welfare of my fellow workmen. WM. ROBINSON
