A CREAT INJUSTICE.

It is no venture to say that the utterly undeserved attack upon the Reformers of Kingston by the member for Frentenac will excite equal astonishment and indignation among those he has so gratuitously maligned. We believe that many of the fair thinking Conservatives of Kingston will join in a repudiation of a charge so utterly unmerited as that formulated by Mr. Kirkpatrick in his perfretly futile attempt to account for his Chieftain's steadily decreasing majority here. The Hon, gentleman felt impelled by a sense of honeur to defend Senator Campbell from some reflections having reference to that Hon. gentleman's suspicious connection with Sir John's lifeand death struggle for the representation of this city in Parliament. That our readers may see for themselves the terms in which these utterly undeserved charges were made in the House we quete from the extended reports in the public papers. With a hardihood that makes one hope that the reported remarks are an exaggeration of his actual words, the Hon gentleman is saidito have declared "The two elections in Kingst in were the very last that the hon, gentlemen opposite should refer to. More open and snameless intimidation and corruption had never been practised in Canada. ( Me official he said had been so intimi dated, that he took refuge in a coal cellar, while another had suffered by the placing of another party near him. Large numbers of workmen had then been emplayed in pulling down fortifications, the men being employed on tickets furnished by the committee. Under these circum. stances it was not to be wondered at that the majority of the hon, member for

Kingston had been reduced." It must have been a very nice sense of honor indeed, to say nothing of consisten cy, which could prompt the hon, gentle. man to defend the Hon. Mr. Campbell, because he was not in the Commons to speak for himself, and yet could permit him to hurl charges like the above against men who were not present, either personally or representatively, to refute his allegations. To be sure "our own John A. was there, but then, to the wildest creations of the most fertile Tory brain, he would be sure to append his endorsement just as he solemnly assured his Kingston auditors last June, that every exaggeration of the Stretcher was a positive fact. His first charge as to the "open and shameless intimidation, we indignantly repel on behalf of the local Reform party. The disclosures in the Court of Justice demonstrated the fact that "open and shameless corruption" had indeed been practised on the part of Sir John and his fellowers, in order to secure the paltry majority by which they managed to snatch a short lived victory which soon turned out to be more disgraceful than defeat. The in contestable facts of the case—the unseating, reprimanding, and albut disfranchising of Sir John, the actual disqualification of several of his prominent supporters, the judicial reflections on Senator Campbell, for his suspicious absence when he was "wanted" to attend Court, the history of the fund of which he was the bursar, all go to prove that whatever force there may be in Mr. Kirkpatrick's charge of "shameless corruption," is derived from the actual experiences of his own party. The inane nonsense about the self-concealed official is the coal cei lar is entirely too silly for belief, and too puerile for rebuttal. In regard to the hon, gentleman's final charge, we defy him to prove that the men on the fortifications were admitted thereto on 'tickets' which vouched for their bena fides as party men. Such a charge is a gross insult to the workingmen of Kingston and a base injustice to the gentlemen who were entrusted with the management of the works in question. We are in a position to prove that there is not a vestige of fact underlying this charge, which is a pure and simple creation of Tery suspicion. Large numbers of men were employed, tis true, on the necessary repairs at Fort Henry, the Dockyard and elsewhere, but they were engaged without the slightest reference to their party antecedents. So severely impartial were those in charge of 'the works' that some of the most pronounced Tories in the city were engaged thereon throughout, being retained in employment after Reform workmen, quite as good as mechanics and of course much better politically, had been discharged. We speak by the card and are quite able to prove what we say In the face of these well known circum stances, no gentlemen can have any ex

case, save that of ignorance of the facts which, of course, is no excuse at all, for the fulmination in Parliament of such to-

"Is this guarantee for the free, independent, and untrammelled action of their representatives in the House, to be played fast and loose with, to suit the wnims and political exigencies Mr. Alick Mackenzie!" We think we have heard of a Canadian 'statesman' who did not hesitate to debauch the electorate of his country with the barter and sale and base betrayal of a vast public trust. In what scathing terms should we not be denounce i were we, in reference to that political crime, to start the query 'Are the public purity and rectitude of the people of this young nation to be tainted and polluted at the very inception of its history to suit the political exigen cies of Mr. Jack Aluck Macdonald?
