came known how general had been the wrecking. The upper end of Edward street and the streets adjoining, from Shankill street down, presented the appearance of a little town that had with stood a siege. The streets were thickly strewn over with stones, and these must have been carried from a distance as some of the missiles lying on the roadway were stones such as would be found in a field. At bag was picked up in which it is supposed stones were carried. The locality was visited by a considerable number of respectable inhabitants belonging to other portions of the towa, and great surprise was expressed at the extent of the depredations. Mr. Nicholson, whose shop, at the junction of Edward street and Shakill street was broken open and his goods stolen, het, in consequence of the disgraceful treat ment to which his house and goods were subjected by the mob, been obliged to leave the dangerous position which he occupied in the very midst of the Pound and take a shop elsewhere. THE BAD FEELING WHICH PERVAILED in Lurgan appears to have spread to the country, for on Saturday night a disgraceful outrage was perpetuated on an inoffensive Protestant named David Corner, in the townland of Derrytrasns, in the district known as the Montiaghs, about six miles from Lurgan. It seems that Corner and two or three others were proceeding homeward to the Bannfoot, with horses and carts, when a mob of about 100 persons attacked them. Corner's companions succeeded in escaping, but he was not so fortunate, as he was severely kicked and beaten and his horse killed. None of the pre-petrators of the outrage have been arrested. The owners of the houses which were maliciously damaged in Lurgan applied for compensation to the amount of £555 9c., and it was expected that other claims
