WEDNEADAY. SECOND Free Lecture by Prof. O. S. Fow-ler in the City Wall. MESTING of Kingston Lacrosse Club Angle American Hotel at 7:30 p.m.

The electors of Grey have again been voting on the Dunkin Act and the repeat by-law has been carried by the tacit consent of both friends and foce of local prohibition. The Dunkin Act is practically a dead letter even where it is supposed to be in operation. The passage of the vastly more efficient Permissive Bill by the late Government, has virtually superseded it. In places like the county of Grey where the old act has been allow. ed to lapse because of its serious defects new and vigorous efforts will no doubt be made to adopt and to enforce the new and better law.

The fact that Mr. Horton of Centre Huron, did not want the appointmen which vacated his seat, is annoying the Tory organs not a little. Our local contemporary is itching to prove that he did want and that he would take it, would be such a satisfaction to show that the retiring member had been rewarded for his sacrifice and that there was some thing of a bargain and sale in the transaction. So entirely is office the goal of all Tory hope and ambition that a purely disinterested piece of self denial in the interest either of country or party is something that completely baffles their comprehension.

the date fixed by new Ministers for going back to their constituents for re-election -the 4th and 11th November having been announced as the dates for nomiuation and polling respectively; as near as may be five full years from the date of their disgraceful fall from power. To be exact we believe it was on the fifth of November, the anniversary of the Guy Fawkes treason, that Sir John averted a direct defeat by a humiliating resignation. That certainly was an appropriate date for the collapse of the great Canadian Railway plot. We dare say these terday-if the City Council instead of rehabilitated political criminals fancy there employing men to complete the numberis a sort of poetic justice in celebrating their recent triumph on the anniversary of their great defeat; but the circumstance, whether intentional or otherwise, will revive in the public mind painful reminiscences of the events of five years ago which will certainly not enhance the public esteem for the Pacific Scandal members of the new Tory Cabinet.

OUR YOUNG MEN-

Sir John A. Macdonald declared in his "Cartier Club" speech, that though the old Liberals had refused to desert their party standard, the young men had severed all party ties and thrown themselves into the contest in support of his policy. We will not undertake to speak for other places, but this statement is very far from true of Kingston. Here, while many of the old supporters of Sir John clung to his declining fortunes with an almost stubborn tenacity, a steadily increasing majority of the new vote, consisting largely of young men, went strong for Reform as against Sir John. The great prosperity of the Young Men's Liberal Club, now so important an accessory to the senior Reform Association, is proof sufficient of of the Orange Order, presentative I r i s h what we have said. It is highly credit- Minister of Customs, Catholic, President able to the intelligence of the young men and therefore able of the Council, a hailed victor, having shorn 45 sheep to 41 ville, acted as Crown Counsel. ## THE CARTWRICHT CONTEST.

The tactics adopted with so much succass by the Tory wirepullers in the recent general election, are being repeated in Centre Huron against Hon. R. J Cartwright. The riding is literally swarming with Tory understrappers, who o'clock, and when opposite Mr. Sparks have been despatched thither for the pur- dental office nine or ten rowdies (for pose of maligning the Liberal candidate can apply no other term to them) oband poisoning the minds of the electors against him. As an evidence of the particular malignity with which the Hon. Mr. Cartwright is being hounded, in a that this rowdyism was put down by the constituency in which he was invited to offer himself as a candidate, we may protected. mention that Roe, one of his bitterest opponents in Lennox, has made it his business to follow the hon. gentleman all the way to Centre Huron, to annoy still further the man he lately assisted in defeating at home. We feel assured that Roe will have his journey for his pains. One would certainly have imagined that to defeat the ex-Finance Minister in his own constituency would have been quite sufficient to slake the thirst of the most bitter revenge, but this following up of past few weeks. the object of his hate from Lenhox to Haron is sufficient to brand him the petty persecutor, a sort of guerilla combatant, of whom any party which believes in civilized political warfare may well be ashamed. We really don't expect this man Roe, nor the many other Tory emissaries now in Huron, to return home crowned with laurel flushed with victory. Had Mr. Cartwright not unselfishly preferred the public interest a Mrs. Stedman approached and deto his own he never would have been de- manded her boy, and accused Kellar of feated in Lennox. Personal attention to an attempt at abduction, but he spurned his canvass at home, such as he has now her protest. She secured a policeman, and both parties went before a justice, the leisure to devote to Centre Huron. Mrs. McKellar was sent for to solve the would have resulted in his election for problem, and brought her boy with her.

A WELL-DESERVED REWARD.

