THE JUDGES DECISION.

THE DEPOSIT OF A CANDIDATE TO BE GIVEN BACK.

Judge Wilkison Thinks Mr. Britton Entitled to Money in the Hands of the Returning Officer Which Was Garnisheed-Some Eine Points of the Law Explained.

George Michael, of Toronto, having obtained a judgment against H. T. Shibley for $200, sought last March to recover that amount from J. B. Walkers, who was re turning officer for the electoral district ofthe county of 'Addington, and with whom the sum of $200 was deposited in order to enable Mr. Shibley to become a candidate at the last election for a member to represent that riding in the house of commons. The garnishee admitted that the money was in his hands and was willing to hand it over to the proper party, but Mr. Britton inter vened and contended that he was the person to whom the money should be paid. The judge gave decision yesterday. He first reviewed the evidence and called up the fact that Mr. Britton had put up the money, agreeing that if the necessary votes to redeem it were not secured he would stand the loss and would have no claim on Mr. Shibley, but if a sufficiency of votes was se; cured then Mr. Britton should have the deposit. "The arrangement," says the judge, "was distinct that the money should not be Shibley's in any way.". The vote was sufficient to secure the return of the money, and then the question arose, Was the plaintiff entitled to have the money paid to him, or should it be given to Mr. Britton or to Shibley to hand back to Mr. Britton? The plaintiff could only succeed on showing that | the Redemptorist Order in Rome, appoint the money was defendant's. "This," said the judge, "he cannot actually establish, because according to the evidence it is not the fact. He shows, however, a state of facts which he contends makes a prima facir case that the money is defendant's, and he also urges that Mr. Britton cannot award to dispute this, because he can only do so by showing that he has himself been guilty of an illegal act." Then the judge proceeds: "The statute requiring the deposit of a sum of money by a candidate, 37 Vic toria, chapter 9, sec. 19, as originally passed, reads as follows: "No nomination paper shall be valid and acted upon by the returning officer unless it be accompanied by the consent in writing of the person therein nominated, except in case such person be absent from the province in which the election is to be held, when such absence shall be stated in the nomination paper, nor unless the sum of fifty dollars be paid to the returning officer at the time the nomination paper shall be fyled with him, and the receipt of the returning officer shall in every case be sufficient evidence of the production of the nomination paper, consent of candidate, and of the payment herein mentioned. The sum so paid shall be applied by the returning officer towards the payment of the election expenses.

"Non, according to this, what was required was the payment of $50 to the returning officer at the time the nomination paper was given him. It is not stated in express terms by whom this money was to be paid, but the prior section, 18, provides that any twenty-five electors may nominate a candidate by producing to the returning officer, at the time and place indicated in the proclamation a nomination paper, as it is termed in section 19. Can it be doubted that the $50 might properly be paid by these electors who nominated the candidate? They are required by section 18 to produce to the returning officer the nomination paper, and section 19 directs that the $50 shall accompany it.

"The payment of $50 was changed into the deposit of $200 by 45 Victoria, chapter 3, section 8. This section does not expressly state who shall make the deposit. The only reference to this point is in the second paragraph which begins; 'The sum so deposited by any candidate shall be returned to him, etc. These words, no doubt, intimate that the $200 may be deposited by the candidate, but do they mean that it must be? I hardly think they would be given that meaning to make out that a person had committed an offence.

"I doubt very much the necessity of the $200 mentioned in section 19 being deposit ed by the candidate himself or his agent. certainly think it was competent for the electors nominating the candidate to deposit the money with the nomination paper, and I am inclined to the belief that any other person might properly have done it. If it were not actually necessary that the deposit should be made by the candidate I do not see that there can be any presumption that it was so made against the actual fact.

"Section 121 permits a payment or deposit by the candidate, as well as by any one else, except through an agent, whilst section 19 in its last clause speaks of the sum 'so deposited by any candidate.' Would this be so expressed if it were intended that section 121 should apply to it? I should say not. It is also to be borne in mind that section 19 as it now stands had no existance when section 121 became law, but was not passed until many years subsequently.

"A criminal statute, that is, an act creating an offence, generally applies to matters only which exist at the time it was passed, and not to matters coming into existence afterwards.

himself within section 121 by paying it to great industry. the returning officer. It was an act that could be done by the candidate or by a person other than his agent. I think, therefore, he is entitled to the money." Judgment was entered to this effect and without costs.

