Sad Fate of a Yachting Party of Six Men Near Port Arthur.

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 14.—A Port Arthur despatch says: "It was reported last night that the yacht Nettie, which left Jarvis Island on Thursday last with six men on board, for Port Arthur, had been lost. When the first thought of danger to the Nettie was believed Mr. Arthur McEwen, the manager of the Jarvis mine, immediately made all possible efforts to ascertain the whereabouts of the parties on board and the fate of the vessel. The tug Salty Jack found no traces of the Nettie during the day, but towards evening met the fishing boat, Three Brothers, and learned that the rudder and oars of the Nettie had been picked up between Welcome Island and Mutton Island. There is, therefore, no doubt but the six men met their death in the terrible gale of Thursday and Friday. Among those lost were Mr. Murray, from London, England; Mr. McKinnon, who leaves a young wife, almost heartbroken; and Mr. Fox and son, of Port William.

Exception has been particularly taken to an editorial referring in most uncomplimentary terms to Mrs. Cleveland, and saying, among other things, it is hard to have respect for a woman who would sell herself to so gross and repulsive a man as Grover Cleveland. The mob was led by Mayor Ames.

TRUSTEE ON HIS MUSCLE.

A FIGHT OCCURS AT THE MEETING OF THE SCHOOL BOARD.

Trustee Shaw and Architect Power Have Words and They Led to Bows—Mr. Shaw the Aggressor—Separating the Combatants and Holding the Pugilist at Bay.

A regular meeting of the school board was held last evening. Three communications were read. The provincial association of public and high school trustees of Ontario asked the board to send a delegate to the next meeting of the association to be held in Toronto in November. The matter was referred to the school management committee. It is not likely a representative will be sent from Kingston.

Dalton & Strange, agents for a patent fire extinguisher, requested the board to have some of those articles placed in the schools. The school property committee will deal with the communication.

The pupils of Miss Tandy's class, recently removed from the Central school to Queen street school, asked for a room more suitable than the one they occupied. The room is over-crowded, and it is impossible for them to make the progress they should do in their studies. The air is so very bad that some of the pupils stay at home, and those who attend have to leave before the school closes. The density of the atmosphere is great, and the windows have to be lowered on cold days. Capt. Gaskin explained that as soon as certain improvements were made in the Central school Miss Tandy's class would be placed in it.

FINANCE COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

The finance committee reported that it had placed the insurance of the several schools to the amount of $30,000 in the Royal insurance company for three years at 60c., and on contents of office and library for $1,000 at 85c. per annum. The committee recommended that the report of school property committee of May 28th, 1886, and the resolution of H. B. Savage, seconded by A. Horne, extended the time for completing the new school of June 10th, 1886, be reconsidered. The report was taken up clause by clause. Objection was raised to the passage of the last clause in the report, and a vote was taken upon it. The yeas and nays were as follows: Yeas, H. B. Savage, (chairman), Dunlop, Fee, Gaskin, Horne, McCammon, Williamson and T. C. Wilson, 8; nays, Shaw, 1.

INSPECTOR KID'S REPORT.

The number of pupils in attendance at the schools during the month was 2,036 of whom 1,003 were boys and 1,033 girls; the daily average attendance was 1,765; fifteen truancies were reported; teachers absent two half days and late four times; sixty-one pupils paid fees; the writing master devoted 23 hours to his work each week, and the teacher of drawing devoted 25 hours per week. All the rooms except those of one building are reported as having been properly swept and dusted during the month. No reports of contagious diseases have been received since the opening of the schools.

A MOTION VOTED DOWN.

The following motion was then moved: "That the city council be requested to assume the charge of the school trustee elections for the ensuing year, so far as to direct the returning officers appointed by the council to also act as returning officers for and report to the school board as to elections of trustees, the above action in no way to bind either the board or the council in all elections, but this to be merely a trial to see how the future elections may be carried on under the direction of the council."

Lost: Yeas, Fee, Horne, Shaw and Williamson, 4. Nays, H. B. Savage, (chairman), Anglin, Dunlop, Gaskin, McCammon and Wilson, 6.

