REMINDERS. Euknousy Meeting of the Young Catholic Societies at 8 p.m.

Yesterday we saw that the Irish Canvidues, having served the temporary Tory purpose, was being kicked aside as unworthy of farther recognition. Poor Phipps, one of the real fathers of protection, and one of the few honest proteccommonly early intimations that burnt claws are all the raward or consolation demn and deplore the recent they may expect from the cunning monthem. This is one of the many differences between Tories in Opposition and to dispose of such sentiments as are the same Tories in power.

It is some consolation, not only to the personal friends of Mr. DeVeber, but to all admirers of fair play, that that gentleman will shortly have an opportunity of getting direct from the people that justice which was denied him by the refusal of the St. John Judge to recount the ballots. Mr. Tilley will very shortly have to go back to the people for reelection, and the strong probabilities are that his paltry little majority will disappear and Mr. DeVeber be elected in his stead. At all events ex-Governor Tilley. with his majority of six and a recount refused, will be admitted to occupy most precarious position. Still he must risk his political neck by entering the Cabinet, since it was with this avowed purpose in view that he stepped down and out of the Governor's chair.

Of all the mean and miserable politics fizzles that ever exposed the rag-tag and to the irrepressible ridicule of all unicokers, the torchlight procession (11) of last night must be awarded the palm. It was a demonstration, 'tis true-a most suc cessful demonstration too of Tory weak ness. For the length of it, it was a lord liant procession indeed, for the torches were manifestly much too numerous for the few archins who could be prevailed upon to carry them. Less than half block in length and consisting exclusively of boys who certainly should be hand somely "recouped" for their tramp around town and for the general las. at their expense, the local Tory

To enforce a violent prohibitory tariff against England-inleed, to threaten us with exclusion-in order to give foreign nation the benefit our own market, is a little trying the temper of the country when its trade is bad and it is suffering from a suddenly contracted outlet for its goods. Such policy is anything but a link in the chain of sympathy and affection which we are told, and doubtless with truth binds Canada to the Mother Country. In these circumstances we are glad that Lord Dufferin is to be succeeded by a young nobleman whose personal popularity across the Atlantic is as indubit of the Empire. Equally explicit and in the same vein are the following atterances from the Poll Mall Garette

At the same time it shakes the ground under the feet of those who urge that our free governed colonies, if released from the imperial connection, would be better customers. Here clearly is Canada (for the time at least), with all her loyalty and fervour, voting to all appearance in favour of the exclusion of our manufactures. Would she do so any the less because we ceased to appoint a Viceroy or defend her commercial interests ! Clearly this matter of hostile tariffs imposed by our colonies on English goods, in the chimerical idea of removing depression, must be dealt with ere long in a complete and statesmanlike

A Serious Looking Fire-Prince Edward Radway.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Trenton, Oct. 10. - About half-past four on Wednesday afternoon a fire broke out from a defective chimney in the frame dwelling house of Mrs. Parent, in East Trenton. Before the brigate arrived at the place the building was completley guetted. The heavy gale prevailing at the time carried the flames to Mr. Anger's store and dwelling, then to Win, Bedor's dwelling a distance off. One time it threatened a serious conflagration, as half a dozen houses were on fire at the same time, from the burning shingles and cinders. The brigade worked well assisted by a gang of men from Gilmour's Mill with a hand engine. Mrs. Parent lost nearly everything; insured in Quebec. Mr. Anger's loss is covered by insurance in Montreal, Mr. Bedor no insurance, Mr. Manning, contractor for the Prince Edward Railway, with a full staff of engineers, has made Trenton his headquarters. Mr. Manning means to have the road running next year. A bonus by law to assist the road will be submitt ed to the ratepayers of Trenton and no doubt carried. The grain market is very active this fell. The principal grain is barley, more has been purch used here than at any other p int on the bay.
