The French in Another Turmoil-Government Not a Stable Institution.

Paris, Nov. 21. - The motion for an interpolation of the government was made by M. Clemenceau. Premier Rouvier de manded that the debate on the subject be adjourned until the 24th inst. in the interest of the measure for the conversion of the public debt. M. Clemenceau said it was a singular method of reassuring the holders of public funds to tell them that they could live in peace until the 24th, and to promise that there would then be a crisis such as had never before occurred. The public, he declared, had too long awaited an explanation. There was practically no government. The ministry was not in condition to guide a republican policy. Parliament was abandoned to the direction of the right. The law officers of the state and the police were in conflict, and the administrative disorder was complete.

The division on the government's proposal to adjourn the debate was taken at the conclusion of Clemenceau's speech. Upon the announcement of the result of the vote the chamber adjourned until Monday amid great excitement.

The ministers held a conference, after which they proceeded to the palace of the Elysee and placed their resignations in the hands of President Grevy.

Animals' Conduct While the Fire was in Progress - Elephants Running Madly Through the Street-The People At tacking the Rhinocerous and Seeking to Kill It-Big Show About Ruined.

BOSTON, Nov. 20, -The main building of Barnum's & Baillie's greatest show on carth was entirely destroyed by fire this morning. In less than 30 minutes the big building, which was 600 x 200 feet and two storeys in height, was entirely consumed. The first intimation of the fire was given by the roaring of lions and tigers which seemed to realize the impending danger. Next the elephants struggled in their chains, but in an incredibly short time the flames swept from one end of the huge structure to the other. One of the men was in the horse building when his lamp exploded, igniting the hay and straw. Five of the watchmen have reported, the sixth is missing, and it is believed he was cremated. The upper portion of the build ing was filled with hay and all the paraphernalia of the great show. Before the first alarm ceased sounding the whole building was enveloped in fire, and no one dared to approach the building, being fearful of the crazed animals. Three elephants were burned up, and thirty-six broke from their fastenings and dashed outside of the burned buildings. Their roars and trumpetings and sounds of torment were terrific. Six elephants and a large African hippopotamus rushed about the screets, presenting a sickening appear. ance. Their sides were burnt and great pieces of flesh a foot square fell off. Thirty elephants and one large lion made their escape and have started off across the country towards Fairfield and Easton. Alarm has seized many residents in the west end, and they have taken refuge in their houses. the horse room were all the ring animals, trained stallions, ponies, etc.; these were all burned. In the upper rooms were the tents, poles, etc., for the entire show, and these were also destroyed. In the east room were the birds, monkeys, three rhinoceros, hyenas, tigers, lions and all the menagerie, which fell a prey to the flames. So rapid did the flames leap across the main building that the firemen made no attempt to save it, but turned theirstreams upon the chariot buildings and carshed, which they succeeded in saving. The total loss is estimated at $700,000, upon which there was but $100,000 insurance.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Nov. 21.-At 12 o'clock most of the elephants had been corralled. The rhinoceros was got out of the building, but was burned, and cut, both by getting out of the cage and by the crowd, the flames could be seen with their trunks, and scattering the crowds in all directions. The birds were all in New York at Central park. In the paint shop were many of the handsome chariots under going repairs. These were wheeled out as fast as possible, but not without injury.

At 12 o'clock, what two hours before had been the home of some of the wonders of the earth, lay a heap of smouldering ruins. One cage, twisted in all shapes and still incandescent, stood prominently out against the dark back ground of the night. The white Polar bear was in a building apart from the other animals and was unharmed. At 2:50 a.m. but one elephant was missing.

BRIDGEPORT, Nov. 21.-By the fire at Barnum's four elephants, five lions, seven leopards, six panthers, four kangaroos, six horses and a large number of smaller animals perished. One of the large elephants escaped and this morning was found drowned in the sound near the light house. Mr. Bailey says $100,000 will probably cover the

A DISASTROUS ACCIDENT.

FEARFUL LOSS OF LIFE IN THE BRITISH CHANNEL.

