It would seem to be quite a difficult matter for the electors of St. Catharines to elect any body to any position whatever. Tory organ in the case.

The Quebec crisis continues to be th occasion of much political excitement and comment, not only in the province more particularly interested, but all through Ontario, and doubtless in remoter parts of the Dominion as well. In ante-Confederation times, the interest taken by old Upper Canada in the political affairs of the sister province, was necessarily great, inasmuch as under the legislative union, then subsisting, one section of the country was much more directly affected by the doings of the other, than is possible under the new order of things. TH'N AND NOW.

The Telegram is being approvingly quoted by Tory organs to the effect that the Ontario Government is reluctant to go to the country with that of the Dominion-that the Provincial Cabinet may pull through the electoral ordeal, and retais a majority in the new House, but that a simultaneous appeal to the people with the Dominion Government would materially lessen its chances of success. Of sourse this is all mere moonshine, The Federal Government is just as strong with the people of Ontario as is the Provincial, and will poll equally as large a delegation from this prevince. How changed, however, is this assumed state of affairs from the political situation in the days of the " patent combination," which constituted Untario's first Government subsequent to confederation. Then the Ontario Cabinet was notoriously the mere creation of the Central Government, and as the wires were pulled at Ottawa, the Previocial automaten performed at Toronto. The communication was com-
