THE ROLL OF THE KILLED AT THE RAILWAY CROSSINGS.

The Petition Forwarded to the Government Asking That the Present Order of Things be Speedily Changed-The Accidents That Have Happened -Thanks for Assistance.

Some time ago a committee of the farmers of Frontenac petitioned the federal government for pretection from accidents at the several railway crossings. On Saturday, through the Hon. G. A. Kirkpatrick, they forwarded to the minister of railways a partial list of the misfortunes that had occurred and the present order of things, which list will strengthen the petition and far towards securing a compliance with its prayers. It isas follows : William Robinson, killed at the crossing, outer depot, Sept. 5, 1867. Samuel Cooper, killed at the crossing.

10. Margaret Walker, killed at the crossing, outer station, Dec. 12, 1885. 11. Mrs. Henry Wartman, disabled for life, Cataraqui crossing, Dec. 17, 1883. 12. Mrs. Belfray, killed at the crossing, Cataraqui, date unknown. 13. Three members of Thomas Clyde's family badly hurt, and horse killed, at the crossing at Cataraqui, Nov. 14, 1865.

14. David Nicol, horse cut to pieces from the carriage he was riding in at the crossing at Cataraqui, date unknown.

The committee is composed of Messrs. J. M. Fair, M. Graves and Thomas Clyde, to whom the public are greatly indebted for the energy they have shown in this matter, and who, in turn, make grateful mention of the assistance they secured from Miss Alice Britton, in the county attorney's office, while consulting the public records for the facts in regard to the railway accidents.

SAM SMALL CHALLENGED.

District Assembly K. of L. Want a Public Discussion Will-He Grant It ?

District Assembly K. of L. No. 125 held its regular meeting in Toronto on Friday night. After discussing the disparaging remarks made by Rev. Sam Small on labour organizations the following resolution was offered and carried: "That this District Assembly, having been credibly informed that Rev. Sam Small, in the course of a lecture or speech delivered in one of our city churches recently, saw fit to unfairly attack and unjustly stigmatize our order and its platform of principles, and as the attack was made at a time and place which precluded reply, this District Assembly is of opinion that the reverend gentleman's statements should not be allowed to pass unquestioned. Be it therefore resolved, that the recording secretary be instructed to write the Rev. Sam Small, inviting him to meet a speaker to be named by their District Assembly and discuss with him in publie the platform of our order, and to offer to hire and pay for a suitable hall, and allow the reverend gentleman to name the chairman and to take up a collection at the meeting for his sole benefit."

THE GAME IS POSTPONED.

The Reason Therefore is Not Good-The Facts of the Case Given Briefly.

This morning the announcement was made that the Park Nine base-ball club would not meet the Kingstons this afternoon, because some of the players were not in condition, a surprising state of affairs when only on Sa turday it was announced that a game had been taken from the Kingstons by players who were not "in good condition." What this means the public have not been informed. Anyway the manager refused to play the team to day. Twice the managers of the clubs consulted and twice it was understood the game should proceed. As many times the Park Nine manager was told that the game could not go on. And so things stood until this afternoon. It seems wonderful that a paid team can dictate to those who employ them and say when and how they will play. Not only that but a great disappoinment was occasioned to the for Chicago, at Port Colborne, leaking, was | public. They were interested in the games and were anxious to see the thing out. On a previous occasion the Kingston management deferred to the other club's wish to postpone game because it wished to go elsewhere, but the return it has received is that it is peremptorily notified that because the battery is not in condition the game must be put off.

But is that the real cause? It would seem not, if the rumours current can be relied on. It is said that other men were to be secured, and failure resulting some excuse to postpone the game had to be got. In any league the reason for postponement would not stand, and the Kingstons are perfectly justified in demanding the forfeiture of the

It was not intended on Saturday night to use the Callihan battery in to-day's game. Crane and Oldfield, of the Toronto club, it is said, were to have officiated, but having to play in a match to-morrow they refused to come to the city. A runaway horse made matters lively on Princess street on Saturday morning. It appears that Mrs. Swain, wife of John Swain, and her son Frank, drove to the city from their home in the western part of the city. The horse, a spirited one, was hauled up in front of Mr. W. H. In front of Bowes & Bissonette's dry goods store two of Mr. Bissonnette's children were playing. They did not at first see the horse which was coming towards them. Over a hundred people breathlessly awaited results. It was impossible to reach the children in time to save them, but just as the horse reached them they dodged into a store doorway and the runaway went by. When the horse reached the corner of Princess and Montreal streets, it took a somersault and got mixed up in the harness and this kept it from going further. The vehicle was totally destroyed.

THE BASE-BALL MATCH OF SATUR-DAY AN EXCITING ONE.

The Enthusiasm of the Judience Undergoing Various Fluctuations-The Scenes at the Close-So Near and Yet so Far-

A Pitcher the Crowd Couldn't Rattle.

Kingstons, 8 ; Park Nine, 7. This was the score at the conclusion of Saturday's match.