BEGINNING OF A ROW.

Up to this stage the business before the board was transacted in an orderly and business-like manner. But the serenity had to be broken. Architect Power appeared and Mr. Shaw demanded the privilege of cross-questioning him in regard to the heating apparatus of the Central school. The trustee apparently was in possession of some information the correctness of which he desired to confirm. The board acquiesced in Mr. Shaw's request, which action it afterwards repented of. Mr. Shaw began immediately to question Mr. Power as to the size of a smoke stack and the dimensions of a flue. After a number of questions had been answered by Mr. Power he said that Mr. Shaw had got the matter mixed. The trustees tired of the discussion between Mr. Shaw and Mr. Power. Dr. Fee urged Mr. Shaw to finish the matter quickly, and Mr. Wilson remonstrated with him, saying it was wasting time in talking on a subject the board was well acquainted with. Mr. Shaw did not stop and continued the enquiry. At last several of the trustees retired, breaking up the quorum. This nettled Mr. Shaw some what, and he said: "Well, the matter will have to be settled some day." A conclusion between Messrs. Shaw and Powers was about to be reached and in a manner least suspected by the trustees.

Mr. Shaw went to the secretary's office for his overcoat and hat, and came in contact with Mr. Power. They talked about the matter under discussion, and Power told Shaw he had got certain matters, in connection with the heating apparatus of the Central school, very much mixed. Mr. Shaw said words to Power that, he says, were not complimentary. He became angry and retorted: "Shaw, if I had you outside I would smash your face."

PAINTING POWERS' NOSE.

As quick as a flash Shaw drew himself together, struck out and landed one of his fists on Power's nose, which took on a bright red tint instantly. Then the men grappled and twisted and writhed with each other for some time. The trustees in an adjoining room heard the scuffling and ran to the scene of the conflict. They saw the men butting furiously, and trying to do each other as much injury as possible. Horn seized Shaw and hauled him off his opponent. Some one shouted, "Don't let them fight in here."

The trustees divided and seized the combatants. They begged Shaw to keep quiet and told him the whole thing would be in the papers. "What do I care for the papers?" he replied. One man tried to hold his arms and Shaw said, "Let go or I'll hit you." Power was pushed aside, but Shaw tried hard to get loose and renew the contest. But he was a prisoner for certain when John McCammon had hold of him. When other trustees went to assist Mr. Cammon Mr. Shaw acted very badly, and Mr. Anglin became so incensed at his action that he said, "Shaw, we will not allow you to disgrace the board in this way."

CALM COMES AT LAST.

After being held for a while Shaw's passion passed away and he became himself again. The warfare at an end, the trustees retired to their respective homes in a somewhat ruffled state of mind. Trustees said in leaving the building, "This affair is really a disgrace to the board of education." And they were right.

Architect Power's Statement.

"As soon as Shaw came out of the board room I saw him in the secretary's room. I had one arm in my overcoat, and was talking to Mr. Anglin. Mr. Wilson was in the room. Shaw said to me, 'We will have more of this.' Some person made a remark to me, Shaw was facing me, but behind Wilson at the time. I said to him, 'Shaw, you have got matters mixed. You came to my office as a representative of Mr. McCarty in reference to the boiler. Now you are talking about a flue. You stated in a board meeting that you had nothing to do with McCarty in a legal way.' Mr. Shaw replied that if I said such a thing I was a liar. Mr. Wilson said to Mr. Shaw, 'You decidedly said what Mr. Power has stated. I said to Shaw after being called a liar, 'If I had you outside I would slap your mouth.' If it had been anybody else but Mr. Shaw I would have done what I said I could do at once. Instantly he struck me in the face, and I hit him in return on the side of the head. Mr. Shaw ran out of the room, but returned. When he came near to me I seized him and locked his head under my arm. I could have disfigured his face easily, and he could not have helped himself if I had liked. He tried to kick me, but couldn't. We were separated a short time afterwards."

A Trustee Speaks.

