THE CIVIC COMMITTEES.

VARIOUS QUESTIONS COMING BE-FORE THE DEPARTMENT.

Some Claims Mct and Settled, Others Under Consideration-The Deputation to Ottawa iu Regard to Railway Crossings-Injury by a Broken Sidewalk.

The regular fortnightly session of the streets committee was held yesterday afternoon. Present : Ald. Thompson, chairman ; Alds. Drennan, Hobart, Downing, C. Rob inson and Muckleston.

Petitions from persons living in different parts of the city, and requiring drains, were read and handed to the city ergineer. Secretary Phippen, on behalf of the school board, asked for a new boardwalk to replace the old walk in front of the Central school. Ald, Thompson explained that all the old walk needed was patching, and he had instructed the city engineer to see that this was done. The chairman's action was endorsed.

Col. Villers desired a two plank crossing laid from Barrack street to the artillery park, and Ald. Drennan said it was greatly needed. The chairman was satisfied that a crossing was needed, but owing to the low state of the city's funds this improvement could not now be made. There were other improvements more needed. Ald. Drennan ; "So you say, Ald. Thompson, there are not sufficient funds with which to build the crossings ?" Ald. Thompson ; "I don't think money can be spared for the work, but the matter will receive our consideration.

On the night of Sept. 13th Mrs. Christmas while walking on a crossing at the corner of Wellington and Union streets fell and had one of her arms broken. She contends she was tripped in a hole in the crossing and requires compensation from the city. Ald. Muckleston said he had drawn the attention of the city engineer to the matter on a previous occasion. The chairman thought that if the accident had really been brought about by a defective crossing, the engineer should be authorized to consult the city solicitor in regard to the case. Ald. Downing pleaded strongly in behalf of the applicant for aid. He thought her case should be dealt with at once.

A communication was received from Messrs Clyde, J. M. Fair and Greaves, composing the de atation that went to Ottawa recent ly for the purpose of securing better protec tion at railway crossings. They asked the council to grant a portion of the expenses incurred in bringing the matter before the railway committee at Ottawa. They also desire the council to make the approach to crossing under the G. T. R. on the Storring ton road, leaving Montreal street at the east of Mr. Quigley's property and passing between Robert Hunter's property and the G. T. R. branch to the city until said lines intersect the boundary line between the city and county. They also required the council to cause to be removed from Ontario street, near Cataraqui bridge, the steam box owned by the Montreal forwarding company, the timber obstracting the public travel on the street, and the telegraph poles to the opposite side of the street from that on which they now where. Ald, Thompson intimated that he had worked hard to get Ontario street cleared at the parts alluded to in the communication but was so poorly supported in the council that his designs were frustrated. The matter under consideration was referred to the city engineer.

Some time ago Mr. Robinson, carriage builder, sent a bill to the council for pay ment of work performed by him. In it were two items, of $15 each, for brakes which he had put on the city's sprinkling carts. Ald. W. Wilson objected to the charge, arguing that they were too high. The account was laid aside and the opinions of carriage builders in the city obtained. They claimed that they would have done the work at lower rates. The committee decided to allow him $10 for each brake. The bill, as amended, reached the finance committee. But Mr. Robinson told Alds. Thompson and Muckleston he would not accept the reduced amount. He could prove that he was not over-charging. He wrote to some carriage builders in different cities in Canada, and their figures were produced at the meeting vesterday and in every case higher than Mr. Robinson's. Ald. Thompson, in justice to Mr. Robinson, said he should be paid his account in full. A motion was moved to that effect and unanimously carried.

MRS. JAMES BROWN POTTER.

Is She or is She Not a Good Actress? That Is the Question.

