WHAT'LL BE THE UPSHOT?

THE FRIENDS OF THE NATIONAL LEAGUE MUCH EXCITED.

Some Rash Observations Made-Michael Davitt's Prophecy-Will it Come True, Do You Think ?- The Appeal of the Leader of the House of Commons to His Followers.

London, Aug. 20. -About five o'clock yesterday afternoon, the statement was made of Salisbury's announcement of the proclamation of the National league. The Irish party was in some doubt as to the fashion on which they ought to receive it. Their cheers were at first hesitating, but when the chief secretary read the preamble of the proclamation, the Parnellite party cheered loudly, at the formal mention of the name of the National league. Three cheers were given when John O'Connor supplemented the statement that there exists an association known by the name of the Irish National league, with the confident assurexist." The only opinion expressed was that "it would be a bad winter for Ireland." Michael Davitt says: "My health is giving way again from hard work. I fear I have little chance of a holiday outside of prison. We are going to have a bad time of it or I am not a prophet." It does not follow, of course, that the government was bound to suppress the league because they have proclaimed it. The resignation of T. W. Russell is a deadly blow to the unionist party. He has wrought mischief among Gladstonian supporters wherever he went. He has written unionist whips to tell them to strike his name off their lists and cancelled all his engagements. This in itself means a saving of thousands of Gladstonian votes. Mr. Chamberlain, at Birmingham, will settle the question of his future attitude.

The effect of the proclamation of the National league will be to make the association illegal and to bring it under the operation of the Crimes act. By that act persons belonging to any association, declared to be illegal, can be, before a magistrate, tried without a jury and imprisoned for any period not exceeding six months.

Joseph Chamberlain's Attitude.

London, Aug. 21.—Joseph Chamberlain

in a speech at Birmingham dilated upon the waste of time by the obstructionists on the Crimes bill and said: "I regret that the government has proclaimed the league. will not blame the government severely, but think they were mistaken, though I and others who acted with me are precluded from condemning the proclamation in strong language. When the government asked for these powers we agreed to give them, and now, if they consider it absolutely necessary to abuse them, that doubtless is the last resource, but it is for their descretion not ours. As a matter of principle think it was right for the government to have these powers in order to hold over. them in reserve, but as a matter of policy, I regret that the government has thought it necessary to use them at the present time." Mr. Chamberlain dwelt upon the absence of crime in most districts of Ireland. "We are told." he said, "that in some districts the league is still paramount, tyrannizing over the minority. But I think the other clauses of the Coercion bill are | time. quite sufficient to enable the government to deal with isolated cases. The clause enabling stipendiary majestrates to inflict a maximum punishment of six months' imprisonment at hard labor upon persons found guilty of boycotting and other offences is sufficient to meet any emergency which has arisen." Continuing Mr. Chamberlain said: "I am afraid that course the government has pursued will take them in the gravest difficulties and danger. An Irish landlord the other day asked me to use all my influence to prevent the proclamation of the league. I asked him way. The landlord replied: "Because in my country and in many other part of Ireland the league is rapidly losing its influence and becoming a laughing stock, and if let alone it will sink into oblivion, but if the government proclaim it it will revive, have a new lease of life and get new subscriptions from America and elsewhere."

William O'Brien Speaks.

London, Aug. 20. -In an interview, Mr. William O'Brien, M.P., editor of United Ireland, said: "The proclamation of the National league will not impede the work of the league. It is significant that the league is not proclaimed under the sections of the Coercion act relating to crime, or association with crime. If the government does nothing further it will be laughed at, while, if it pursues an aggressive policy it antagonizes public opinion in Great Britain." Mr. Thomas Sexton, M.P., said: "The league is proclaimed under clauses which the government would not allow to be discussed when the bill was under consideration in the house of commons. Lord Hartington will probably throw his lot with the conservatives, and Mr. Chamberlain may return to the liberal party. Ireland will receive the proclamation with contempt, followed by a feeling of hope for the future.' Mr. Timothy Hartington, M.P., secretary of the National league, said: "The action of the government is an idle display. I they go further our men will still continue to work."