Mr. T. C. Wilson said: "I saw the row. I think Mr. Shaw acted disgracefully. Mr. Power and myself were talking when Mr. Shaw came into the secretary's room. Mr. Power said to Mr. Shaw, 'You got matters mixed.' Mr. Shaw said, 'I have not.' They talked some more, and to a statement by Mr. Power Mr. Shaw said, 'You are a liar.' Mr. Power replied, 'If you were outside, Shaw, I would slap your face.' Then Shaw struck Power in the face. Power returned the blow and a tussle followed, ending with a separation of the men by the trustees."

STORY OF A CRIME.

How the French Decorations Were Told—New Use For a Mirror.

GENERAL BOULANGER.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—The Herald's Paris correspondent says the Intransigent publishes the following under the history of a crime: "Gen. Boulanger is relieved of his command, and put under arrest. Gen. Davoust D'Anerstadt, military governor of Lyons, has replaced him. Gen. Boulanger assumes the full responsibility of the words imputed to him. Gen. Boulanger seems to be becoming more deeply implicated in the legion of honour scandals. As the hours roll by the belief steadily gains ground that Wilson, president Grevy's son-in-law, is guilty after all. It is said that when persons seeking the decoration of legion of honour were presented to him by Madame Limousin, Kreitmayer & Co., he would send there for a looking glass, protesting that the thing was impossible, and beneath the dignity of the republic, but at the same time he would breath on the mirror and afterwards trace with his little finger on the clouded surface the figures: 'Say 20,000,' '40,000,' etc., thereby indicating the price for which the cross could be obtained without writing or speaking. The condensed breath vanishing in a few moments later effaced all trace of the transaction. A few days afterwards the applicant would send his envelope full of bank notes, equal to the figures traced on the magic mirror and duly receive in return the parchment box containing the coveted cross."

PARIS, Oct. 14.—General Ciffarel, just convicted of selling civil decorations, will be deprived of his legion of honor decorations, and his pension will be reduced nearly one-half.

PARIS, Oct. 14.—Gen. Broye will succeed Gen. Boulanger in the command of the 13th army corps during the temporary suspension of the latter.

PARIS, Oct. 14.—The order relieving Gen. Boulanger from his command and placing him under arrest directs that he be placed under close arrest for thirty days. During that period the ministry will decide whether or not Gen. Boulanger shall be deprived of his command. The radicals members of the chamber of deputies have decided to make Gen. Boulanger a candidate for that body if he resigns, or is removed from his command. Further complications are imminent. Rumors are persistently circulated that Gen. Boulanger has resigned his command in the army.

Murder of the Spaniards.

MADRID, Oct. 14.—The Spanish government, being convinced that the revolt of the natives of Ponape was the result of religious persecution, has ordered that only those convicted of murdering the Spaniards be punished, and that the indemnity demanded by America be paid.

CONVENTION OF WOMEN.

THE WORK OF THE W. C. T. U.—THIRD DAY IN SESSION.

A Re-election of Officers—A Strong Pronouncement on the Liquor Question—Women Demanding a Full Recognition of Their Rights at the Polls—Delegates to the Various Church Bodies.

NAPANEE, Oct. 13.—At the W. C. T. U. convention to-day the executive committee reported the adoption of the district constitution and by-laws as prepared by the Toronto district union. The suggestion of President Chisholm as to systematic work was adopted.

The president, the secretaries, treasurer, and Mesdames Fawcett, Byers, Keefer, McRossie and Chamberlain, and Miss Skinner, were appointed delegates to the dominion convention to be held in Montreal in 1888. The delegates to the general mission boards are: Methodist, Mrs. Youmans, Pieton; Baptist, Mrs. Elliott, Farmersville; Presbyterian, Mrs. Cavers, Galt; Anglican, Miss Tilley.

Then the election of officers occurred as follows: President, Mrs. Chisholm, Ottawa; First Vice-President, Mrs. Tilton, Ottawa; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Rutherford, Listowell; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Wylie, Richmond Hill; Treasurer, Mrs. Brethour, Brantford. The presidents of all the county unions are, ex-officio, vice-presidents of the provincial union.

After dinner Mrs. Chisholm, president, was tendered a gift of $150, and Mrs. Wylie, corresponding secretary, a similar amount.

