Cincinnti, O., 7th.—A prominent business man has just returned from New Oriesns, describes the situation as sortion of the banks with guns threatening to shoot if any attempt was made to land. At if any attempt was made to land. At Memphis, which was reached as evening was approaching a most depressing scene was presented. Not a dog, mule, nor negro could be seen, the houses did not seem inhabited; every place seemed descreed. Vicksburg was almost as bad as Memphis. Terrer reigns all along the Mississippi. If a boat had freight for any town it was taken on to New Orleans, town it was taken on to New Orleans, At 5,00 a.m. town it was taken on to New Orleans, the inhabitants refusing to receive it. At New Orleans things looked much better. The men were at work at the lowee, and business was transacted. The return trip was made by rail. At Grenada not a white man was visible, and only a few negroes. At Holly Springs about 200 came aboard. The fever had broken out the night before. The scene at the description. The scene at the description of the first standard for the first derot was heartrending, wives leaving husbands, mothers leaving sons, bidding them farewell. At one place a mother with three children got on the train. Her husband had died an half hour previous, and before his death she had promised to leave on the next train to save the lives of their children.
