GENTS' FURNISHINGS.

SEASONABLE POETRY.

How dear to my head was the Fur Cap of winter.

The nice curly cap that now I am fain To swap for the sable and felted newcomer, Which, because it's so light I return to again.

But like to the Crofters' thatched hut of Kilkenny, That the soft summer breeze may creep thro' any day, Is the welcome Straw Hat, because lighter than any, And cheaper; it costs but a quarter in May,

And GALLOWAY'S is the place to get it.

The above soliloguy forced itself upon me in consequence of the return of spring wea ther, and as others sing it let them remember that GALLOWAY sang it first, and giv. him a call at BUTION TO THE WHIG.

His Wit and Fun Such as Every One Can Appreciate - The Pretty Woman and the Window-Catering to the Caprices of the Young-The Needs of the Coun-

(COPYRIGHTED 1887.) .

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 .- The prettiest woman in the car-she is always the one who gets you into scrapes of this kind-wants the window wide open of course, because there is a perfect cyclone of ashes, dust, invisible sparks, superheated air, and red-hot, three cornered cinders ready to sweep in on the people behind her. With the amount of intelligence Providence has seen fit to burden that sort of a woman with she essays to open the window by daintily catching hold of the lower edge of the window-frame with the tips of her fingers and trying to upset the car. The gods always provide a man to help this pretty woman. Half a dozen men sprang to her assistance; the lucky fellow lifts his hat, says "May I?" in his killingest tone, laughingly remarks that it's all in knowing the little trick of the complicated catch of a car-window, does the little trick and lifts, says, "This one seems to work rather reluctantly," and gives a lift that brings the blood to his head. Begs pardon, and steps up close to the window, gets a grip with both hands, gives a yank that makes everything turn black and crimson before blood-shot eyes, tugs with the desperation of madness when he hears the other passengers grunt for him in mockery; examines the catch and lifts again, till he hears his spine crack; his face is so hot he wants to die; he tries to be pleasant, but one more tug that bursts all the blood-vessels in his brain settles him; he swears at the window between his teeth, the woman draws herself up in insulted dignity, and requests him to go away, and as he leaves a brakeman comes carelessly along, reaches out for the window without looking at it as he passes, and tosses it clear up to the roof as he shouts, "Asy. lum! All out for Asylum!" And one man wants to get out and stay out.

A HINT TO MISS ANTHONY. It costs England two millions a year to maintain Queen Victoria, and we keep a President, weighing nearly as much as the Widow Guelph, at an expense of about one hundred thousand dollars. See? Anybody knows a hired man is never such an expense as a hired girl. He never has half so many old mothers and cousins.

"A FELLOW OF MOST EXCELLENT FANCY." A correspondent, writing from the shore of the loud-sounding sea, says he "passed an hour on the sea sands watching the cool beryl-green waves frothing into foam flowers as they broke on the snowy beach of hard white sand " Well, maybe he did; maybe he did. You see he only passed an hour when he saw all that. After about two days he could see more. He could begin to discern, as through a glass darkly, masses of slimy kelp that get around the bathers' necks and make them think the sea-serpent has hold of them. He could see the bluegray sole of the castaway overshoe, and the red-rusty wreck of the indestructible bustle; the ham-bone bleaching whiter than foam flowers; he could hear the far-reaching voice of the sweet south wind stealing across a bank of stranded weakfish, stealing and giving odor; he might see the man who has lost his store teeth in the cool beryl green waves, and is looking for a good place to die. See things? Why, after he has been there two days he can see things in his bed that for stimulating properties are as much wakinger than the beryl-green waves as a corker of old rye is than a tablespoonful of laudanum. If the correspondent really wants to see really startling things at the sea-shore he doesn't want to loaf around on the alabaster sands watching the beryl-green waves; he wants to sneak around and take a peep in at the kitchen windows. Then he can tell what he sees, and it will be profoundly interesting even with the beryl-green business left out. COMPENSATION,

I know he is awfully ru e. His manners are shockingly crude. He limps when he walks, and he lisps when he

But search the Town over, you'll never dis-

Such a dandy to drive with one hand. STRIKES AN EASY AVERAGE. What a difference there is in the speed of railway trains. A train that you are a little late for goes howling out of the station making eighty-five miles an hour every jump, and after you catch it and settle down for an all-day flight, it calmly drops to twelve miles an hour, and keeps it up for two days without a struggle.

GETTING DOWN TO BUSINESS. "A girl is more valuable in a business position," says an old merchant, "after she is twenty-five." There are many reasons for this. The new style of teeth she affects about that time are not so well adapted to pulling on the succulent but adhesive caramel; late hours and tarrying long at the frozen viands begets a redness of the nose at that age that is unbecoming in either sex, and in the sterner one is absolutely injurious; and then as she casts a more circulating eye on some bald-headed book-keeper, or the manager himself, she is apt to keep longer and more regular hours at the desk. In fact, as Mr. Edmund Sparkler would say, there is then "no biggod nonsense about her."

WHEN THERE'S A WILL THERE'S A WEIGH. Scales are now so delicately constructed that a signature written on a scrap of paper with a soft lead pencil can be weighed. General Spinner used to weigh his on the town hay-scales. But it twisted the lever like a corkscrew. PUTTING UP A BOY'S LAUNCH.