The reply of Hon. G. W. Ross, minister of education, to the telegram of enquiry as to the compulsory use of the temperance text books was read as follows: "The following is the new regulation respecting temperance in public schools: 'The nature and effects of alcohol upon the system, and the importance of temperance and a strict observance of the laws of health as set forth in the authorized text book, should form part of the regular instruction in schools from the second form upwards, and should be taught either by the use of text books or otherwise, as thoroughly as any other subject on the programme.' The ladies still considered that there was no compulsion in the matter, and again asked if "should" meant "shall" or "must."

The superintendants of counties were then appointed. Mrs. McRossie has charge of Frontenac and Mrs. W. Elliott of Leeds. The superintendents of departments were appointed thus: Work among lumbermen, Mrs. Shortreed, Toronto; sailors, Mrs. A. P. Morrison, Owen Sound; prison and police, Miss Inkster, Kingston; evangelistic, Mrs. Marshall, Stratford; organization, Miss Currier, Richmond Hill; fair work, Miss Fotheringham, Toronto; young woman's work, Miss Scott, Ottawa press, Miss Jennie Harrison, Georgetown; legislation and franchise, Mrs. Rockwell, Kingston; hygiene and heredity, Miss Anderson, Burlington; railroad, Miss Pearson, Brantford; Woman's Journal, Miss McFarlane, Toronto; conference with influential bodies, Miss Wylie, Richmond Hill; literature, Miss Alexander, Ottawa.

A voluminous resolution was passed, recognizing increased public interest in the temperance cause, and declaring that the society would, with more devotion, press forward to ultimate success in prohibition. Then the customary votes of thanks were passed.

Protests were entered against the use of fermented wine at the Lord's table, Sabbath desecration and Sabbath excursions. The union urged more earnest persistent work among the children, and uncompromising hostility to the license system. It considered the Scott act a stepping stone to total prohibition. Its inefficiency, it declared, was owing to the unwillingness of the officials entrusted with its enforcement and often complicity with the violators. The union observed, with gratitude, the progress of the social purity movement, and pledged support to secure a proper regulation of the precept, "Keep thyself pure." The way out of the captivity of drink was by the ballot box, and the union resolved to work until women receive equal rights of citizenship with their brother man.

The next meeting will be held in Sarnia. With hands clasped the members sang "Blest be the tie that binds," and with prayer the convention concluded.

A children's meeting was held at 4 o'clock in the Methodist church, addressed by Miss Skinner, of Toronto, and Miss Fraime.

The evening meeting was presided over by Mr. Wilson, M. P., who introduced the Hon. Mr. Robson, minister of education for British Columbia, who spoke of the work in his own province and thanked the women of Ontario for having sent their workers out there. He complimented the ladies on the success of the journal published by the president, but he thought it necessary that such a large and influential body should have a weekly organ and would promise to be one of a few to bear the expense.

Hon. Mr. Foster spoke of the work done and planned to be done by the women, joined Mr. Robson in his offer of assistance to the journal, and presented the ladies with a check for $25. But when he got upon the subject of license versus prohibition, and declared the country not ready for the latter, there arose an ominous muttering.

As he sat down Mrs. Youmans rose and vigorously and eloquently contested his arguments. She hoped the time would soon come when the government of Canada would hold the lives of Canada of at least as much value as her fish.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN STILL TALKING.

Glad to Find Himself Facing an Audience Not Composed of Landlords.

BELFAST, Oct. 14.—Mr. Chamberlain visited Coleraine yesterday, where he received a number of liberal-unionist delegates from the counties of Derry, Antrim and Tyrone. In an address Mr. Chamberlain said that he rejoiced to find himself where he could speak to a loyal Irish majority, which was not composed, as the followers of Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Parnell suggested, exclusively of landlords and those seeking to protect their personal rights. The most enthusiastic adherents of the connection between Great Britain and Ireland were found among the sturdy artisans and laborers, who felt that the change proposed would endanger their lives and liberties more than those of persons more fortunately circumstanced.

Reports from Verora states that Clark, the injured brakeman is in a critical condition.
