CHICAGO'S PIE TRADE.

TURN

OUT 12,000 PIES A DAY.

Some Statistics on a Popular Article of | denied. Food-Pics Fulling "Like Leaves from the Frost Kissed Oak"-Delivery and Distribution.

The statistics will show that more pies are made, baked and eaten in Chicago, in proportion to the population, than in any other city in the world. In fact, Chicago consumes a reasonably large quantity of all sorts of entables, and the fact that the pie is in demand is an evidence of the prevalence of a cultivated taste among the people. There are three establishments in the city where homemade pies are turned out in magnificent. quantities to supply the wholesale demand. The extent of this industry has assumed surprising proportions in recent years. A person who has not investigated the matter to bonnet she can do it. some extent would have but a faint conception of the magnitude of the business. It is even claimed that Chicago excels New York in the trade.

As before stated, there are three pie manufactories in the city. They each do about the same extent of business. They are generally crowded to their fullest capacity during the hot season. Taking the establishment on West Lake street as a fair average, some very interesting figures are procured. This house employs about 100 hands, of which one-half are females-generally girls-who earn good salaries. Some of them earn from $8 to $10 per week, the forewoman getting $15. This pie factory turns out pastry during baking hours at the rate of 1,000 pies per hour, or from 10,000 to 12,000 each day on an average.

RUNNING NIGHT AND DAY.

They run night and day. In fact, the ovens are never allowed to cool. The ovens have a revolving bottom, on which the pies are placed, which is kept in motion almost constantly. A pie is baked during one revolution, is removed, and another takes its place. Tin dishes, or plates, are used for baking and delivery, this one firm requiring 50,000 plates. The pies are all made by hand, and are stamped with the name of the firm and variety of the contents. An apple pie is marked "A." on the upper crust, a blackberry pie B. B. and raspberry pie R. B. Those not having an upper crust bear their identity on their face and need no branding. Apple pies are the staple and are in the most general demand. Berry pies are very popular during their season.

It is a sight not without interest to see forty or fifty girls peeling and preparing the fruit, or ranged along either side of a large table, neatly dressed in white aprons and jaunty caps, each one performing her allotted labor in the construction of a pie. This work is done with that rapidity, dexterity and skill only attained by long practice. One set of girls rolls the dough, another puts in the bottom crust, others dip in the contents and still others fit on the top crust. It is then passed to a machine, that runs by power, which trims and joins the edges with lightning rapidity. Pies fall upon the reception tables like leaves from the frost kissed oak, and are borne away to the ovens by the baking detachment.

TONS OF INGREDIENTS.

In the manufacture of from 75,000 to 100,-000 pies per week a vast number of ingredients is consumed. It requires on an average a car load of flour, eighty barrels of sugar, and thirty barrels of lard, to say nothing about the number of eggs and the vast quantity of milk used. In manufacturing the crust the general rule is to use two pounds of flour to one of lard. This is more lard, however, than our pie bakers consume, as they have discovered that by the use of the best grades of flour and winter lard a sufficiently crisp consistency can be attained in the crust with less lard, while they contend the pies are more wholesome. It is generally admitted that the Chicago pie bakers use the best grade of materials attainable in their pies, and that their productions are clean and healthy. They have discovered that it takes less of a good grade of flour and lard to make a superior grade of pie. For the delivery and distribution of this vast quantity of pastry daily, the firm visited runs sixteen wagons. As locomotive power they keep an average of forty horses. The delivery has to be done quickly, and for a city of the magnificent distances of Chicago it takes rapid driving. This necessitates a change of horses each half day. A number of men are employed to take charge of the horses, who live in the stable. Each driver hitches his own team and is held responsible for it while in his charge. The wagons each hold 450 pies, which are slipped in single shelves arranged along either side, tightly closed so as to exclude the dust while on the street. The wagons have a sort of aisle through the middle, and on the outside are painted in gaudy colors, looking something like a circus wagon. The pies are sold at different prices. The general retail price is twelve to fifteen cents. The manufacturer aims to make one-half cent on each pie made, clear of contents and running expenses. Out of this is his profit, after paying his taxes and keeping up a property in which about $100,000 is invested.—Chicago Herald.

