THE PEOPLE'S FAVORITE.
The New Dominion Monthly.

THIS CANADIAN MAGAZINE has slowly but surely worked its way into the hearts and homes of thousands of our best Canadian families. But a Magazine of the stamp of the Dominion, should not stop at a circulation of a few thousand. It should steadily advance on ward until a large circulation is reached. The Magazine is now a book of 128 pages, filled with highly interesting articles, many of which are illustrated, and the majority by Canadian authors. The December Number will contain a lenthy article entitled
"Oka and its Inhabitants,
Which will give an account of the habits and appearance of the present Indian inhabitants, together with the history of their tribe. The present religious difficulties existing between the Indians and the Seminary are fairly treated. The whole matter is laid in a clear and concise manner before the reading public. The article is illustrated by numerous engravings from sketches taken specially for this publication. The JANUARY NUMBER will contain besides the general full assortment of reading matter, a most interesting article on
"The House of Argyle and the Marquis of Lorne."
This will also be profusely illustrated with first-class wood cuts, and should be read by every person who wish to become thoroughly acquainted with the history of the Governor General. To any person subscribing to the
NEW DOMINION MONTHLY,
The December Number will be sent FREE. The subscription prices are as follows:—

New Dominion Monthly	$2 00 per annum
Dominion Monthly, together with Weekly Witness	2.60 do do
New Dominion Monthly to Ministers and School Teachers	1.50 do do

Single copies of the Dominion will be sent on receipt of 20 cents. Samples will be furnished on application.

FOUND ON A DOORSTEP.

SAD STORY OF A NEW ORLEANS FAMILY—ONLY A BABY LEFT AFTER THE YELLOW FEVER SCOURGE.

(N. Y. Herald.)

A sad story of the recent yellow fever scourage in the South has just come to light. A few evenings ago a well dressed baby about one year old, was left on the doorsteps of a well-to-do-citizen, Mr. Newcomb of Providence, who found it there on answering a sharp ring of the door bell. It had a tiny gold ring on its finger, and a gold neck-lace with a dollar attached around its neck. By the side of the infant (a girl) was a complete outfit of richly trimmed clothes. A letter was also found, in which the broken-hearted mother, who had left it there, stated that she had lost her father, mother, brother, husband and three children by the yellow fever in New Orleans, and that she fled to Cairo to escape the plague, with her baby; that both were attacked with the fever in that place and recovered, though the writer felt as though she was losing her memory, and, no doubt, would soon be a raving maniac. It appeared she had known Mr. Newcomb and his family, and in the letter she stated that, fearing she would lose her identity she had made up her mind to give them the baby, as she knew they would be good to it. She urged them not to look her up as she was going to New York on the midnight train, "there to die unknown." She signed herself Mrs. Josie Hall. Mr. Newcomb was greatly affected, for he had known the lady's family, who, he said, stood high in the South, Mrs. Hall being a beautiful and accomplished lady. A letter was received from her the following day, dated Providence! she had written it before leaving the city, which simply gave instructions for the care of her offspring.

Two days after the receipt of this letter a telegram was received by Mr. Newcomb from Boston, stating that Mrs. Hall was in a lying condition at a hotel in that city. He immediately started for Boston, and arrived in season to receive the dying woman's instructions. She begged him to be good to her child and to send her body to New Orleans for interment. She left some money to pay her funeral expenses, and also some for the care of the child. The remains were forwarded to New Orleans.

A letter received from the latter city throws some additional light on the sad affair. Mrs. Hall, it appears, while deranged with grief, had fled from the city in her father's carriage, accompanied by the faithful coachman, and went to Cairo, where the coachman died. After her arrival there her uncle and aunt also died. She immediately left Cairo and fled north. The baby will be tenderly cared for and the mother's instructions will be faithfully carried out.

TUESDAY EV'NG, NOV. 19, 1878.

AFTER DARK.

When twilight gathers in her sheaves,
And wheeling swallows skim the flume,
The ploughman, turning homeward, leaves
His plough mid-furrow in the broom,
And through the melancholy eyes
The orange drops its milk-white bloom.

The old delights that go and come
Through sorrow, in the falling dew,
Like waves that wore a wreath of foam
The darker that the waters grew,
Flow round my solitary home
At evening, when the stars are few.

So, sad and sweet as bridal tears
For broken homes, to see withdraw
The child we love, have gone the years
We climbed the frosty hills, and saw
Decend on all the frozen meres
The sunlight breaking through the thaw.

Like one who in the driving snow,
When all the untrodden paths are dim,
Hears far-off voices, faint and low,
Across the woodland calling him,
I hear the loved of long ago
Singing among the seraphim.

And as the soft, dissembling light
Falls, shadowing into dusky red,
I think how beautiful the night
With gathering stars is overspread,
Like seeds of many an old delight
Through sheaves of sorrow harvested.

WASHINGTON.

TWO POLITICAL LEADERS—THE PHYSICAL WEAKNESS AND YET COURAGE OF STEPHENS.

