Kearney's Great, Speech

spoke, evidently noticing that his hear-ers were not in entire sympathy with him. His speech was considerably milder than those delivered in Boston and Lynn, and was quite free from his usual profamity. For a wonder the word "hell" did not occur once in his re-marks. He announced this as the first Funds Invested in Canada...... $100,000. gun of the campaign. The American Republic, he continued, was born in riot, nursed at the cannon's mouth, and reared in blood. In 1880 a new republic must be born. I see in 1880 the State House at Washington opening for a working man to enter. We have a great labor king. I tell you, and I tell it in serious humility, that by pooling your isone solid phalanz. For ninety years the Insurance country has been divided on these is sues. The question is whether the country is to be an empire or a republic. Al-ready we see the lecherous bondholders trying to bring out General Grant. They have sent him to Europe to prepare himself, but I know that the workingmen will be so solid that his issues cannot prevail. We have seen the rostrum occupied by the honorable this and the honorable that, till every honorable bilk and bloated whiskey-drinking bondholder was on the platform. Now we see workingmen talking to workingmen. When you see mechanics in the various offices of the State, I don't care what laws they make they will benefit the people; of course they will benefit them. selves, but when they do that they benefit the people. I am down on lawyers; they are pirates and thieves, and these bank presidents! It is a fine thing to be one, and wear a standing collar, but under the English laws they would all be indicted, for they know they are receiving money that they cannot pay back.

And I hate England. (Applause.)—N. Y. Herald.