Gen. Lee as a Domestic Adviser.

"How well I remember Gen. Robert E. Lee, then a major, who was stationed there at that time. He was the beau ideal of a soldier and a gentleman. When bidding us goodby and godspeed upon the eve of our departure he said to me: 'I understand that you contemplate deserting your post, which is by your husband's side, and that you are not going to California with him. If you will pardon me I should like to give you a little advice. You must not think of doing this. As one considerably older than Hancock, and having had greater experience, I consider it fatal to the future happiness of young married people, upon small provocation, to live apart, either for a short or long time. The result is invariably that they cease to be essential to each other. Now promise me that you will not permit him to sail without you.'

"The sequel shows how faithfully I sought to follow that noble man's admonition, and how often in my varied experience I had occasion to transmit to others his disinterested, truthful convictions. With many regrets we bade adieu to a host of friends, most of whom I never saw again. Not so with my husband, however. He met them face to face on the battlefield in less than three years."-Reminiscences of Winfield Scott Hancock.

An Unlearned "Bone Setter." The famous English "bone setter," Mr. Hutton, who died recently, had no learning. He neither "walked the hospitals" nor ever learned the names of all the crevices in the human skeleton. If he had had all the bones of the human body thrown down before him he would have been at great pains to arrange them in order. Yet trained men sent patients with dislocations to him. - Chicago News.

In the subsequent conversation she expressed her great admiration for the poet, evincing her thorough familiarity with his works. She concluded her visit by an examination of the Heine relics, such as letters, portraits, and many receipts in the possession of Frau Emb-

A large number of Rio coffee planters are acquiring plantations in the new coffee districts of Sao Paulo in Brazil. This indicates not wily an early collapse of coffee production In the province of Rio de Janeiro, where the production depends largely upon slave labor, but a large increase in the production of Sao Paulo, where free labor has secured a footing and where the plow and cultivator can be used.

The annual report of the treasurer of Vassar college shows that the young ladies have eaten during the past year, among other things, 84,000 pounds of fresh meat, 8,000 pounds of smoked meats, 5,000 pounds of turkeys, over 4,000 pounds of chickens, nearly 4,000 pounds of fish, 32,000 clams, 141 gallons of oysters, 230 barrels of flour, 14,000 pounds of butter, 95,000 quarts of milk, 25,000 pounds of sugar, 30,000 oranges and lemons, 10,000 bananas, over 1,000 bushels of potatoes and 100,000 buck wheat cakes.

One of the most prodigious engineering projects now on the tapis is that for tunneling the Rocky mountains under Tray's Peak. which rises no less than 14,441 feet above the level of the sea. It is stated that at 4,441 feet below the peak, by tunneling from east to west for 25,000 feet, direct communication could be opened between the valleys on the Atlantic slope and those on the Pacific side. This would shorten the distance between Denver, in Colorado, and Salt Lake City, in Utah, and consequently the distance between the Missouri river, say at St. Louis, and San Francisco, 300 miles, and there would be little more required in the way of ascending or descending or tunneling mountains. Part of the work has already been accomplished.

Davenport, Esq., 33 Great Russell Street, Bloomsbury, London. Dear Sir, - We embrace this opportunity of congratulating you upon the wide-spread reputation this justly esteemed medicine. Dr.U. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne, has earned for itself, not only in Hindostan, but all over the East. As a remedy of general utility we must question whether a better is imported into the country, and we shall be glad to hear of its finding a place in every Anglo-Indian home. The other brands, we are happy to say, are now relegated to the native bazaars, and judging from their sale, we fancy that their sojourn there will be but evanescent. We could multiply instances "ad infinitum" of the extraordinary efficacy of Dr. Collis Brownes Chlorodyne in Diarrhoea and Dysentery, Spasms, Cramps, Neuralgia, the Vomiting of Pregnancy, and as a general sedative, that have occurred under our personal observation during many years.