Have we another great American actress; Such is the question dramatic New York is asking about Mrs. James Brown Potter, who has just made her first appearance in the metropolis at the Fifth Avenue theatre before the most fashionable and critical audience ever gathered in New York. Indeed, the marvels of that audience, the array of eminent men and richly dressed women, have almost overshadowed the actress in the press reports. That Mrs. Petter is versatile is certainly proved by the astonishing variation among the critics, while but one pronounces her a great actress already, and many say she may become a great actress by much study and practice. At Pleast one great authat she has no thority pronounces dramatic talent whatever, and can never be other than conventional and commonplace. And while the press critics differ in BROWN BITTER this amazing way, unprofessionals are still worse, one set falling on her artistic character like birds of prey and the other going into raptures over her beauty and grace. But on one point there is enthusiastic unanimity: the audience was the most brilliant ever gathered in New York on a "first night." Over $12,000 had been paid for seats; box, parquetto and dress circle blazed with diamonds, and even in those sections usually given up to people of limited incomes were crowded with the wealthy and fashionable. The society in which Mrs. Potter was not many years ago a leader was there en masse, and, to their honor be it said, they were determined to approve if possible. Fair and richly jeweled hands were clapped in applause of every little success; and fashionable New York very emphatically gave notice that a lady does not lose caste by becoming an actress, if she becomes a great one. Foreign born actresses have of course had as large audiences, but none to compare with this in brilliancy; the best known authorities in art and the infallible leaders of society were all there.

Mrs. l'otter's career as an actress began in amateur theatricals, with the best and brightest of the hant ton as assistants and the parlors of the wealthiest as stages. In an "unlucky hour," as the morali is then said, 'she recited "Ostler Joe" in an everysive manner before a fashional! an acce. She woke up a week after to find account famous-locally at least. A storm of criticism was answered by a torrent of vehement dofense and praise. Denunciations of "Ostler Joe" as a "vile production" were promptly followed by such vigorous defense that millions read it where but dozens had heard of it-and all who read it had their minds directed to Mrs. James Brown Potter. She escaped the drudgery of slowly toiling her way to a high position on the stage much as Mrs. Langtry did, but with a far better social standing. Her husband's income having been greatly reduced by business reverses, she decided to become an actress. Her career in England and France has been judiciously kept before the public, and she comes to the United States with public curiosity just at the pitch a manager likes to see it. Add that she is still young, piquantly beautiful, of more than average general intelligence, and that fashionable society has, as it were, adopted her, and it will be plain that her path to dramatic greatness is as nearly strewn with roses as the path to any kind of greatness can be,

All the critics agree that the character for her first night was badly chosen. The play was "Mlle. De Bressier," adapted from the French of Albert Depit—and badly adapted,

Mrs. Potter had wonderful success financially in her first week's performances. The receipts aggregated $13,131.75.

A GIFT TO A LODGE.

The Brethern Surprised-A Band of Ladies Burst Into the Room.

A very pleasant time was spent last evening in the lodge room of the Kingston lodge of Oddfellows, No. 59. After the regular business of the evening was gone through the sisters of the Louise lodge, No. 10, of the Order of Rebecca, with D. G. Sister Dunn as spokeswoman, presented an address, thanking the members of the Kingston lodge for the many courtesies extended to them in the past, and accompanying the address was a very handsome clock. N. G. Reynolds, on behalf of No. 59, thanked the sisters for their handsome present. A programme of music was then gone through with. Sister Carnovsky presented an organ recital, Bros. Keeley and Greenwood songs, Bro. Parks a recitation, and Bros. Maxwell and Greaves readings, and an address from Bro. Saunders. After refreshments were partaken of the pleasant evening was brought to a close by all standing and singing "God Save the Queen." The clock was

MISSIONARY ALLIANCE.

ITS SESSIONS CONTINUED IN CON-VOCATION HALL.

The Papers Read Yesterday Afternoon and the Addresses in the Evening-The Objects Aimed at by the Alliance-The Little Done Toward the Conversion of Heathendom.

The delegates at the inter seminary missionary alliance, in session at Queen's university, had an interesting time yesterday. In the morning an excellent paper was presented by Rev R. Garside, of McMaster Hall, upon "City Missions," and much discussion followed. Rev. Dr. Shauffler also made an address, going into decails regarding the establishment and working of Sabbath schools in gotless districts. He was even more pointed than on the previous evening. He answered questions with freedom, and so intelligently that a vast amount of information was secured. The afternoon was occupied in considering "Work among the Canadian Indians," the subject being introduced by C. C. Owen, of Wycliffs college. "The Work in Africa" was also presented, by Mr. McLeod, of Knox_college.

The Evening Meeting.

There was a fair audience at the evening meeting. Rev. M. McGillivary occupied the chair.

