Chairman McGibbon, of the Laurent, No. 1, had been counted, the citizens' committee, presided, and speeches were made by Thos. White, member of Parliament, for Courtney, Judge John-son for Hanlan, E. Leflamme's majority the unfounded and cruel charge that altegether, so far, by eight votes-with Courtney sole the race, and demanded four more polls yet to re count. - Witness. that the author of the rumor receive the contempt that he deserves. The audience showed its approval of this sentiment by TIPRICE.—A fragrant, stimulating, astringent long and enthusiastic cheering. Both of and disinfectant. It is composed of materials the scullers were greeted with honest and hearty greetings. The vast audience ing the most beneficial effects. It imparts to of ladies and gentlemen nearly killed the breath a most delicate fragrance, restores Courtney in attempting to shake his hand, to health mordid condition, preventing disease and his friends had to lift him from the in the muceous membrane of the gums, and stage to the gallery to save him from producing an agreeable and refreshing sensaiou being crushed. The following are a fewo the who is considered the soul of honor in | many names who speak and write concerning all relations of life, to one of Courtney's intimate friends, who lost his home and all that he had in the world on the race. They assert their belief that he rowed honestly. Hanlan told me that Courtney gave him all that he could do to win the grams on the subject, were read to him

lan will hear from him again next Edward Rankin, who acted as judge for Courtney, has published a letter, in which he says : "I venture the judgment now that Courtney is the better and more enduring sculler of the two; that despite the roughness of the water, he succeeded whenever he made an effort in closing with Hanlan, and that at the finish he rowed the Toronto man and lost the race by ceasing to pull at a critical moment when nearing the goal. Had he continued rowing, and hauled out into the course instead of resting on his oars, the race was his own. It seems incredible ance of its efficiency as a curative of most disca finite in the nature of unfairness is developed, it is only just to hope and believe that the race was lost through an error and occupied by the undersigned, situated on the corner of Brock and Gordon Streets of judgment." A long arecial from Auburn to the New York Herald states the true condition of affairs there, where Courtney's most prominent backers reside. It gives the true inwardness of the matter and, if the

A NOTABLE CASE. - Napoleon's gardener at St. Helens died on the island early last August at the patriarchial age of ninety years. Tom Evans entered into the English Army when a lad of nineteen, and was sotively engaged in the Peninsula War, losing an eye in the battle of Toulouse. After Waterloo his regiment formed the guard which accompanied the French Emperor on the Bellerophon to St. Helana, and he was employed for several years as a garde-ner at the Longwood House. To his dying day the veteran gossiped about Napoleon and the great wars, and his last request was that he should be buried with military honors.

Evidences of a fearful struggle existed in the conditions. in the immediate vicinity the body, but nothing was found to indicate who the perpetrators of the dastardly deed had been. The body was very much bruised, and the shull broken several places, showing that the robbers must have been most determined characters. When Mr. Stewart left Port Hope, having sold his grain, he was known to have in his possession over one hundred and fifty dollars in cash, not one cent of which was found on his body. The team has not yet been found. The authorities are industriously looking for the perpetrators of the Jacques Cartier Election.

At two p.m. to-day, Mr. Justices Mackay gave his decision as to the validity of a certain ballot paper (marked for Mr. Laslamme) found during the recount on Saturday last not bearing the initials of the deputy returning officer, as required by the law, and to which Mr. Girouard objected. His Honor rejected the ballot, on the grounds that he was not an election judge, and therefore could not enter into an investigation of the polling of his ballot as to whether it was accidentally or intentionally that the itnitials did not appear on it; that even if t was alone through the neglect of the deputy-returning officer and no fault of the voter, it was the latter's business to see that the regulations laid down in the law which are posted up for his in formation at the polling places are complied with, and moreover, that the voter might possibly have by some means