John Dilion, M.P., said: "The proclamation will not move the league a hair's

Mr. Parnell's Opinion.

LONDON, Aug. 20. - Mr. Parnell, in an interview last evening, said the action of the government in proclaiming the National league was a gratuitous insult to the Irish, considering the present condition of Ireland. It was merely a move to cover the weakness of the Land bill. If the bill did not protect tenants from eviction, trouble would be inevitable during the coming winter. Mr. Parnell postponed his departure for Dublin to attend the debate in the house of com-

Feeling in New Vork.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—The Irishmen here say there was never a proclamation of a national organization issued before in Ireland which will meet with such a determined resistance as this one. They say it will be simply impossible to put down the National league, and that if money flowed into Ireland before from this country in thousands it will be certain to do so now in an increased volume. Michael Gibbin, president of the Home Rule club, said: "You are certain to see bloodshed and slaughter more horrifying than what was witnessed during the worst days of the Forster regime. There will be collisions with the police and soldiers, there will be attempts to rescue those arrested under the Crimes act, a more determined and general resistance to evictions, and stubborn fights all around to keep the Nationalist meetings going on in spite of the well appointed armies of Great Buitain that will be sent to scatter and shoot them down."

Patrick Fgan's Opinion.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 20,-Patrick Egan, ex-president of the Irish National league, says the proclamation will do more than anything else to confirm the wide-spread sympathy to the Irish cause in America, and can have no other termination but the complete and speedy ruin of the present English government and the triumph of home rule. John Fitzgerald, president of the league, expressed much the same sentiments.

Mr. T. W. Russell's Letter. LONDON, Aug. 22.-T. W. Russell, M.P., who left the liberal unionist party because of the proclamation of the National league, has written a letter to explain his resignation. He says : "I have done my best to persuade my party and the government from proclaiming the league, but have fail-British Whig's" telephone is number 128 | ance contained in the words, "and it will | ed. The government in my opinion has | through the after hatches. The boats were spent its last bullet and has handed over Ulster to Parnell. I confess that my heart turned with indignation to see my friends sacrificing the union and sacrificing loyal tenants to a haudful of unreasonable land lords deserving of nobody's consideration.

An Appeal to the Party.

LONDON, Aug. 21 .- W. H. Smith, government leader in the house of commons, has issued an urgent circular to the conservative members of the house. He tells them it is imperatively necessary that the government must be strongly supported in the house during the remainder of the session, and he entreats them to remain at their post. This whip is the strongest that has been issued for many years.

The Protests Going On.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—The Irishmen of Liverpool, at a meeting to-day, adopted resolutions protesting against the proclamation of the Irish National league. Similar resolutions were adopted at a meeting of radicals in London this afternoon. Numerous branches of the league in Ireland held their weekly meeting as usual to-day.

FIRE AND LOSS AT SEA.

A Scene on Board Prior to Her Abandonment-Picking Up of the Crew And Passengers The Missing Boat And Its Occupants May Yet Be Found.

