Opifer per Orbem Dicor. FRIDAY EVNG. MAY 3, 1878.

On May Day the Paris Exposition was opened with immense eclat, and in exact accordance with the intended programme. The Canadian Trophy is said to attract considerable attention, and our display, as at the Centennial two years ago, will do credit to the country generally, as well as particularly to the Government and their Commissioners. It will doubt less be some little time yet before every thing in so vast an exhibition will be reduced to that order and regularity which are essential to its general attractiveness and beauty. The lowered fares on the various ocean lines will very shortly start an unprecedented stream of travel from all over this continent to the World's Fair, which promises, in the matter of excellence, attendance and general success, to be no whit behind its predecessors.

Mr. Rine's little indulgence in "friend ly playfulness" would seem to have been generously as well as pretty generally condoned by very many of his Toronto friends. While some are doubtless es tranged from his "movement" enough ardent supporters and sympathisers re main to give him a hearty welcome back to the Queen City and to throw a considerable amount of public enthusiasm into his work which has been resumed in able distinction of being the solitary that city with considerable vigour and Leader of the party of one. Whether the old Mitchell now claims a similar honour celat will attend the resumption of his The Mail told us but the other day that the ardour of many may have been cooled Opposition, and we saw that he did not the sympathy of many more may be an unduly loud outcry and a bitter personal persecution.

It will be remembered that the Hon. T. N. Gibbs, of South Ontario, not long since ardently importuned the Government to grant as early a dissolution as possible, as he was panting to return to his constituents for a renewal of that confidence which he felt sure they were as eagerly anxious again to repose in him as | the "independent" organs and clean both their tried and trusty representative. parties out at the polls at next election. Mr. Gibbs' desire to test South Ontario | Should they do so, doubtless the Leader on this point will be gratified quite soon of the "Left Centre" will be sent for to enough for his own comfort. Already his form a Ministry, and will by this means opponent has been named, Mr. F. W. Glen, of Oshawa, being the prospective minion. Thus the shrewd ex-Minister of Reform candidate. Mr. Gibbs' great Marine is trimming his vessel and shiftstrength lies in the town of Oshawa, ing his sails to catch the coming breeze. where, in various mills and factories, he When the hon, gentleman is wafted into has at least 300 men employed. Mr. Glenn will, even in this respect, prove a formidable antagonist, he being President of the Hall Manufacturing Company of Oshawa. Mr. Glenn is one of those maunfacturers who believes that the incidental protection of a revenue tariff is al that can, in fairness to the rest of the community, be conceded to the manufac turers. It is more than likely that with such an opponent Mr. Gibbs may be elect ed to stay at home, as he was in the general election of 1874.

Not only have Tory predictions been defeated and Liberal expectations ex ceeded by the results of the Quebeelections but the supposedly cooler and shrewder calculations of the neutral organs have been upset by the Reform suc cesses of the struggle. For example, after weighing carefully all the chances and the probabilities, the Toronto Telegran prognosticated

"The result will probably preve to that Mr. July will likely capture few constituencies from the Tories, and will come back with a sufficient number of supporters, not to carry on a Government, but to make a most effective Opposition. The chief cause of Quebec's troubles has been a Government which had too many supporters, and which did pretty much as it pleased. The actual result has shown that the people of Quebec were more thoroughly disgusted with Tory misrule than it was thought by any outsiders it was possible for them to be. It will now, perhaps, both the Federal and Local Governments be admitted that the Lieut. Governor did not mistake the situation; that not terests of the people. The event has proved that he and his new Ministers read most correctly the handwriting which doomed the DeBoucherville Government.

OFFICIAL PARTIZANSHIP.

Sir John Macdonald has brought up in the House, as a question of privilege, the statement that has been made in the press to the effect that Mr. Moylan, Inspector of Penitentiaries, had appeared with him upon a public platform in Peterborough. Sir John has risen to explain that "at the time referred to Mr. Moylan was not an employee of the Government at all." While thus giving Sir John the benefit of this refutation, it must not be supposed that the Tory Chieftain has been at all anxious to decline the active support of Government of view between London and St. Peters- which crushed the immense structure like for Mr. Moylan, although not in the Government employ at the time in question, he certainly was in the Government pay, having received from Sir John himself advances for which no value was ever returned to the extent of over $2,000 for the purely party services of himself and his organ. Having given no equivalent for these public funds thus fraudulently spent upon him, perhaps he felt bound, either by a sense of gratitude for the cash favours he had received or by that other species of gratitude-'a lively sense of (penitentiary) favours to come' to pub licly support his benefactor, and so had double reason to appear beside him on a

WASHINGTON LETTER,

To the Editor of the British Whig. SIR:-A very apt sermon was preached last Sunday in one of our city churches on the subject, "How shall we bury our dead ?' I say it was apt, for custom and fashion are demanding so much in this direction of late, and are becoming so arbitrary regarding it, that it is high time both pulpit and press cried out against eighty trains for home ward bound it for the sake of the living. The dead, for whom all the show and parade now customary at burials is made, are in no way helped or benefited thereby, and, beyond doubt, the living who are left oftentimes suffer much because of expenses incurred for the stylish burial of friends. I recall an instance-a tittle child of poor parents. An expensive casket and robe and flowers were procured, a long line of hired hacks was in attendance, and the bereaved father and mother had scarcely decent clothing to wear to the funeral. The debt incurred for that cere mony so harrassed and wore upon the father, that he was actually hurried himself to his grave as a result. The mock funeral of Victor Emanue' as it was celebrated here, was a wicked thing, viewing it from our standpoint. Thousands of dollars were expendedeven a rich and costly casket and pall were secured, and floral decerations enough paid for to have fed hundreds of hungry mouths for weeks.
