AT PEACE WITH ENEMIES

sleep to-night if there were any being in all the earth with whom I would not gladly shake hands, lest, during the night hours, my spirit dismissed to other realms, I should, because of my unforgiving spirit, be denied divine forgiveness.

"But," says some woman, "there is a horrid creature that has so injured me that rather than make up with her I would die first." Well, sister, you make take your choicefor one or the other it will be-your complete pardon of her or God's eternal banishment of you. "But," says some man, "that fellow who cheated me out of those goods, or damaged my business credit, or started that lie about me in the newspapers, or by his perfidy broke up my domestic happiness, forgive him I cannot-forgive him I will not." Well, brother, take your choice. You will never be at peace with God till you are at peace with man, Feeling as you now do, you would not get so near the harbor of heaven as to see the lightship. Better leave that man with the God who said: "Vengeance is mine, I will repay." You may say: "I will make him sweat for that yet, I will make him squirm, I mean to pursue him to the death," but you are damaging yourself more than you damage him and you are making heaven for your own soul an impossibility. If he will not be reconciled to you, be reconciled to him. In five or six hours it will be sundown. The dahlias will bloom against the western sky. Somewhere between this and that take a shovel and bury the old quarrel at least six feet deep. "Let not the sun go down on your wrath."

"But," you say, "I have more than I can bear; too much is put upon me, and I am not to blame if I am somewhat revengeful and unrelenting." Then I think of the little child at the moving of some goods from a store. The father was putting some rolls of goods on the child's arm, package after package, and some one said, "That child is being overloaded and as much ought not to be put upon her," when the child responded, "Father knows how much I can carry;" and God, our Father, will not allow too much imposition on his children. In the day of eternity it will be found you had not one annoyance too many, not one aspiration too many, not one outrage too many. Your beavenly Father knows how much you can carry. Again, we ought not to allow the passage of the sunset hour before the dismissal of all our affronts, because we may associate the sublimest action of the soul with the sublimest spectacle in nature. It is a most delightsome thing to have our personal experiences allied with certain objects. There is a tree or river bank where God first answered your prayer. You will never pass that place or think of that place without thinking of the glorious communion. There was some gate or some room or some garden walk where you were affianced with the companion who has been your chief joy in life. You never speak of that place but with a smile. Some of you have pleasant memorics connected with the evening star, or the moon in its first quarter, or with the sunrise, because you saw it just as you were arriving at harbor after a tempestuous voyage. Forever and forever, O hearer, associate the sunset with your magnanimous, out and out, unlimited renunciation of all hatreds and forgiveness of all foes. I admit it is the most difficult of all graces to practice, and at the start you may make a complete failure, but keep on in the attempt to practice it. Shakespeare wrote ten plays before he reached "Hamlet," and seventeen plays before he reached "Merchant of Venice," and twenty-eight plays before he reached Macbeth. And gradually you will come from the easier graces to the most difficult. Beside that, it is not a matter of personal determination so much as the laying hold of the almighty arm of God, who will help us to do anything we ought to do. Remember that in all personal controversies the one least to blame will have to take the first step at pacification, if it is ever effective. The contest between Æschines and Aristippus resounds through history, but Aristippus, who was least to blame, went to Æschines and said: "Shall we not agree to be friends before we make ourselves the laughing stock of the whole country!" And Æschines said: "Thou art a far better man than I, for I began the quarrel, but thou hast been the first in healing the breach," and they were always friends afterwards. So let the one of you that is least to blame take the first step toward conciliation. The one most in the wrong will never take it. Oh, it makes one feel splendidly to be able by God's help to practice unlimited forgiveness. It improves one's body and soul. It will make you measure three or four more inches around the chest, and improve your respiration so that you can take a deeper and longer breath. It improves the countenance by scattering the gloom, and brightening the forehead, and loosening the pinched look about the nostril and lip, and makes you somewhat like God himself. He is omnipotence, and we cannot copy that. He is independent of all the universe, and we cannot copy that. He is creative, and we cannot copy that. He is omnipresent, and we cannot copy that. But he forgives with a broad sweep all faults, and all neglect, and all insults, and all wrong doing, and in that we may copy him with mighty success. Go harness that this coming eventide let the divino and the human be concurrent. Again: We should not let the sun go down on our wrath because it is of little importance what the world says of you or does to you when you have the affluent God of the sunset as your provider and defender. People talk as though it were a fixed spectacle of nature and always the same. But no one ever saw two sunsets alike, and if the world has existed 6,000 years there have been about 2,190,000 sunsets, each of them as distinct from all the other pictures in the gallery of the sky as Titian's "Last Supper," Rubens' "Descent from the Cross," Raphael's "Transfiguration" and Michael Angelo's "Last Judgment" are distinct from each other. If that God of such infinite resources that he can put on the wall of the sky each night more than the Louvre, and the Luxembourg, and the Vatican, and the Dresden and Venetian galleries all in one is my God and your God, our provider and protector, what is the use of our worrying about any human antagonism? If we are misinterpreted, the God of the many colored sunset can put the right color on our action. If he can afford to hang such masterpieces over the outside wall of heaven and have them obliterated in an hour, he must be very rich in resources and can put us through in sublime action of your soul to an autumnal sunset, the hour when the gate of heaven opens to let the day pass into the eternities

