Opifer per Orben Dioor,

WEDN'SDAY EV'NG, MARCH 27, 1878. The recent speeca of Hen, Geo. Brown in the Senate, seems to have made a de. cided impression in political circles at the cently proposed to take the duty off malt; capital and throughout the country. The which, although imposed only last session, fire and vigour which he threw into the has already proved to everybody's (dis) he made the popular chamber of old to Canadian interests ! There is a very upper chamber of the reprosches that "national" policy, since to impose a dignity and general inutility. The vigor- send to us is the recommended means of pregnant with argument and was a successful rebuttal of the Macpherson finof charity to suppose that the fossil Tory majority in the Senate was open to conviction, but the veteran Liberal Leader's the country for all that.

The Toronto Telegram thinks the farmers are being "coddled" by the Untario Government in the matter of the establishment of the Tile Draining Fund, and declares that the manufacturers have been refused a similar though less direct tariff, by the Dominion ministry. Far already has more of it than any in the favour is to raise the price of what they make and others buy, in other words, to nority - already comparatively more prosperous than their peighbours. In the matter of protection a decent show of fair play must be observed all round, and the vast class of consumers must be recognized as entitled to some share of consideration. When our Toronto contemporary undertakes to tell us again what the manufacturers are entitled to he should think of this.

_____ REPUDIATION. The recent outspoken utterances of the London Times on the Halifax Fishery award, and the manifested disposition to fined to the late belligerents alone. merited rebuke should sting, with the self to be. Preparations for this conit presents itself. Among these Blaine and Butler are painfully but appropriately prominent. In regard to the last named nothing need be said. He is too notorious to require comment, and very little notice or value will be attached to his opinion in the premises at home or abroad. With Blaine the case is somewhat different. An ex-aspirant and almost a successful candidate for the highest office in the gift of his nation, it is unfortunate for the good name of himself an undoubtedly legitimate national obligation. That he has done so will furnish additional reason for congratulation that he failed to secure the Presidential chair for, however it may be in other matters with President Hayes, he has this, and in the matter Silver Bill, abundant evi dence of his desire to vindicate the na tional good name by upholding intact the American national honour. Gen. Hayes unfortunately represents but a small mi nority of his people, and has been for the time completely overborne by the repudistists, who have everything their own way just now, and who may be expected to assume without compunction the national disgrace of rejecting the award of a Commission whose finding they were in all honour bound to respect. The American nation will lose far more in the depreciation of its foreign credit than it will make or save by the repudiation of its just obligations. As the Times declares, "No country opinion, and is the very question which required the arbitrament of the commission. Toe Geneva award in the matter of the 'Alahama' claims was preposter-usly excessive, and has so been proved by the utter inability of the United States Government to scare up sufficient number of claimants to absorb the amount awarded. None the less on this account Great Britain promptly paid over the amount in full, rightly esteeming her plighted national honor to be far more valuable than very many times the amount of the lama; a the Southern cruiser did to American shipping during the civil war. If consummated by Congress, such a course will, as the Tunes put it, "stamp the American policy with the double discredit of mesoness and trickiness."

RETALIATORY FAILURE.

If a reciprocal tariff for Canada was the only effective weapon with which to fight the prohibitory tariff of the 'States how is it that the Tory leaders threw it to the winds when the Government rediscussion recalled the bygone days when satisfaction to have operated injuriously Canada ring again with his phillipies large expertation of malt from Canada against the corrupt and extravagant re- to the United States, while the exportagime which then had sway. THE RUSSO-BRITISM DEAD-LOCK Although the Turco-Russian war has been formally terminated by the ratification of the treaty of peace the Eastern question is as full of absorbing interest as ever, particularly to the peoples of the British and Russian empires. England rather than yield the point in dispute or that Britain would resort to war for its enforcement, we cannot yet bring ourselves to believe. Judging from her cautious but relectant deference to British opinion during the past few weeks the probability is that Russia will be the first to yield. It is to be hoped, in the interests of a general and permanent peace, that the trouble will be averted in this way and that Russia will not further jeopardise the peace of Europe by insisting on a violation of European interna-
