THE GRAND ARMY.

ABOUT ITS COMING ENCAMPMENT AT ST. LOUIS.

The Programme of the Week Outlined. How Visitors Will Be Entertained. How the Camps Will Be Luid Out. Other Matters Briefly Touched Upon.

On the 26th of this month the delegates and visitors to the grand encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic will begin to be quite ready to receive them. St. Louis is particularly well fitted for an encampment. A series of parks, great and small, extends from one end of the city to the other, a distance of nine miles. In these parks the tents of the veterans will be pitched. The feature of the encampment week will naturally be the encampment of the visitors, 30,000 of whom are expected to inhabit the city of tents which will spring into existence Sept. 24. There are only about 700 delegates to the grand encampment, and there will not be more than 600 of these in the city. The rest of the visitors will be on pleasure bent. The encampment will not be the harvest for the caravansaries that the Knight Templar conclave was last year. Then men balanced themselves on chairs and slept on billiard tables all night, and paid $5, $8 and $10 a day for these sleeping accommodations with meals. During the encampment it is promised that a bed can be had at the best hotel in the city, with board, for $5 a day. Camp accommodations are free to the veterans, and they can get meals under contract at places in the vicinity of all the camps for twenty-five cents each.

GRAND TRIUMPHAL ARCH.

There is one point at which guard mount will be decidedly practical—at national headquarters in Washington square. An armed battalion attached to a Springfield, Mass., post will mount guard at the tent of the commander-in-chief at all hours of the day and through most of the night. Washington square is the most centrally located of the public parks. It is only two blocks from Union depot and it is diagonally across the street from the jail and criminal court building. It extends west from Twelfth to Thirteenth street, and north from Clark avenue to Market street, crossing Walnut street. At the head of Walnut street on Twelfth street, facing east, will be the headquarters of the commander-in-chief. A large oblong tent will be erected as near the center of the park as is practicable, facing down Walnut street. In front of the tent will fly the national colors, while on either side of the avenue leading to it will stand a piece of artillery. Along Twelfth street from Walnut to Market on one side, and Walnut to Clark avenue on the other, will be the state headquarterslarge wall tents plainly fitted and decorated. each bearing the name of the state to which it is assigned. The delegations arriving will be marched from Union depot to their state headquarters, where they will report. Thence they will be transported to their camping

The Kansas veterans will be encamped in Washington square, directly in the rear of national headquarters. Illinois will occupy Lyon park, in the extreme southern portion of the city. Missouri will be stationed in Hyde park, which is in the northern section. Jackson square, to which Nebraska has been assigned, is in North St. Louis. St. Louis park, one of the largest in the city, is further south. It will be occupied by Indiana, and probably by Kentucky. Carr park, which is much nearer the center of the city, has been assigned to Iowa and Wisconsin, Illinois will probably occupy, in addition to Lyon blocks away.

Each camp will consist of an assemblage of regulation wall tents, each holding eight men, with a larger tent for the commander of the camp, and the local adjutant having it in charge. Next the commander's tent will be a small press tent. Each camp will have a branch office of the Western Union Telegraph company, and as far as practicable the camps will be connected by telegraph, so that communication between them will be comparatively easy. All the larger camps will be illuminated through the night by arc

The chairman of the committee on camps, Col. John B. Gaudolfo, will have his headquarters in the Court House square. The court house building is of the usual cross shape, the four corners of the square being open grass plots. On one of these corners Col. Gaudolfo will pitch his tent. The other three corners have been reserved for Governor Rusk, of Wisconsin, who announces his intention of coming with his full staff to participate in the encampment. He will be escorted to the city by Robert Chives post, of Milwaukee. Immediately on its arrival. Sept. 25, Robert Chives post will take a train on the Iron Mountain road for Jefferson barracks, the military post just below the city. One of the features of the encampment will be a series of excursions to this point by rail and river to visit the National cemetery, where several hundred soldiers are buried. The programme committee was in a quandary for some time over the question of transportation to the barracks, as all the large excursion steamers on the Mississippi go south for the cotton trade in September. It is not unlikely that Ohio river boats will have to be obtained for the excursions. In addition to the daily trips on the river to the National cemetery, a number of excursions to old battle grounds in Kentucky, Tennessee and the southern and southeastern territory around St. Louis have been arranged. For Thursday of encampment week a general excursion to Springfield, Ills., is on the programme. The programme at Springfield includes a trip to the National cemetery and the Lincoln monument and a lunch.