and some of the glories escape this way through the brief opening. We talk about the Italian sunsets, and sunset amid the Ap-penines, and sunset amid the Cordilleras.

But I will tell you how you may see a grander sunset than any mere lover of nature ever beheld; that is, by flinging into it all your hatreds and animosities, and let the horses of fire trample them, and the chariots of fire

roll over them, and the spearmen of fire stab them, and the beach of fire consume them, and the billows of fire overwhelm them. The sublimest thing God does is the sunset. The sublimest thing you can do is forgiveness. Along the glowing banks of safety. If all the garniture of the western heavens at eventide is but the upholstery of one of the windows of our future home, what small business for us to be chasing enemies! Let not this Sabbath sun go down upon your wrath. Mahomet said: "The sword is the key of heaven and hell, a drop of blood shed is better than fasting, and wounds in the day of judgment resplendent as vermilion, and odoriferous as musk." But, my hearers, in the last day we will find just the opposite of that to be true, and that the sword never unlocks heaven, and that he who heals wounds is greater than he who makes them, and that on the same ring are two keys: God's forgiveness of us and our forgiveness of enemies; and these two keys unlock Paradise.

And now I wish for all of you a beautiful sunset in your earthly existence. With some of you it has been a long day of trouble, and with others of you it will be far from calm. When the sun rose at 6 o'clock it was the morning of youth, and a fair day was prophesied, but by the time the noonday of mid life had come and the clock of your earthly existence had struck 12, cloud racks gathered and tempest bellowed in the track of tempest. But as the evening of old age. approaches I pray God the skies may brighten and the clouds be piled up into pillars as of celestial temples to which you go, or move as with mounted cohorts come to take you home. And as you sink out of sight below the horizon may there be a radiance of Christian example lingering long after you are gone, and on the heavens be written in letters of sapphire, and on the waters in letters of opal, and on the hills in letters of emerald: "Thy sun shall no more go down, neither shall thy moon withdraw itself, for the Lord shall be thine everlasting light and the days of thy mourning shall be ended." So shall the sunset of earth become the sunrise of heaven.

OF NEWSPAPER NOTORIETY.

What the Press Says About Men and Women Who Are Well Known.

Henry Villard is an accomplished musician, and often spends his evenings in playing a violin to his daughter's pianoforte accompaniments.

Mme. Blavatsky, the theosophist, is round faced and bright ayed, shrewd and full of vanity, fleshy and good natured, but with manners that are much to be desired.

Boston Corbett, the man who shot John Wilkes Booth after the assassination of Lincoln, has just been declared hopelessly insine. He has been placed in the Kansas state insane asylum.

Senator Hiscock's favorite fruit is the banana. He buys bananas by the dozen and sits in his office stripping down the sides in an indolent, contemplative way before he devours the pulp. It is conducive to his enjoyment of bananas to put his feet up on a table while cating them.

Ernest Legouve, author of "Adrieane Leouvrour," although 80 years old, is one of the best readers in Paris. His manner of life would do credit to a Chinaman, for he lives in the old stone house where he was born, uses the study that his father used before him, and rarely if ever leaves Paris.

