BRAUTT IN A BOX. OPTURE LOVE THAT DID NOT BUY SMOOTH. [From Virginia (Nev.) Chronicle, June 8. When the lightning express train from this city reached Reno last evening the baggage was at once transferred from the Virginia and Truckee Railroad Company's cars to those of the Central Pacific Railroad Company, which stood on the track in front of Chamberlain's Hotel. A wooden box, sixteen inches high, thirtytwo long, and twenty-two wide, which had been checked to Reno, remained on the Virginis and Truckee car until the baggage had been loaded on the Central Pacific train, when the railroad hands returned, and, no one appearing to claim the box, it was carelessly thrown on a truck and taken to the baggage-room of the Virginia and Truckee Railroad Company.

There it was transferred to the care of A. J. Hartely, station baggagemaster of the Central Pacific Railroad at Reno, who to the Central Pacific baggage mom, about 100 feet away. There the box (which had been banged about the way for which taggage-smashers are noted the world over) was thrown on the scales and its weight ascertained to be 132 pounds. The box having been stood on end on the scales, it was rolled off carelessly into a corner, and the beggagementerturned to leave the room. As he did so he heard a faigt moan proceeding from the box. Thinking be must be mistaken he listen ed for a moment and heard another moan. This led him to examine the box more closely than before. He saw two round holes about three-fourths of an inch in diameter on one side, and two similar boles at each end, while on another side, on which there were no holes, chips of wood about a fourth of an inch thick had been inserted, evidently to keep the cover from closing tight. Upon ascertaining these facts Mr. Hartley no longer doubted that the box contained a human being. Hartley at once opened the box, when he aspertained that the contents consisted of a very pretty young Chinese woman in an insensible condition | Polynesian | Nestorian | Acadian in consequence of her having been stood Sardinian on her head while the box was being Hibernian banged about the depot- She had a (aspian tlanket with her, which was spread on Scandie'in N. The door of the baggage room having been left open to admit fresh ar, a Chinaman walked in. As soon as the woman set eyes on him her face became wreathed in smiles, and she stepped forward as if to throw herself in his arms. The China