A recent writer—and she writes as one whom any boy would love-tells how she saw a mother put up a lunch for her boy to take to school, and then she tells very prettily how daintly she would have put up that lunch, and I know she would do just as she said. But she didn't go far enough. Now, if I were going to put up a lunch for a boy thirteen years old, I wouldn't take a little tin pail nor yet a neat little covered basket. I would just take the market basket, if the family wasn't going to use it that day, and I would cut up a loaf of bread, and trim off every bit of the crust to keep the boy from lying about it, and telling me that he ate it and didn't fire it over the fence, when he came home. I would cut that loaf of bread into slices and spread on butter until it began to fall off, then I would stack on the sugar as long as it would hold. Then would load in a couple of links of sausage and some slabs of ham, a dainty cluster of hard-boiled eggs-say half a dozen-all the cake there was in the house, and fill up the rest of the space with pie, and then stuff two of his pockets full of apples to eat during school hours, and fill the rest of his pockets with nuts, and give him five cents to buy "taffy." Then, if that boy came home at four o'clock and said he didn't have enough luncheon and couldn't he have a piece, I would give him the keys to the cellar, cupboard, pantry, cake-chest, and fruit closet, and, yielding to dark despair, go out into the barn and hang myself. We were a boy myself, once.

OUR COLLEGE PRESIDENTS.

cent. Well, that's so; But let's weigh the Presidents on the finer scales, as long as we're going into statistics. Who were the Presidents who never went to college at all, and precious little to any school? Washington, Jackson, Lincoln. Oh, well; the college may have the other fourteen; it's hardly worth while counting any farther.

THE ETERNAL FITNESS OF THINGS. Some people always do the wrong thing with good motives. Now the King of Siam has ninety-nine wives, and what sense was there in the American Minister presenting His Majesty, on his birthday anniversary, with a copy of the "The Guide to Matri

HERE AND THERE, Lancaster County, Pa., indignant citizen. -"Look here, hayseed, I told your man to bring me in some hay, and I hope to founder if he hasn't stuffed the barn so full the roof bulges, and then built two stacks on the tennis-lawn in the front yard." Farmer hayseed, apologetically .- "Yes, I know, he told me you wanted some hay and I didn't think it was worth while to send in less than a dollar's worth." Anywhere in Illinois, Mr. Thistlepod, can you spare me twenty dollars' worth of hay this morning?" "Guess so; want it in that basket?" "No, put it in this gripsack; I have a car-load of peaches in the basket." What this country needs is not a railroad commission, but a commission to equalize the distribution of rainfall.

WHY IS A DAIRY LIKE A TEN-DAY NOTE ?" Because nobody ever kept one a month The trouble with this conundrum is, that it lacks the active principle of truth, which should always be the soul of a conundrum. I don't know how it is about the dairy, but the ten-day note has been kept, without lavender, for years.

BREATHE HARD AND DEEP. An eminent physician, the sands of whose life, etc., says, "The most important agent for the preservation of health is a full and . constant supply of fresh air for the lungs." That is a gospel fact. Many a man who has been hanged could confirm with his testimon y the doctor's theory, if his testimony was where we could come by it right handy with out going for it.

ROBERT J. BURDETTE.

TICHBORNE, THE BARTENDER.

Sir Roger Compounds the Cocktails and Mashes Like a Veteran.

New York Star. As a dispenser of liquid refreshments Sir Roger Tichborne, Bart., of Hamshire, England, is a blooming success, and the enterprising saloon keeper who has secured his services is on the high road to fortune. Sir Roger is a great card. Crowds filed in and out of the saloon during the day, and in the evening the lively denizens of the Bowery were fighting for an opportunity to clasp the great man's hand.

Sir Roger's movements are at present hampered by the narrow space in which he is confined. There is just room enough behind the bar in which to introduce his 360 pounds of avoirdupois sideways, and he has to get on top of the counter to turn around. A carpenter will measure Sir Roger for a new bar to-day.

the claimant, when a Star reporter entered the saloon last night, "hi'm glad to see you. "What'll you 'ave,' 'arf and 'arf or san-

The reporter asked Sir Roger how he liked his new calling.

"Middling well, me boy, middling well. But you Hamericans hare too bloomink curious. On my trial, that lasted ten months, hi was asked 11,327 questions. Hi've 'ad to hanswer has many again to-day."

"Do you get a percentage of the profits or a salary for your services ?" he was asked "Hi get a salary-twelve shillings a day. Hit hain't much, Hi know, but there's the perquisites, you know, me dear fellow-Hi ave me hye on the perquisites."

Sir Roger is full of facts and figures relating to the celebrated Tichborne case. When asked how long a time he had served in prison he replied without hesitation: "Ten years, ten months hand four hours."

He also says that he intends to make another effort to obtain his "inheritance." "The Hon. Mrs. Georgiana Baring." said he, "' as guaranteed me a 'undred thousand pounds to open the case with."

GABRIEL DUMONT, REBEL.

Losing Power With the Half-Breeds-The Hero Racket is Playing Out.

Fergus County (Montana) Argus. Gabriel Dumont returned to Lewistown a few weeks ago from the upper country. Whatever his mission was, or his purposes are, he is losing his power among the breeds. We have heard it said that he was trying to gather some followers in this section, but thus far has met with a flat failure. No doubt Dumont regards himself as a hero among the breeds, and works them for all the money and presents he can get, but we hardly think he is thirsting for another insurrection. So long as he can work the hero racket he will have a soft snap. He has recently squeezed enough money out of the breeds to purchase a horse and cart, and will start soon for the Turtle Mountain region in Dakota. He expects to join the Wild West show in Paris later in the fall. It will be remembered that Dumont was with this show before it left for England, but he did not dare venture on British soil, so remained behind. He is shrewd enough to get along and live without work, but is losing prestige among the breeds, and is, indeed, a very harmless character.

Concerning Carpets

RICHMOND, ORR & CO.

Hereby inform the public that the English manufacturers, having sent them late advanced quotations for Carpets, this is positively the last season that Brussels Carpets can be sold at present low prices. Anticipating this advance the importations have been very large, the patterns most carefully chosen, and the variety of these patterns made greater. Those then who want, or are likely to want Carpets soon, will find present prices the lowest on record, and much less than next season.
