Scrofula

Is one of the most fatal scourges w hich afflic mankind. It is often inherited, but may be the result of improper vaccination, mercurial poisoning, uncleanliness, and various other causes Chronic Sores, Ulcers, Abscesses, Cancerous Humors, and, in some cases, Emaciation and Consumption, result from a scrofulous condition of the blood. This disease can be cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

I inherited a scrofulous condition of the blood, which caused a derangement of my whole system. After taking less than four bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla am and, for the past year, have not found it necessary to use any medicine whatever. I am now in better health, and stronger, than ever before, —O. A. Willard, 218 Tremont st., Boston, Mass. I was troubled with Scrofulous Sores for five years; but, after using a few bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the sores healed, and I have now good health .- Elizabeth Warnock, 54 Appleton street, Lowell, Mass,

Some months ago I was troubled with Scrofulous Sores on my leg. The limb was badly swollen and inflamed, and the sores discharged large quantities of offensive matter. Every remedy failed, until I used Ayer's Sarsaparilla By taking three bottles of this medicine the sores have been entirely healed, and my health is fully restored. I am grateful for the good this medicine has done me, -Mrs. Ann O'Brian 158 Sullivan st., New York.

CONSUMPTION.

DR. T. A. SLOCUM. Branch Office, 37 Yonge Street, Toronto. WHAT IS BEST TO DRINK?

Medical Paper Gives Some Excellent Advice Lemonade a Good Thing.

Lancet, London, England, The continuance of the hot weather suggesta some remarks upon summer drinks. here is naturally great temptation to slake thirst whenever practicable, and to re-establish the balance of fluid in circulation which has been destroyed by perspiration. How this can best be effected ? Many persons doubtless increase their discomfort by injudiciously drinking quantities of cold water, which serve to stimulate the sweatglands and so to increase the amount of loss by perspiration. While the "cold-water cure" is to be deprecated, it should not be forgotten that it is equally if not more foolish to include freely in alcoholic stimulants. For the time they certainly allay thirst by stimulating the salivary glands, but after absorption they promote relaxation of the arterioles and increase the rapidity of the heart's action, and are followed by a speedy "Nemesis." The cooling influence of acids should be remembered in times of high temperature. The acid employed will naturally be a matter of taste. Most persons would shrink from the use of dilute solution of citric or tartaric acid, and yet many find relief from a beverage composed of diluted and unsweetened lemon juice. Should eider be found to agree with the digestion, a very pleasant summer drink may be compounded of equal parts of cider and of any pure form of effervescing water, the Hereford or rough cider being as a rule more palatable than the sweetened forms. Cold tea has many adherents, but it is worth noting that it should be poured out while still hot, and not allowed to stand to cool in contact with the leaves, show under these conditions the astringent properties become more comdisadvantages, night. With regard to iced drinks, it should be borne in mind that the refreshing sense of coolness resulting from their employment in bulk is speedily followed by reaction. This is less felt when a cardiac tone is employed in this form, as, for example, the iced coffee so commonly provided at afternoon parties. "American dripks," also are to be employed only in great moderation and with caution, being liable to induce catarrh of the stomach during the period of reaction following the primary chill. Of the so-called "temperance drinks" and of the more common lemonade and ginger-beer

there is little to be said, provided that the

This Great Ramedy Known With Favour Over the Globe,

It is a trite remark that it is better to begin in a small way, and enlarge in a steady and healthy manner, than to attempt too much and fail. But trite as the remark is, it bears the impress of truth. No matter how small the beginning, if there is real worth at bottom, the result will be all that can be hoped for. Let the history of Holloway's celebrated Pills and Ointment illustrate this point. In London he commenced the manifacture of his pills. He mixed the ingredients and rolled the pills with his own hands. Their sale at first was small but as their efficacy became known it increased, at first slowly, then more rapidly, until now the demand for them has become so great. that the iron muscles of the steam engine are called into requisition to grind up and mix enough to supply the increasing calls for them, calls which come from all parts of the world. The success which has rendered Holloway's famous is well deserved, as thousands of grateful hearts in every nook and corner of the globe will heartily attest.