An eminent judge of human nature has told us to hope to change womanly fashions by word is vainer than to try by word to change wind or tide, but that there is something stronger in woman than love of beauty is the conclusion of -A Believer in Woman-LY COMPARISON.

"The milliner will tell you that you must wear birds' feathers in your bonnet to be in the fashion. The milliner has the feathers to sell. 'We tell you,' says the New York Commercial Advertiser, 'that many of the most fashionable and best dressed women in New York will not wear birds' feathers on any account, because they refuse to make themselves parties to the slaughter of thousands of birds, many of them killed while feeding their young, so that the young are left to die in the agonies of starvation. It is cruel, wicked and shameful to wear plumage purchased at such a price."

"N.B. - Ostrich feathers are of course excepted, since the use of them does not involve the destruction of the bird."

TALK WITH MR. WOOD, M.P.P.

He Will Adjust the Claims of Frontenac Farmers Views on Various Topics,

A. F. Wood, M. P. P., North Hastings, ias been adjusting the claims of farmers against the government along the Ridean canal, from Kingston Mills to Brewers' Mills, for injury to lands by water. Mr. Wood says that some of the cases are worthy and the claims will be settled as equitably as possible. But there are many claims that are not warranted. The farmers, however, were not guilty of attempts to extort money; they were only misled by cir. cumstances. Much of the land originally belonged to the ordnance department, and when sold a clause was introduced in the deed providing in perpetuity against damage by government works. Then farmers purchased say sixty acres of arable land, and had additional amount of land partially submerged adjoining it, which was not purchased. As the land changed hands, and part of the unpurchased property was utilized, the possessers believed that the land was theirs and they were entitled to damage for the portions put under water.

Mr. Wood will remain here for several days. The White reporter had a conversation with him about the weather, and he said that about Madoc more rain had fallen than in eastern parts. But the farmers about where he lived were largely interested in dairy business and had had a prosperous season. He was surprised in travelling in Eastern Ontario to find farmers neglectful of dairying and still looking after the grain. Mr. Wood is a free trader, but admits that countries are compelled by circumstances to protect themselves. If Canada adopted commercial union with the United States of course the two countries would have to discriminate against what was termed the cheap labour of Europe, and the ultimate result would be annexation to the United States. The cheap labour question brought up the relation of capital with labour. Mr. Wood looks forward to the time when labour and capital will stand side by side, when men who labour will have the privilege of securing from it sufficient to keep them and their families in suitable circumstances, and permit of their growing in intelligence. He strongly spoke against the bondage in which labour is placed, and showed the preposterous outrage committed by capital grinding men down and desiring to keep them and their families down forever. There were degrees of bondage, but whether in Russia or Canada it was all the same. The brotherhood of man will be acknowledged when labour and capital stand united.

Knox Knocked for Many Runs-An Accident at the Start-The Park Nine Club Shut Out in Seven Innings-Plenty of Disputation . General Items About Base-Ball Players.

Belleville, Sept. 20. The match with, he Park Nine to day was a chapter of accidents, errors and kicks. The first accident happened in this wise : Gilman had died at first and I yous and Dyson were on third and second bases respectively, when Jones sent a long one to left field which Millan muffed. Dyson saw the failure first and consequently was soon on Lyons' beels as he raced in from third. Lyons fell on the plate and Dyson came down with a foot on either side, but unfortunately le stepped on Paddy's hands cutting several big gashes. He was, forced to retire, and Reardon who had been umpiring, took right field. Jones going to second and Dyson to third James Mc. Cullough umpired the remainder of the game, and though his decisions on balls and strikes were sometimes out there was scarce. ly room for the kicking includged in by Knox. No more runs were scored until the sixth inning when three Belleville players crossed the plate, base hits and wild pitches materially assisting them. They got one more in the seventh and three in the eighth, making a total of nine runs. The Parks were his base on balls and came home on a threebagger by Knox, who put his whole endeavour into the swipe. The big change pitcher scored on a passed ball.

The game had not commenced until 4 o'clock, and the understanding was that only seven innings were to be played. The Parks, however, insisted on playing on, but when the eighth was finished it was getting dark (6:15 p.m.) and the Belleville players declined to go on in the dark and the umpire called the game.

Knox pitched a very good game and Mc-Hale did well behind the plate, but the fielding generally was wretched, and wild pitches were numerous and costly. Farrell pitched carefully and well and Morrison held him in good style. The slang-whanging of a few of the players tended to prolong the game and wearied the audience. Knox was mad all over -at the umpire, at his ill-luck and at the audience until the rest of the Parks were all laughing at him.