From the returns received by the general executive committee there is promise of 75,-000 visitors in the city during the encampment. The committee on camps figured out some time ago that tent accommodations would be required for 24,200 men, as follows: Missouri, 5,000; Illinois, 7,000; Indiana, 2,000; Kansas, 6,000; Iowa and Wisconsin, 1,600; Kentucky, 800; Nebraska, 800; scattering,

In addition to their headquarters in Washington square, most of the northern and wes ern departments, and all of the eastern departments with the exception of New Hampshire, bave made arrangements for adjutant, Gen. Gray, will have headquarters on the parior floor of the Southern hotel, at the corner of Fourth street and Wainut street. The state headquarters, as assigned,

The programme for the entertainment of the guests of the city during encampment week includes a parade on Tuesday morning and a reception to the Grand Army at Chamber of Commerce hall Tuesday evening; the grand nocturnal street parade of the Trades' Display association and the reception and hop to the Women's Relief corps at the Chamber of Commerce hall Thursday evening; a banquet to the encampment delegates Friday evening, and a breakfast to the visiting press representatives Saturday morning. These are the chief features. They will be varied with camp fires, excursions, pyrotechnic displays, and hundreds of other smaller features, On the evenings of Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday the principal streets will be illuminated for miles with lines of glittering gas jets shaded by particolored globes. Huge arches of fire will span the streets at intervals, and special designs in brilliant cabid the Grand Army welcome. At the intersection of Fourth and Olive streets will be the equestrian figure of Gen. Grant; at Broadway and Washington avenue, the figure of Abraham Lincoln; in front of "Railroad row," on Fourth street, an engine and tender picked out in 3,500 gas jets, the bell ringing and the whistle blowing at intervals. At the intersection of Twelfth and Olive streets will be the Grand Army triumphal arch. It will span Olive street from curb to curb. On top of one of the columns that support it will be the figure of a soldier, musket in hand, standing beside a cannon; on the other column will be the figure of a sailor armed with a cutlass, one hand on a cannon and the other on an anchor. Beneath each of these figures will hang suspended a huge fac simile of the G. A. R. badge. Beneath these badges, in niches sunk in the columns, will stand mortars. In the center of the arch will be a transparency, with an equestrian figure of Gen. Grant. This WHITE FLANNELS, transparency will be illuminated at night. Grouped around it will be the flags of war and peace. Surmounting the arch will be a chariot drawn by four horses. The parade of Tuesday will bring together 20,000 veterans. The number has been variously estimated at 50,000 and downward, but I think I am safe in saying that the number will approximate 20,000. Gen. Grier will act as grand marshal of the parade. He will head the column, followed by the Springfield, Mass, armed battalion of 100, which has offered to act as escort to the commander-in-chief. Gen. Fairchild and his aids will follow, mounted, and will come the veterans on foot. Missouri will head the column, and Frank P. Blair post, No. 1, of St. Louis, will have the right of line. There will be one mounted post in the procession-John A. Logan post, of St. Louis, which will turn out forty men. One California mounted post conceived the idea of bringing on its horses, but it is understood to have abandoned the plan. The procession will move in columns of twelve or sixteen men from Franklin avenue, on Broadway, to Morgan street, to Fourth street, to Chouteau avenue, to Broadway (or Fifth street), to Washington avenue, to Fifteenth street, to Olive street, to Twelfth street, where it will pass under the triumphal arch and in front of the reviewing stand and disband. The line of march is about two and a half miles long.

The business session of the encampment will begin on Tuesday in the Exposition hall, and continue morning and evening until Friday, when it is expected the session will conclude with the election of officers. Friday evening's banquet will practically wind up encampment week, and Saturday will be devoted to clearing up the debris.

All the local arrangements have been in the hands of a general executive committee, of which Gen. D. P. Grier is chairman, and Capt. J. H. Steger, secretary. The committee includes in its membership a number of prominent citizens, many of them ex-Confederates. They have under their control a fund of nearly $100,000 raised by popular subscription for the entertainment of the visitors.

The Toronto Exhibition.

The Industrial Exhibition association of Toronto, Canada, opened its exhibition on the 6th in connection with the Dominion exhibition, to continue until the 16th, the governor general efficiating. The buildings of the exhibition, exclusive of the grounds, cost $250,-000; $40,000 in addition was expended during
