LITTLE GRAVES.

A ferny dell in forest home,
It rises to my view,
When I recall that summer day
When last I rode with you.
Dear friend, through streets where mosses cling
And running woodbine twines,
And hidden graves peer out beneath
Their guard of plumy pines.

A little brae o'errun with brooms
Beneath a tangled copse,
Two giant trees entwined their roots
And interlaced their tops.
And hidden there, without a stone,
Three little nameless graves—
As well be nameless; never stone
Life from oblivion saves.

And oh, to lie in such a spot
Through the still constant years;
To watch the blossoming of the spring,
The glory that appears
When autumn lights upon the hills
Her watch-fires near and far,
And waves through all the forest ranks
Her oriflamme of war:

Were surely lot to give no cause
For tears or vain regret,
But rather for a thankful heart
That thus life's bounds were set,
Oh, trust me, friend, God sweetly smiles
When thus a soul he saves
From life, and bids the mosses grow
On little nameless graves.

RITUALISM.

SOME PHYSES OF THE HIGH CHURCH MOVEMENT IN NEW YORK.

(New York Correspondence.)

Dr. Tyng is opposed to High Churchism. He calls it "Candleism," and he says he hates this ritualistic "kerosene religion" as Satan hates virtue.

The Ritualists in New York are bold and untiring. They have all torn out their pulpits, and the clergy now worship with their backs to the audience before high altars covered with candles, after the Catholic fashion. In a word, the Low Church people run to high pulpits, while the High Church people run to low pulpits and high altars. The Low Church people accuse the High Church people of worshipping candles and pictures, while the High Church people charge the Low Church people with worshipping a pulpit with a man in it.

The chief Ritualists are Father Noyes and Father Morell, of St. Alban's; Father Brown, of St. Mary the Virgin, and Father Ewer, of St. Ignatius. Father Ewer used to be called Dr. Ewer. The Ritualists clergymen are all called Fathers now like the Catholic Fathers, and they all hear confessions. The High Church Ritualistic service consists of candleism, boys dressed up in night-gowns who chant and carry banners in processions, and in kneelings and fooling with cups of wine before the altar. Father Ewer, besides lighting dozens of real candles, also has innumerable gas jets, which are made to imitate candles.

Father Ewer made a very witty reply to Dr. Tyng the other day. He was visiting Tyng's church and, looking at the high pulpit, his eyes twinkled as he remarked:

"Yes, Brother Tyng, I understand your high pulpit. They all worship Tyng in your church, but in my church they all worship the Lord on the altar. You and Talmage and Cuyler and Dr. Storrs and Beecher set yourselves up as altars to be worshipped. I get down with the people and turn my face to the Lord."

No one can accuse the Ritualists in New York of practising ritualists for profit; for ritualism does not pay. Father Ewer used to preside over Christ Church, one of the most aristocratic churches on Fifth avenue at $10,000 a year. He resigned this charge to receive $4,000 in a little stern-wheel ritualistic church over on Sixth avenue. He used to live in a brown-stone house when he presided over the fashionable church, but now he lives in a cheap French flat over a Sixth store. He is looked upon by the more worldly preachers as insane on the subject of ritualism. Many persons say that Fathers Brown, Noyes, Morell and Ewer are leading their little flocks over to Rome. They are almost there already.

When I asked Dr. Tyng what he thought about tallow candles and night-gown religion he said: "Oh, candles are cheaper than brains, and they draw a bigger crowd. It costs $200 to pay Dr. Chapin or Dr. Hall for one of their great sermons. Now, $200 spent in candles instead of brains will pack any church in New York. The people don't go to worship; they go to see the fireworks. If you call it religion to blind out God's sunlight, and then put up miserable little two-cent tallow candles to the glory of the Lord in its place, I don't."

Depressed Trade.

Sir Stafford Northcote, speaking at Birmingham Saturday night, admitted the depression in trade, and consequent loss of elasticity of revenue. Nevertheless he did not anticipate the necessity of asking of the country renewed sacrifices. He condemned over anxiety respecting the fulfilment of the provisions of the treaty of Berlin. Disturbance of the waters does not cease with the falling of the wind. An important moment would be next May, the period of complete Russian evacuation. He was convinced that the Powers would not suffer the treaty of Berlin, which cost so much, to be set aside. The English Government's policy would be one of firmness, prudence and moderation, and they would watch over the interests of England's Indian colonial empire. The government would not have the heart of England with it if it thought the interests of England were limited to these small islands, meaning Great Britian and Ireland. One great principal of their policy is the preservation of the Ottoman empire, and they intended to introduce materis' improvement in Asiatic Turkey.

A Pointed Sermon.

Dean Stanley is regarded by many here as having performed a special mission in the sermon preached by him yesterday in the Cathedral. He paid a most graceful compliment to the retiring Governor-General, stating that his success was attained by the outpouring of the very life-blood of a generous nature. He concluded: "May his successor, who in a few weeks will take his place on these shores, with the dearest and most sacred pledge that the Sovereign of England has yet given the distant possessions of the Crown in like manner devote the energies of his ancient and noble race, and the excellence of his blameless life to the fulfilment of the great task entrusted to him, may he and she, when their work is closed, depart with the like reward of the thankfulness of a loyal people, with the like consciousness that they too as well as their predecessors have used to the utmost the greatness of their strength, that they too in their time have moved forward the hours of the eternal year of redemption, of redemption from all evil and of advance towards all good."

FALL SHOW.

The annual show of the Amherst Island Agricultural Society was held at Stella in the cheese factory field and premises, on Tuesday, the 8th. The day being fine, there was a large turn out of Islanders, and the steamer Hastings brought many from Bath and vicinity. The show was better than any held previously.

THE CABINET.

Our Quebec correspondent informs us that the Cabinet was completed and the remaining Ministers sworn in at that city last Saturday. It will be observed that the number of Ministers has been increased to fourteen by the addition of Senator Wilmot, without portfolio, thus completing the representation of New Brunswick. This arrangement will give deep offence in certain quarters where Mr. Costigan is regarded as a popular representative. Certainly Mr. Costigan is not second to Mr. Tilley, or any other member from New Brunswick, and the only reason of his being ignored will infallibly appear because he is Mr. Costigan. We never advocated that a man should be selected for a Cabinet because he was a member of any profession, but it is intolerable to be forced to admit that the fact that because Mr. Costigan is what he is he has been excluded from a seat in the Cabinet. The relegation of the Hon. Mr. O'Connor to a back seat is also regarded by his supporters at Ottawa and elsewhere as something like a rebuke to their aspirations. These things, taken with the elevation of Mr. Bowell, and the general character of the new administration, do not lead us to regard the selection of Ministers as the happiest that could be made under the circumstances.—Ottawa Herald (Catholic.)

Orangemen vs. the Mayor.

The Orangemen are determined to bring matters to a speedy issue. Notices of suit are to be served on Mayor Beaudry, informing him of the action of damages to be brought against him. The law in all such cases—the proceeding being against a public officer—affords the defendant a month's time in order to prepare his defence and get up his case. This together with Mr. Joseph Doutre's trip to Europe will delay the opening of the matter before the Court about two months. The plaintiffs are jubilant and feel certain of ultimate success. David Grant sues for 10,000; Thos. Ingram, Fred Hamilton, Alexander Gibson, John Liburn, William Garven and John Cromwell for $5,000 each. The suit is brought, not against the Corporation, but against the Mayor personally, and in case it goes against him he will have to foot the little bill out of his own pocket.—Witness.
