was no human being beside ourselves in in the vicinity.

'We again scrutinized the corpse. It had neither changed its position nor its appearance. The flesh had grown perfectly cold sud the muscles rigid; there was no trace of vitality in it. Now,' continued the Professor, wiping his head nervously, 'I have arrived at what I imagine will be the limit of your credulity. I do not expect you to credit what followed: but I swear to you, on the word of the last covery have been used within the last covery have been used within the last ed; but I swear to you, on the word of an honest man, that I do not deviate from the truth as much as a syllable when I the truth as much as a syllable when I ly say that this is really the only sure cure Election of a Member for the heard the voice proceeding from the distant part of the room, saying audible. with increasing wonder. "To be sided to resume my former existence,' was the rejoinder. 'I dare not leave my poor wife unprotected in this and by the power of my love I have remained near her, and have been able to communicate with you. I cannot, I will not, be separated from her. I must return to her in my human shape.

'It is needless to detail what followed. In the meeting which occurred between these two poor young creatures, we felt ourselves more than repaid for the startling experiences of the previous night. It can do no harm to add that we claimed and exercised the right of securing their future prosperity out of our ample means. We learned no more of their former history than that the persecution of those whose wishes their marriage had opposed, had driven them to hide their poverty and misfortune in the wilderness. We have never heard of them since.

'The yourg man, as we discovered on questioning him, remembered nothing of his sensations while unconscious, except a vague, dream-like, and yet intense sorrow for his young wife. He had no knowledge whatever of the voice which had addressed us, and appeared to believe that he had labored under a temporary suspension of animation arising from starvation. We did not combat his belief, for we believed that he was actually dead, and that he only returned to life through his great love.