Rev. S. G. Bland made a fine address. He pointed out that the presence of young men, engaged in considering christian topics, demonstrated very clearly that the gospel was not a thing for old age or the sick room, but a force that could enter right into the business activities of life. And as young men flocked to the standard of Christ, more and more would politics and commerce become permeated by christianity. He was proud to see the collegians declaring themselves for Christ, for with the men of culture imbued with love for Him and His cause the christianizing of wealth would follow. He touched on the matter of unity as evidenced in the title of the alliance and for a time he dwelt upon the subject with much emphasis. Union could only come when men first gave allegiance to Christ's church and then to denominationalism. To-day this allegiance was reversed. As soon as the workers, not the theologians, became the controllers, then union might be expected. And the hope of union was in the development of the missionary spirit. On that level all workers could meet and do work for Christ. Then the divine character of missionary work was expressed. It was possible for all to have an interest in it, and the day was coming when, through its influence commerce would become unselfish and the gold and the silver would become the Lord's. In that day a christian millionaire would be a monstrosity. The aim and purpose of all would be "Thy Kingdom

Rev. J. Goforth, missionary to China, gave an address principally sketching the condition of heathendom and the amount of work Canada has done to help to enlighten it. To christianize 1,000,000,000 souls in heathen lands there were 3,000 missionaries. while in Canada there was 5,000 ministers for 3,000,000 souls. By means of maps he impressed his conclusions on the mind. Christian nations were spending $150 for the water of death for every $1 for the water of life. For every $7.50 spent in liquor, 5c. was spent for souls. To convert the heathens one cent per year per soul was the contributions of the christian world. What can be done? If one cent per day was given by every Canadian for the salvation of the heathens then yearly $18,150,000 would be raised and if one out of every one hundred christians went to the mission field then they would have 5,000 missionaries instead of only 105 as now. The address was decidedly interesting

Saturday Morning's Session.

The morning's session was occupied almost entirely with business. Motions for changes in the constitution, presented by Messrs. Baldwin and Hamilton respectively. were passed. A motion to memorialize the various supreme church courts and representative religious bodies of Canada to appoint the day of prayer for colleges, that is now adopted in the United States, was moved by Mr. McDougall and carried. It was decided that the next meeting of the alliance should be held at Cobourg.

The following were appointed a convention committee: Messrs. Metcalf, of Mc-Master Hall; Mason of Montreal Congregational college; Scott, of Knox college; Thompson, of Victoria college, and Fatt, of Wycliffe college.

But That Gentleman Has a Government Gffice - Talk at a Meeting.

The Lennox liberals are having an excit ing time. Last Saturday forty of them met and adjourned until Nov. 26th. At the meeting the resignation of S. Gibson, presi dent, appointed county registrar, was presented. According to the Express, Thomas Flynn asked why a report of the work done under Mr. Gibson's presidency had not been submitted with the resignation. Mr. Curlette said nothing of the kind had been handed to him. Mr. Flynn said it was be cause affairs had been so mismanaged that Mr. Gibson could not make a favorable report and so they got none. He accused certain reformers of pulling the wires to further their own private ends, and demanded a report before the resignation was accepted. Then J. C. Drewry, proprietor of the Ex press, called attention to the resignation of Stephen Gibson, and said that although it was dated on the 31st of March Mr. Gibson had not resigned until after he had been publicly called on to do so by the Express in August. On the 22nd of August Mr. Gibson wrote a letter in which is stated he had not resigned and refused to do so, and that letter the speaker held in his hand. Mr. Drewry further said that for Mr. Gibson to send in a resignation ante-dated for the very purpose of creating wrong impression was an insult to the association. Mr. John Martin, Richmond, agreed with Mr. Drewry, and thought it high time a stop was put to such actions. Then the gathering broke up.

THE YOUNG MEN'S WORK.

Lecture By Dr. Herald-Mr. Kirkpatrick

Will Speak on Friday Evening. "What to eat and how to eat it" proved an interesting topic for Dr. Herald's talk at the parlor of the Young Men's Christian association last evening. The room was well filled with young men. The doctor spoke of the reasons for eating, and described the properties and value of the various kinds of food. Practical kinds were given in regard to digestion, etc. At the close the speaker was called on to answer a running fire of questions about the subject.

The next event in this course is the bimonthly members' meeting, which has been ante-dated one day to Thursday, the 24th. An interesting lecture is to be the attrac-