We congratulate the Hon. Senator Campbell on his re-accession to office. his spathy in the late election exclusion from the Cabinet. Right proud and glad are we that our "plea" in his behalf has resulted in such a satisfactory issue. There were many in the Hon. gentleman's own party who, for the negaclined to score his name from the list of new Ministers, but we are delighted to see that the advice of these unduly res vengeful Tories has been overruled in deference no doubt to our own and other equally cogent representations in his favor. Senator Campbell's readmission to the Cabinet is a recognition of past part) services which could not in justice be forgotten or ignored. As we have one and again pointed out, but for as candidate for Kingston general election of 1874. The services he then rendered to his Cnief and party as Bribery Bursar, should never be forgot. ten. For his well-timed absence from the "limits," however, when these thing were up before Chief Justice Richards for investigation, the Chiefcain is under the most insolvent obligations to him Had Senator Campbell not been conveniently absent at that critical juncture there can be no manner of doubt that Sir John Macdonald would not merely have lost his seat, as he did, but would have teen outlawed from sitting in the last Parliament at all. Of this fact the language of the presiding Judge on that occasion leaves no manner of doubt. Rather than be present and permit testimony to politically decapitate the Chieftain, Senator Campbell endured the severe reprimand of the Court with becoming fortitude. Thus he became the political saviour of his Chief, who, as the result of the "life" thus given him, has lately been restored to power. Sir John Macdonald would be an ingrate, indeed, had he forgotten these things and excluded his old Lieutenant from his Cabine There is a grim appropriateness about on the score of more recent apathy in the Tory cause. We congratulate all concerned, then, -including ourselves-that the facts with which we felt it our duty to freshen Tory recollection have contributed to the recognition of the Hon. Senator's party importance. As an astute and champion briber the Hon. gentleman had claims which the hero of the Pacific Scandal found it impossible to ignore.

Street Numbering.

To the Editor of the British Whig. SIE :- In reply to your notice of yes-ing of the houses were to pass a compulsory by-law instead of a permissips one, it would meet with all but universal approbation, and the houses would be numbered forthwith. As it now stands there is not a street that has not been canvasse ed, and there is not a street but where the owners of the houses refused to number until the law compels them to do it. Take as an example one block on Wellington Street, sixteen doors-four numbered-twelve the owners will not number because the by law is not compulsory. ## SIR JOHN A. MACDONALD. BOMAN CATROLIC ORGAN OF MON-TREAL READS OFF HIS POLITICAL CHARACTER. It would be a hopeful augury for the Conservative party if Sir John A. Macdonald was at once removed from its leadership. The country is tired of his subtle intrigues, and it fears a renewal of something like his Pacific Scandal over again. Protection can live and flourish without him, and the people could breathe freely if they knew that they were in the hands of men whose records were free from blemish. He was turned out of power because of his politica corruption; he returns to power but to commence throwman who cannot, or who at least will not tell the truth, except when it suits him is scarcely fit to be at the head of the administration. One of his first sentences, after being sworn in as Premier was, we can call it by no milder name -a fa'se-hood. He not only prevaricated, but he said what was not the truth, his now historic interview reporter at the Windsor: Again, he has surrounded himself men, the career of some of whom will not bear the light of day. In his Ministry there are many of the Pacific Scandal heroes, and although we do not say they were all bad, yet one or two of them never should have been selected for a Ministry again. He has fooled the Irish Catholics, and altogether the opening of his career has not been successful. the party, as a party, we were prepared to give an Independent support. On the question of Protection we are in sympathy with it, but to Sir John's leadership we think the time is come to raise our voice in opposition. As an intriguer, no doubt, Sir John A. Macdonald s a success; as an honest politician, he is a failure. In saying this much we must not be understood as declaiming against his personal character or private worth. With these we have nothing to do. We Alexandria which carried away 80,000 take his public utterances and his public

The Utica Republican says: 'A fellow by the name of Allen, claiming to hail from Rome, was the hero of a very neat swindle in this city the other day. He called at the carriage manufactory and asked to look at some light carriages, saying he was in a livery business. After considerable bickering and bargaining-sto throw off suspicion -he agreed to take two light carriages and a two seated phaeton. The proprietor went into the office to make out a receipt. Allen soon sent a workm in to get a $50 bill changed. The proprietor, of course, had no change. Allen then entered, saying he owed a man in New Hartford $5, and had agreed to leave it at the carriage shop for him. Would'nt the proprietor kindly loan him the small sum till he got the large bill changed ? Why, with pleasure. The fellow made a pretext to slip it in the letter, and the etter was placed in the envelope, But he had forgotten his spectacles. Wouldn't the proprietor address the letter. Certainly. While the proprietor was so doing the chap slipped out, and the proprietor was also out $5.