In no part, however, are they more justly appreciated than in South and Central America, where there comprehensiveness, as well as the strength of their remedial properties, have been most severely tried. When winter sits enthroned among the Andes, when torrid summer evokes disease and death from the marshes near the coast, and where eternal spring beautifies the table lands, they have been administered with equal and invariable to all classes, colours, and con-

To the superficial thinkers it seems inexplicable that the same medicine should cure diseases which bear no similarity to each other. We believe, however, that a sound philosophical reason has been given for the phenomenon. Symptoms differ, but they are the effects of disease, not its cause. The cause, it is argued, is a morbid and poisonous principle in the blood, which may be of greater or less intensity, but is always the same in its nature, and therefore always controllable by the same means. The great difficulty was to discover and prepare the true remedy, a difficulty which Holloway has surmounted. If this is not the rationale of the cures accomplished by his pills and Ointnient, let the faculty give us a better. We are indifferent as to what theory may be adopted in explanation, so long as the facts themselves remain unshaken. - Irish

CRAVEYARD DESECRATION.

Human Bones Thrown into a Boston Street by Electric Light Workmen.

BOSTON, Aug. 11.—A horrible desecration of the graves of the dead in the heart of the city of Boston has been going on for nearly a week. A week ago the Edison electric light company began to dig a trench along Boylston street, for the purpose of laying their wires. As the workmen ascended the hill they encountered graves and vaults. The roofs of the brick graves were broken in and their contents drawn out on the side of the street with earth, brick and stones. Scattered all along the side of the trench may be seen leg, thigh and arm bones, ribs, portions of skulls and other parts of human skeletons. Some of these bones have been hung upon the fence of the common, where they are the subject of scurrilous jests and are pointed out by the conductors of horse cars to the passers by.

SOCIAL ETIQUETTE.

Manners and Customs Practiced in Polite Society.

Not a few ladies and, of late, some who are presumed to be familiar with the best social usages, sign their names as "Mrs. John ---." "Mrs. Henry -," or the like. Apropos of this fashion, as good authority as The Art Interchange expresses itself as follows: For 200 years people of all sorts and conditions have been arriving here, bringing with them the manners and customs of theirold homes, so that now it is impossible to lay down a law of etiquette and say that it is rigidly obeyed to the exclusion of all others. Most of our customs are, however, derived from the English, and they are usually observed by the best bred people. In the case of "Mrs. John," as a signature, there can be but one opinion. It is not sanctioned in any social circle. The Christian name of the writer should always be used, or, if preferred, one or more initials. To a servant any communication should be written in the third person, or it should begin: "Mary: I wish you would, etc.," and the name should be signed "Jane Smith." In writing a reference for a servant it is better to write it in the third person. Mrs. John Smith is not a signature at all; it is a title, and titles cannot be signed.

Suitable Bridal Gifts.

Among gifts appropriate for a bride, Harper's Bazar enumerates bonbon spoons, asparagus spoons, bonbon dishes, a tea caddyand flat ladles as favorite articles in silverware. There are also many pretty things in cut glass and china. An etching, a choice engraving, a gauze or feather fan, small bonnet pins, a valuable pendant, an enameled brooch also represent other customary presents to a Manner in Conversation.

"The manner in which things are said," says an acute Frenchman, "is almost as important as the things themselves. For one man that judges you by your thought there are twenty that judge you by the manner in which your thought is presented. Not only should your words be well chosen, but your bearing should be self possessed and the tone of your voice agreeable."

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to the taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, and take no other

To Avoid Baldness or Grey Hair. Use Dr. Dorenwend's Great German Hair Magic. It keeps the scalp clean and free from dandruff, and promotes the growth of the hair. It prevents premature greyness and stops all falling out of the hair. On bald heads, where the roots have not perished, it will invigorate them and force a new growth of hair. Ask for Hair Magic. It is the only reliable. For sale by J. G. King, A. P. Chown, and all druggists.

Keep Your House Guarded. Keep your house guarded against sudden attacks of colic, cramps, diarrhœa, dysentenr and cholera infantum. They are liable to come when least expected. The safest best and most reliable remedy is Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.
