BACKING DOWN. But a short time since the Tory journals were enumerating Sir A. T. Gali and Sir Francis Hincks as Conservative standard bearers in ensuing elections. They are now busy endeavouring to remove from the public mind the impression that these gentlemen are active supporters of the new Reform Ministry of Quebec. Of Sir Francis they prudently may but little, since in his letters the Journal of Commerce he assumed a decidedly hostile tude towards the late Ministry. regard to the other Hon. gentleman, the Quebec Constitution a Conservative campaign sheet, declares "We have the best reason for stating that the use of Sir A. T. Galt's name in connection with an intended campaign in the Eastern townships in behalf of the Hon. Mr. Joly's Government is unauthorized. Thus the hope of the hon, gentleman's neutrality is imparting a little consolation to a party which but a few days since was counting upon his support, not only, but boasting of him as one of its prospeccomfort this, but it is a stubborn fact dispute, in regard to this personal phase that Sir Alex. Galt, and Conservatives of his apright stamp are permanently alienated from the party of corruption.

Names may not appear upon the surface, but some queer mainuations are made with reference to this point, by those who profess to be conversant with the matter.

The closury clause contains more truth than poetry. Names Tory slanderers are rather careful about mentioning. by these who profess to be conversant strong incentives to justify, by a little limits of Bulgaria have onlybeen indicatwith the matter.' The above may be taken as a specimen insinuation, queer enough in all conscience and made by those who, while professing to be conversant with the matter, know literally nothing whatever about it. It is also a specimen of Tory fair play. What the prosent Opposition dare not say openly they insinuate covertly in the hope and with the intention that some damage may result to their political opponents. They are pursuing a mistaken as well as a cowardly policy. Such miserable tactics will only recoil upon themselves and ensue in their own political discomfiture.

In spite of the support of $200 in a game, was the complainant. Dr. Orton, the Chieftain, Mr. Kirkpatrick, and a few others, not numbering a score and a half in the whole House of Commens, the motion tendering protection to the farmers has been kicked out of doors, a large preponderance of agricultural members themselves assisting in its ejection. This shows the estimate in which the protectionist party cry is held from the rural standpoint. As a whole the country is essentially an agricultural one, and it is outrageously unfair to expect the great farming community of Canada to concede to their manufacturing fellow citizens that protection which has been denied to, in fact has been declined by, themselves. It is grossly unfair that one section of the country should be bolstered up at the expense of the rest of the community. The | tween these two stools Sir John's "Nafarmers want no protection.