Capt. Land, commander of the City of Montreal, makes the following report : On the 10th inst, the wind was north to northwesterly. About 9 o'clock of the evening of that day fire was discovered in the after hatch among the cotton. The fire hoses were at once connected and streams of water were poured down upon the fiames. Annihilators and hand-grenade fire extinguishers were also freely used. The fire however, overcame all efforts to suppress it and spread over the upper and lower decks. The ship was doomed from the beginning of the fire, and the boats had been actively prepared and provisioned. At six o'clock on the morning of the 11th inst. the flames burst then lowered. There was a high sea at the time, and this caused much difficulty. The women and children were first put aboard the boats, and the male passengers and the crew were embarked afterwards. The lack of time prevented the manning of the boats with their respective crews, the men being compelled to continue until the last moment the work of keeping the flames down. All the boats left the ship safely, but by an unfortunate oversight twenty people were left aboard the burning vessel. Boat No. 3 returned and took off six of the number; boat No. 5, with the 4th officer, took off six more. A barque was then reported approaching, and when all the boats had put their people aboard her they returned and took off those remaining on the burning vesse!. It was found that boat No. 8 was missing. She was seen to put herself before the wind when she left the ship, using her oars in support of the sails. She ran away from the vessel in direct disobedience to the captain's orders. Everybody spent the night aboard the German barque Trobant, from Charleston, July 24, for London, and all were then transferred to the York City, which stayed by throughout the night and vainly searched for the missing boat. Capt. Land says he is sanguine that the peo ple in boat No. S are saved, as the accident occurred in the track of steamers bound east and west. The passengers, he adds. were cool and obedient during the crisis, and the crew were steady. The passengers and crew lost everything they had aboard the City of Montreal except what they stood in when they went into the boats. The origin of the fire is unknown. Capt. Land is certain it broke out in more than one place among the cotton. The ship was lost in lat. 43, 38 north, long. 43, 54 west. The boats were eight in number, and consisted of four lifeboats and four pinnaces. These were launched and stocked with provisions. The flames spread with great fierceness, and the efforts to quench them it. was soon found were futile. At eight o'clock in the morning the passengers were marshalled on deck, preparatory to entering the boats. Many of them were weeping, but on the whole they were quiet and orderly. The family groups presented a sight pitiful to see, as they huddled together in fear and trembling. There was a heavy sea running, and it was with great difficulty that the boats were kept from being smashed. The crew worked splendidly and all the passengers were placed in the boats in a comparatively short time. How the boats floated with their heavy loads is a miracle. As the last boat was pulling off from the ship several of the passengers and crew were seen aft. They had been overlooked, and were screaming to the boats to return. They were subsequently bravely rescued half dead from effects of the smoke and heat. The masts of a ship were seen on the horizon, but ten hours elapsed before it came near.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—The bark "Traband" cruised around the City of Montreal after the "York City" left the scenes. There is therefore reason to hope that the missing boat has been rescued.

CROPS IN ONTARIO

Report of the Bureau of Industries-A Short Crop is Expected all Round.

Toronto, Aug. 19.—The Ontario Bureau of Industries has issued a digest of the reports made on the 12th inst., by nearly 600 correspondents on the year's crops and harvest and the yield of principal crops computed from their estimates. Autumn wheat has suffered from a succession of reverses extending all through the growing season. Where threshing has been reported the yield runs generally from ten to eighteen bushels per acre, the average being about sixteen bushels, or five bushels less than the average of the past five years. The general yield will probably not exceed two thirds of an average crop, the estimate being 14,-435,505 bushels, against 20,635,843 for the average. Spring wheat is about a total failure in Western Ontario, and only a few districts in the east report even a fair crop. The estimated yield is 4,500,000 less than an average of the five years 1882-6. Owing to the prolonged heat and drought barley was ready for cutting almost as soon as autumn wheat. This early maturing had its effect on the berry, which is reported as rather small and likely to prove two to three prounds light in the bushel. The estimated total yield is 17,436,322 bushels, being 2, 136,000 bushels less than the average five years, 1882-6, although the breadth in crop is 50,000 acres more. The estimated yield of oats is only thirty bushels per acre, whereas the average yield of the past year. was thirty-seven bushels. The total estimate is 8,000,000 less than the yield of last year, and 5,000,000 less than the average. The estimated yield of the rye crop does not reach one-half the average of the past five years. The estimated yield of the pea crop years-1882-6-and 3,000,000 bushels less than last year. Indian corn will be a short crop, and fodder corn is also very light. As a rule the yield of potatoes will be small. Early rains may yet make an average crop