It was a grand game of ball, the best that has been played in this city this season with one exception. The teams played to win. The batting was very heavy, but the fielding was exceedingly brilliant. Errors were made by players who usually play without errors, but they were excusa-

There were about 700 people in the grounds. Over 1,000 hugged telegraph poles, sat on the roofs of houses, peeped through the cracks in the fence, and so seeing the game saved a quarter. The majority of the spectators were prepared to shout for the Park Nine and did not neglect their duty.

But they didn't rattle the Kingstons a little bit. They played ball as coolly as if there were only the two nines present. The umpire, Mr. Sagendorff, who did better in his position then on several previous occasions, was made the object of ridicule. Oh, its nice to be an umpire. The most of his decisions were disputed, and pronounced "rank," but he held his

William Calliban's pitching, as usual, was excellent, and he was in as good form as on Friday. The battery for the Kingstons were Stafford and Fleishman, late of Malone. They proved the right men in the right place. Stafford throws a very deceiving ball, and takes matters very cool in the box. The yelling of the crowd did not concern him in the least.

At 3:30 the game was called. The Kingstons were sent to the bat. Osterhout go his base on balls, but, when Gilman struck. was cut off at second. The batter was retired at first. The ball was sent on a lively bound to left field by Fleishman, and out of the reach of Millan, When Allen smashed the ball to the field, Fleishman got to second. There were two men on bases when Young died at the home plate and the side was retired without scoring.

When the larks marched in they were lustily cheered. But when Callihan and McHale were retired at first the applause collapsed. The calm was broken, however, when Knox hit the ball fairly, secured two bases, and walked house on a pass ball. An awkward fumble on the part of Allen let W. Callihan get to first, and he stole second. The side was retired by T. Callihan tipping the ball into Garrett's hands.

The Kingstons did not score in the second innings. Stafford died at the plate. The short-stop muffed Morrison's hit, and he got to second on Jamieson's crack, and stole third on a wild throw. Garrett did bad work when he struck out at this stage. Osterhout was captured at first, and the side was again blanked. The Parks were also blanked in the last half of the second inning. J. Little struck down the pitcher's alley and was killed at first. Millan hit lively to the right fielder who didn't hold the ball. Another fumble by the short-stop let Walker go to his base. On T. Little's hit to centre field, Millan tried to get home, but by sharp fielding on the part of Gilman was checked. A fly from C. Callinan settled in Garrett's hands.

howling was nearly over. The friends of the Kingstons cheered, on the opening of the third innings, when Gilman sent the ball safely to centre field. He took second bag when Fleishman got his base on bad balls. A foul tip retired Allen, and Young was next at the bat. A pass ball by the pitcher, allowed Gilman to come home, making the score even. Young fell before Callihan's drops, and Stafford was cut off at first. The Parks were blanked in the third innings. Not one of them reached first base. McHale, Knox and W. Callihan were retired. The two first named were put out by Osterhout, who played in excellent form. The result of the fourth innings did not warrant any jubilation from the formerly noisy ones. The Kingstons got two runs. By bad pitching Morrison got his base and reached third on a two bagger made by Jamieson. Garrett's fly was caught, but Osterhout relieved the bases and reached and was put out and as Gilman was captured the side went to the field.

In the fourth innings the Parks were chicagoed. The enthusiasm of some people had by Callihan hit safely. McHale got his base on balls and Knox was retired at first. C. Callihan scored. W. Callihan hit to right field and called McHale | It is a flag or streamer, and the players are in. T. Callihan was caught in left field.

The first half of the sixth inning closed with one run , for the Kingstons advancing them one ahead of their opponents. Morrison and Jamieson were put out. Garrett smashed the ba'l in grand style to right field and gained three bases, and came home on Osterhout's hit to short stop. Gilman got on the bases and Fleishman's fly was caught in right field. The Parks were chicagoed in the sixth, seventh and eighth innings. In the seventh the Kingstons gathered in four runs. Allen was cut off at second ter shop and given a rest. He would not | after Young had struck. WI Callihan brightened their hopes when he sent the ball whizzing over the fence. "Another home run," cried the gamins.

The game was unusually interesting at this stage. Three more funs would have beaten the Kingstons, but only one was got, and that was secured by T. Callihan. J Little was caught out by Garrett, and that settled the match. It was won by the Kingstons by one run. A sadder lot of people never left a ball field than the supporters of the Parks. They anticipated too much and were dis-

The Kingstons retired, however, satisfied. The game was a grand one, and everyone enjoyed it.

Notes From the Field.

It was said the Parks will put a new battary in the game to day, Clark, pitcher, of Rochester, and Gallaher, catcher. Mr. Dyson, late of the Belleville club, of fered his services to the Park Nine club, but they were not accepted. The ball which Knox took from Eleishman, on Friday, was his own, not one of those that had been played with. Knox made matters straight when he returned Fleishman his property and apologized for his rashness. Osterhout, third baseman for the Kingstons, states that he has played a great many games of ball and has never been insulted as he has been since playing in this city by both men and women. He says that during the ninth innings in Saturday's game he was interrupted while going to throw to the home plate by a man who knocked the ball out of his hand. He could have retired one of the runners had he been left alone.