A Rotterdam Steamer Bound for America Run Down in a Fog-Distressing Scenes on the Sinking Vessel-Many of the Dead Brought Into Doyer.

LONDON, Nov. 19 .- The steamer W. A. Scholten, Rotterdam, for New York, was sunk by a collision with the steamer Rosa Mary, of Hartlepool, ten miles off Dover.

The Scholten carried 230 passenger and crew. The steamer Ebro of Sunderland rescued ninety of the crew and passengers and landed them at a Home, Dover. One hundred and forty passengers are missing. One passenger and a child were found dead from exposure. It is hoped passing vessels have rescued the missing ones. The W. A. Scholten's masta are visible from Dover

The Rosa Mary is anchored off Ramsgate with her bows stove in.

5 p.m.-Up to this hour twenty-two bodies from the W. A. scholten have been landed. At the time of the accident a fog prevailed. Immediately after the shock the Scholten's passengers rushed on deck in night gowns. The boats were lowered, but only two were available. Three others were uscless. The water rushed through the hole in the bow and a terrible scene ensued. The panic-stricken passengers, attered piercing shrieks, and many fell upon their knees and prayed aloud. Children clung to their mothers. The officers were cool and remained on the bridge to the last. Several persons procured life-preservers and leaped into the sea. Within twenty minutes the Scholten was engulfed. All who had put on life belts floated and were rescued by the boats. Many of the rescued lost wives, husbands, brothers and sisters. The survivors were supplied with clothes.

Very Conflicting Accounts.

The passangers' accounts regarding the circumstances of the collision, and the reports of the officers of the Scholten clash with those of the Rosa Mary. Some passengers state that the evening's merriment had ceased and most of the passengers had retired to their bunks when a crash was heard. They say it is impossible that the collision could heve occurred by the Scholten striking an anchored vessel.

The second mate of the Scholten reports that he was on deck when he saw an unknown steamer coming through the fog. Before anything could be done the Scholten was struck in the fore-rigging and port bow. The other vessel, which he ncw presumes was the Rosa Mary, backed off and disap peared. Within twenty minutes the Scholten sunk.

The captain of the Rosa Mary states that his vessel was run into while anchored southeast of South Sandhead by an unknown steamer. Finding that his vessel was damaged he proceeded to Dover Roads, where the vessel is now docked. The Rosa Mary was laden with coals for St Nazaire. According to the latest statement there leaving 132 drowned and missing.

A Passenger's Experience.

George Moore, a passenger, states that when the crash occurred a rush was made for the deck. The Recovery of the Bodies. No bodies were recovered during the morning because the tide was running to the eastward. Darkness prevented the recovery of bodies, but many boats and tugs have put to sea on the chance of picking them up. Many of those whose bodies have been recovered look as if they had been frozen to Victims of the Accident.

LONDON, Nov. 21.-Two bodies of the steamer Scholten have floated ashore at Deal. There is now no doubt that Captain Taat went down with his steamer. Mr. Robson, one of the saved, stated that the Scholten had just weighed anchor when the collision occurred. There were 800 lifebelts on board, but they proved useless in a majority of cases as the people were engulfed with the ship. The steamer's decks burst when she was foundering. The sunken vessel lies in 20 fathoms of water. The survivors will sail for New York on Wednes-

Statement of the Officers.

DOVER, Nov. 21. - Some eighty persons in all have been saved from the wrecked tteamer Scholten. No more bodies have been recovered here. It is the universal feeling that the fault of the collision rests with the steamer Rosa Mary. Chief Wells says: "He and the captain were on bridge. I first saw the colliding steamer off our starboard bow sloping her course to the starboard side. The Rosa could not shift her position, being anchored, and the tide being ebb. The steamer ported her helm and attempted to cross the other's bows. The tide, however, not being rightly judged settled the vessel on the Rosa's bows. cutting her to the water's edge. The Rosa remained at anchor during the night and was piloted to Dover next morning, and docked."

Captain Webster states the collision occurred at 10:30 p.m. Lights indicated the approaching vessel was passing the starboard bow. Suddenly the green light disappeared and a red light was shown. Im mediately there was a terrific collision. The steamer that struck us proceeded and no