No man is more noticeable in Congressional halls than Alex. H. Stephens, the veteran statesman of Georgia. During the last session he was in such poor health that he could not stand but sat in a wheeled chair, in which a servant brought him from his hotel to the Capitol. He made several speeches during the winter, and while delivering those he was constantly rolling himself back and forth in the area in front of the Speaker's desk, gesticulating and moving about as freely and as naturally as if he was on his feet. Also, except when speaking, he remained in his out-of-door wraps—cloak, hat and gloves. His faithful black servant takes him in his arms and carries him everywhere without an effort, as well he may, for the big brained man's body weighs but 80 pounds. When in health he tipped the scale at a hundred, and it is not unlikely that his physical litleness has saved his life more than once, for, being a fine adherent to the old English and Southern code, of gentlemanly "honor," duelling, etc., and withal a man of hot temper and excitable, he has repeatedly challenged politicians, who have impugned his motives or questioned his integrity. Herschell A. Johnson, Ben. Hill, and other prominent men who are known to be adherents to the duelling code, have been challenged by him, and have declined fighting him, in some cases undoubtedly for the sole reason of his puny body and illhealth. In 1848 he had an altercation with Judge Cone, in his own State, and afterward, when the two met at a hotel, the Judge called him a traitor. Stephens, who was unarmed, immediately struck the Judge across the face with a small cane, whereupon his opponent drew a dirk-knife and attempted to stab him. Stephens, though tiny, was agile and evaded the thrust, but received twenty more or less serious wounds in different parts of his body, and was at last seized by the Judge and thrown to the floor. Then, forcing his head back and holding the knife aloft the Judge shouted: "Now apologize or I'll cut your throat." "Never! cut away" was the plucky reply, and as the dirk descended, Stephens caught it, nearly severing his hand in the effort, sprang to his feet and was doubtless saved from death by the interference of common friends just at this juncture. The scars he received then and there will go to the grave with him. He refused to appear against the judge at his trial and their relations thereafter were most amicable. Stephens has been a great leader in his party, but younger and fresher men are needed now. The recognized ability of Senator Thurman in the matter of leadership is such as to inspire the entire Democratic party with confidence. A man of sterling worth, strict integrity and boundless information, he is sure to win the trust of strong men and to become a formidable antagonist to any who dare oppose him.

Washington, D.C., Nov. 15th.

"FREE DELIVERY."

The other day a somewhat impecunious looking individual stopped in front of a store in the suburbs, the sign of which announced the fact that 'goods were sold cheap and delivered free to any part of the city.' After a lengthy survey of the window, the man went in and after asking and carefully noting the price of half the articles for sale, he purchased five cents' worth of cayenne pepper.

'Shall I send it?' asked the shopman, with quiet sarcasm.

'Yes; I'm not going up just now. No. 199 Pearl street south.'

Having duly noted the address, the 'free delivery' man enquired 'if there was anything else?'

The purchaser then, after lengthy inspection, bought a three-cent tin mug. 'That'll do for my little niece,' he said, 'send to John street north, next door to the Hospital.'

'Oh, certingly,' replied the storekeeper, nobly restraining a desire to kick his customer out.

Half an hour soon went by, and at the end of it the fellow purchased four clothes pegs, seven boot laces and three apples, and wanted the shopkeeper to send each purchase preposterously long distances in the city.

At length when he wanted a small tin snuff-box sent into the country for his mother, the shopman's patience oozed away. He gently but firmly 'bounced' this extravagant customer out of the shop.

'Hadn't you better get a sugar stick for your grandmother?' he said as he lifted him up the front steps, 'or a plug of chewin' for your dear grand daddy, and have me wear my horseflesh scedin' 'em round miles for you?'

Then he threw all the parcels out, and while the customer sadly picked them up he pulled down the 'free delivery' sign and proceeded to convert it into firewood.

—Japan advices state that the Court Martial in the recent military mutiny sat over an extended period. Fifty-three private soldiers were condemned to death, and over one hundred to imprisonment. The condemned men were shot in batches of fifteen on the morning following the close of the Court.

THE FISHERY COMPLICATION.

LORD SALISBURY REPLIES TO SECRETARY EVARTS COMMUNICATION.

The reply of Lord Salisbury to Secretary Evarts on the Fishery Award has been made public. His lordship contends that there is nothing upon the face of the award which gives countenance to the supposition that the Commissioners travelled beyond the limits assigned to them by the treaty. Evaris' argument is entirely deduced from the magnitude of the sum awarded, and amount to a review of the award, upon the question of fact and pecuniary computation referred to them. He contends that the sum awarded is excessive, and that therefore the award must have been arrived at by some illegitimate process. But to argue against the validity of the award solely on the ground that the conclusion arrived at by the arbitrators on the very point referred to them is erroneous; is in effect the same thing as to dispute the judgment which they have formed upon the evidence. For Her Majesty's Government to undertake the same laborious task as that of the Commissioners is out of the question, as the time intervening before the payment of the award is too limited. But a more serious consideration is that Her Majesty's Government could not sit as a court of appeal in a case in which they have been litigants, and in which they had taken up a position in direct antagonism to the American Government. Her Majesty's Government considered themselves entitled to $15,000,000. The arbitrators have reduced the amount by two-thirds; but having formally engaged to submit the matter to this arbitration, they do not think it is open to them to enquire how it was the Commission came to form an opinion upon their claims so widely different as a ground for assuming that the arbitrators have imported into their judgment a consideration which the treaty did not authorize them to entertain. Her Majesty's Government thus can only accept now, as they have accepted before, the decision of a tribunal to which they have solemnly and voluntarily submitted. His lordship concludes his argument by pointing out how absurd it would have been of Britain to allow the United States to reap the advantages of the concessions made by the treaty, and to be paid for, if the question of payment could be made a nullity, by any such factious objection as that the want of unanimity among the Commissioners.

☞ Is health worth having? If it is, protect it. It is a jewel as easy lost as virtue, and in many cases as difficult to recover. In this climate, and more particularly at this season of the year, people are very apt to take cold and suffer from sore throat, coughs, spitting of blood, and pulmonary complaints generally, which if not checked immediately lead to serious consequences. The question arises, which is the quickest and most effectual remedy? Bryan's Pulmonic Wafers have been before the public for twenty years, have always given perfect satisfaction, and invariably effect permanent cures when taken in season. Sold by all druggists and country dealers at 25 cents per box