Miss Clara Louise Kellogg says that all mateurs of music should keep their eye on Mile. Adiny, who is now singing under a three years' engagement at the Grand Opera house, Paris. Mile. Adiny is about 29 years of age, large, and of an Italian type of beauty. She is, however, an American girl, her real name being Chapman, and her birthplace Boston.

There died in the Old Gentlemen's home at Boston, a few days ago, a man who was identified with the leading mechanical inventions of the past fifty years. His name was D. H. Chamberlin, and he was a cousin to ex-Governor D. H. Chamberlin. Some of the devices in the inventions of which he was interested were the repeating rifle, the hand and power planer, the spring roll for window curtains, the hook and eye machine, the kerosene lamp burner and the lettered wheel hand stamp.

It is hard to believe that Aimee was almost 50 years old. Yet she was born in Lyons in 1838. She preserved her youth and health in a marvelous manner. Her complexion was clear and smooth, like Mrs. Langtry's. She had a round, full face, with pronounced features, strong white teeth, and cold, gray eyes, She was temperate, and very careful and dainty about her toilet. She kept no maid. She used to bathe her feet in cologne after a walk, and to change her stockings with every change of costume. Her stockings cost about $6 a pair, and she wore out five dozen pairs a year. As a consequence her feet were as pink and white as an infant's.

Otter Belt, one of the greatest of Comanche chiefs, died in Indian Territory a few days ago. Five minutes before his death they held him erect and rigged him out in his best war costume. They painted him red, set his war bonnet on his head, tied up his hair in beaver skins, and laid him down just as he died, Then his five wives took sharp butcher knives, slashed their faces with long, deep cuts, cut themselves in other places, and beat their bleeding bodies and pulled their hair. They also burned everything they had, tepees, furniture, and even most of the clothing they had on. A big crowd of bucks looked on and killed ten horses, including a favorite team of Fress Addington, on whose ranch Otter Belt lived.

A Higher Evolution.

Besides the unconscious evolution by natural laws, inherited from below, there is a higher evolution, inherited from above, indissolubly connected with man's spiritual nature-a conscious, voluntary striving of the best members of the social aggregate for the betterment of the whole-a conscious, voluntery striving both of the individual and of society toward a recognized ideal. In the one kind of evolution the fittest are those most in harmony with the environment, and which, therefore, always survive; in the other, the fittest are those most in harmony with the ideal, and which often do not survive.-Professor Joseph Le Conte in Popular Science Monthly.

Lorenzo Dow's Clock.

At the New London (Conn.) county fair, John Troland, of Norwich, exhibited the clock that ticked for Lorenzo Dow in his gambrel roofed house at Oxoboxo Lake. Elder Dow brought the clock from England. It is more than 100 years old. It is a quaint and striking timepiece. There is simply a prim dial plate, around which two long, crooked fingers creep, with open air works behind it, no case, and three or four brass weights on cords dangle six feet below the face. It was going during the fair, and attracted a great deal of attention.-Chicago Herald.

Flannel.

Carbolic acid is recommended for moistening the tools with which metals are worked. The efficiency of the grindstone is said to be greatly increased by this means.

Among the relics of her lest royalty preserved by Empress Eugenie is an umbrella which cost $2,000, the handle of which is set with splendid jowels.

Knights of Labor are requested to meet in heir hall on Monday evening at 7 o'clock.

WILL BE AT THE

BRITISH AMERICAN HOTEL

On Monday & Tuesday, Oct. 24th & 25th.

I am coming this time with renewed vigor and an entirely new stock.

My extended tour through Europe this summer was made for the benefit of my customers as well as for my own health. I visited New York, London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna, Hamburg, and other Control important cities on the continent in order to add the latest foreign ideas to those I already possess.

I shall on this visit show some of the greatest novelties and specialties in Ladies' and Gent's Hair Goods ever exhibited on the American continent. Styles of the latest, newest and most becoming designs. I have not had time to have cuts made of them for printing, but if you will call at my Show Rooms, see the fine stock, and have some pieces tried on you will

In Bangs I have so many styles it is impossible to mention all. There are the Frankie, Portland, Betties, Shingle, Amanda, Lucy, Point and others

My former styles of Waves and other Frontpieces have been also improved upon. In Gent's Wigs and Toupees I likewise have new methods of manufacture. Now is the time to secure some real fine articles.
