THE WOOLLEN MILL.

TRIAL ESTABLISHMENTS OF THE CITY. We venture the opinion that tew outside of those doing business with it have anything like a correct idea of the importance of the woollen mill established on King Street West by Messre. How-ton & Hughes. A year ago, or thereabouts, the building was commenced upon a site which is possessed of many desirable features, with which Place l'Armes (the situation first thought for the factory) is not to be compared. The structure is four stories in height, and is strongly and substantially built, as it requires to be, to enclose and carry 94c.; from Toledo, 64c.; from Detroit, the weighty machinery employed in the manufacture of woollens and clothes. In April last the factory was opened, and since then it has been in constant operation, its products being so much in demand that its resources have been taxed to the utmost. At the present time the machinery is kept running until mid night, otherwise the orders left with the proprietors could not be fairly met and fulfilled. A walk through the justicution is very interesting, especially under the guidance of Mr. Hewton, who yesterday kindly sulightened us in regard to an occupation of which we have lately read much in cablegrams from England, where the cotton factories have passed through their busiest days. In the base ment of Messrs. Hewton & Hughes' mili are situated the engine (about twentyfive horse power) and a boiler, which is large enough to supply not only steam enough for motive power, but for heating and dyeing purposes. Conveniently placed side by side are the dye tube, the much respected and beloved by his larges ed on Monday on account of the num The Me- | washing machine, the yarn spinner, shearing machine, napping and full cloth -Sportamen in Cape Vindent would machine, and the gig, all of which have himself to language suited to the com- the Governor-General's prize of £50 sterimportant functions to perform, and render a service rapidly and effectively. LETTER FROM TORONIO.

RIC-LATE ROYAL VISITORS-THE JAPPRAY CASE, ETC.

(From our own Correspondent.) The excursion season just closed has been the busiest ever known in the history of Toronto, and the citizens have every reason to congratulate themselves on having got through the summer's out ing without any of the terrible accidents that have happened in other places. This is more remarkable when we consider the great number of steamers employed, the keen competition, and above all the immense crowds carried. When we remem ber that eleven passenger steamers left the city daily, making on an average three or four trips each to the parks and sur rounding districts, besides the Island for ries and a great number of steam yachts, and that at times there was not standing room on them, the wonder is that they all remain above water. As it is there were several very, very narrow escapes. Among the fleet the most popular boat was without a doubt the This boat is beautifully furnished throughout, and having a very full and efficient crew was the favorite with the people, almost every afternoon, and on Saturday, and Ireland. which is generally a half holiday, I have less favored crafts. The lecturer explained that the air is made impure by exhalation from fifth, garbage, draine, &c., also from the tecaying vegetable matter to marshes. Intermittent, typhoid and other fevers are caused by breathing air thus rendered impure. Collinsby was instanced as a place where intermittent fevers had been caused by marsh air. After fever or other sickness, rooms should be thoroughly disinfected and clothing purified. The germs in clothing can be killed by heating to a high temperature.
