But he affected a polite composure He lifted his eye-glass with his old im-sudence, and stared audaciously at the inconscious and smiling Adelaide St. Armand until Gay Steele longed to drub

By Jove, Guy,' he said at length, with amazing effrontery; 'I have seen her before. She wears your ruby crescent, man. Have you observe titl Is she the danheart? Have I penetrated the charmed mystery that surrounds the life of this wonderful modeler of clay—this hewer of marblel Pray introduce me at once. must toady to this great genius with the rest of my sex, I suppose.

He shrugged his shoulders with ironical resignation. Slighted and baffled and thwarted by this fair and unoffending woman, he hated her with all the venom of an ignoble sont. Sarcasm was sweet to him then, and satire a gratification; and could his insinuations have estracised her then and there, he would have been unutterably content.

'Pray introduce me at once,' he repeat

'My wife declines to know you, an swered Guy, coolly. Major Gordon stared, and then laughed uneasily.

*We were married in Europe,' went on Adelaide St. Armand's husband; 'my wife preferred to be introduced to No. York society by the name by which she is known as an artist. The ruby crescent is my gift to her. I found it in a pawnshop and redeemed it. She knows all about its history. 1 doubt, however, she understood the presumable cause of your mistake yesterday. Major Gordon would have apologized had he dared to do so; but Mr. Steele's haughty forbearance rebuked and silenced him more effectually than the most open chastisement could have done. He felt that the offence and the offender would henceforth be so entirely ignored that no manner of apology could be possible. Gordon was taught a wholesome lesson by the incidents of those, two days, for from that time no gallant could be found more circumspect in his behavior toward unatwhom the beautiful artist had laughingly dubbed Knight Sparrow-Hawk

POROUS

This remarkable article contains all the qualities of the slow acting common porous plaster and in addition an entirely new combination of active vegetable ingredients from which it derives its wonderful pain relieving, strengthening and curative properties. It relieves pain almost immediately and cures where other plasters will not even relieve. The manufacturers of Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster were awarded the highest and only medal of merit given for plasters at the Cen tennial 1876. Your family physician will con firm our statement regarding its great merit
