A CROWNING VICTORY.

To all his other laurels the Canadian oarsman has added to-day the champion ship of England. He may now be safely pronounced the champion oarsman of the ing victims be bounced from the Civil world, His victory will occasion but little surprise, as the settled conviction previously prevailed that Hanlan was invincible as the oar, and without doubt the greatest living oarsman. Canadians have every reason to be proud of their champion, who has proved himself to be such an unexampled prodigy of unexampled aquatic power and skill. The universal satisfaction which prevails in Canada at the old-world victories of Hanlan will find vent in a most enthusiastic ovation of welcome to him on his return to his native country. He well deserves all the generous honors the Canadian people will be glad and proud to bestow upon him.

MILLIONS IN IT.

Mr. Glad-tone once startled the world by predicting the 'decline and fall' of the British Empire from the ultimate exhaution of the coal-beds of that tight little Island, which is the centre of its power. Now Sir William Thompson comes to the rescue with a reassuring suggestion. He directs the attention of the scientific world to the fact that the Falls of Niagara can be utilized as an exhaustless motive power. As such the mighty cataract is declared to be equal in possible power to as much steam as it would take the annual supply of all the coal mines in this mundane sphere to produce. Truly, as the Toronto Mail puts it, it is astounding to think of the enormous creative power bers as are not engaged as presiding exwhich nature has here placed at our aminers shall, as the answers are handed run to waste. ROCK SLIDE.

A Huge Stone Takes a Tumble

Clifton, June 16. - Yesterday about a.m., a rock about 50 feet long, 30 feet wide, and 20 feet thick, slid off the bank, taking everything in its path, a distance of about 100 feet, into Wilmur's Mill race, on the American side, completely cutting the water from the wheel. It will take some time and considerable expense to remove it. Two of the guys of the Suspension Bridge were broken.
