Thd Irish Canadian expresses "painful surprise" that Sir John did appoint the Hon. John O'Connor to the vacant Judgeship. After the experience of the Irish Canadian with ; the Tory Chieftain we should think that any other treatment at his hands than treachery and disappointment would have been pleasant a surprise as its present experience of him is a "painful" one. Sir John Macdonald is credited by some his apologists with the intention to have raised the late Mr. O'Reilly to the Bench; we have shown with how much reason in former issues. He had about as much intention to raise Hon. John O'Connor to a similar dignity. The Tory Chieftain is the pie-crust promiser of the Dominion. He can make and break the most solemn promises with equal facility, and his success in raising expectations is only paralleled by the effrentery and treachery with which he can disappoint them.

I have no wish to disparage art galleries, museums, public libraries, science lectures, and various other socia institutions, the value and true uses of which I may perhaps attempt to estimate on some other occasions; but I am certain that music is the best means of popular Canada, a fact which, we have no manner recreation. It fulfils all the requirements In the first place it involves no bodily fatigue, since it can best be enjoyed sitting down. There is no straining of the nerves or muscles, no effort of any kind, but mere passive abandonment of the mind to the train of ideas and there is this peculiar advantage about melody, that per se, it is absolutely pure and remote from trivial ideas. The song and the dance may have their associations, good or evil; but the pure melody in itself is pure, indeed; it is gay, athetic, or stately, or sublime, but any case there is something in the thrill of a choice chord, and the progression of a perfect melody, which seems to raise life. At times it "brings all Heaven before us." And there is this further advantage about the exhibaration and elevation of mind produced by true music in the musical, that it is, more than any other form of excitement, devoid any kind. Burglary-Fire---Accident---Etc.

(By Telegraph To-day.) Montreal, Nov. 23. -The residence of Rev. Mr. Bland, Methodist, was entered by burglars last night. Fortunately one of Mr. Bland's sons heard the noise, seized a sword and put them to flight. They took only a few articles.

The steamer for Quebec, owing to the storm last night, was obliged to return to the city and land her passengers. When the fire broke out in McIntosh's boiler shop last evening, the guardian of No. 2, while driving repidly with his men perer, as referee in the San Juan dispute, a merchant said to-night that if Mr. bour, having made a very fair passage. the right side. When the last to held wheat till spring before selling advance of the Vice-Regal party, and her was crossed a rocky plateau pitched out, landing on his head amid a heap of bricks and stones, on the road, and three others on the waggon, includion that wheat was very cheap in the the Sarmatian's delay at Moville by bad steadily, firing briskly, and evoking a ing McRobie, also received severe injurneighborhood of eighty cents, and he had neighborhood of eighty cents, and he had weather.
