Birthplace of Lincoln—His Childhood. The Books He Read.

A concise statement of the birth and boyhood of President Lincoln is as follows:

Abraham Lincoln was born in Hardin—now Larue—county, Ky., on Feb. 12, 1809. His ancestors were among the early settlers of Rockingham county, Va., whither they had gone from Berks county, Pa., and from which his grandparents removed to Kentucky about the year 1781.

Deep Sea Soundings.

There are places in the ocean very near to the most frequented shores, like the gulf stream off Cape Hatteras, where it has been found impossible if not impracticable to determine the depth of the water with certainty, owing to the rapidity of the current, combined with its great depth; and the same stream, within a few miles of the north shore of Cuba, where the depth is less than 1,000 fathoms, for a long time baffled the skill of the best officers of the American navy in their efforts to obtain a section across the straits between Cuba and Key West; and on the other hand, there are areas extending hundreds of miles seaward from the coasts of continents, like the plateau off the coast of Ireland, where the depth hardly exceeds 500 fathoms, and where soundings are so easily made that they would be classed in hydrographic work as "off shore soundings."

Color.

You will find in the study of light and colors that the color of an object depends upon the reflection of rays of light from that object, according to the peculiar character of the atomic constituents composing the object. Now in a room that is dark (i.e., where there is an entire absence of light rays) there must of necessity be no light rays to be thrown back or reflected from the object; consequently, if you can possibly perceive the object at all (which is doubtful), you will perceive it black. The law of colors is a law of reflection of light rays. The solar spectrum, or, in other words, a ray of light, is composed of seven colors, viz.: Violet, indigo, blue, green, yellow, orange and red.

The Darwinian Theory.

According to the Darwinian theory whenever any body of animals becomes too numerous (i.e., when they threaten the extinction of some other species of animals) they are destroyed by the workings of a law called natural selection. By this law the fittest survive and the weak perish. This law being in operation, an infinite period of time has evolved from the lowest forms of animal life the highly organized and intelligent animal known as man. This process of evolution, according to the theory, is still going on continually and will finally develop men in the course of thousands of ages into beings verging on approximate perfection. These theories, in this respect, bear a strong likeness to the millennial visions of the seers and prophets.

The Equatorial Telescope.

An equatorial telescope is a telescope mounted upon a fixed axis parallel to the axis of the earth, and turning also upon a second movable axis parallel to the equator, for the continuous observation of heavenly bodies, and for noting their right ascension and declension. The motion of the telescope around its fixed or polar axis is necessarily parallel to the equator, and this gives the instrument its name. In order to maintain the object observed steadily in the field of view, the telescope is made to revolve around the polar axis by an attached clockwork, which admits of regulating so as to vary the velocity of rotation according as the object under examination is the sun, the moon, a planet or a fixed star.

The States of Mexico.

There are twenty-seven states in Mexico. Their names are as follows: Aguascalientes, Campeche, Chiapas, Chihuahua, Coahuila, Colima, Durango, Guanajuato, Guerrero, Hidalgo, Jalisco, Mexico, Michoacan, Morelos, Nuevo Leon, Oaxaca, Puebla, Queretaro, San Luis Potosi, Sinaloa, Sonora, Tabasco, Tamaulipas, Tlaxcala, Vera Cruz, Yucatan, Zacatecas. The area of Mexico is 752,829.77 square miles. There are also two territories, the Federal District and Lower California, which increase the area to 812,023.24 square miles. The population is 10,340,152.

Apparent Satellites.

By looking at the planet Jupiter in a mirror one may see what appear to be "moons" alongside of the image of the planet. These so-called moons are only multiple reflections of the planet itself from the front and back surfaces of the glass. Try the experiment with a bright fixed star or a distant street light, and the same multiple image will appear.

Long Bridges.

Of suspension bridges, the Brooklyn Bridge is the largest, and that across the Ohio river at Cincinnati probably the second, while of arch bridges that across the Mississippi at St. Louis ranks first, and the bridge over the Susquehanna at Havre de Grace is one of the longest wooden bridges in the country.

Comets With Long Tails.

The comet of 1858 was larger than any comet that has appeared since, though the comet of 1861 spread from the northern to the southern horizon. The comet of '58 was 42,000,000 miles in length; that of 1860 22,000,000. The comet of 1861 was 24,000,000.

The Greek God of Love.

Eros was the servant of when Antony demanded a sword to kill himself, but instead of giving it to his master he killed himself in Antony's presence. Eros, in Greek mythology, is the god of love, and the cupid of the Latin poets.

Story of Greenwood Cemetery.

This story is a little staggering, but absolutely true: During the past week a lady whom death had relieved of her fifth partner in this life notified the Greenwood authorities that she desired to have the grave which contained the remains of her deceased husband re-opened for her burial. The most rigid care is observed by the authorities in such instances, and as she alluded to she was informed they could not open the grave. Investigation brought to light the fact that her repeated marriages had necessitated the transfer of the deed of the plot from one name to another whenever she took upon herself new marital responsibilities. As might have been expected the clerk was not a little astounded that the worthy lady should fail to readily give the proper name, as she was at all times a party to the numerous transfers. His breath was, however, fairly taken away when she said, in explaining away her error: "You must excuse me, sir, but it has been so long a time and so much has happened since that unhappy event that I had almost forgotten my dear husband's name." Her dear fifth now rests at peace with the dear forgotten first and the grave is full.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills.

The soothing properties of these medicaments, render them well worthy of trial in all diseases of the respiratory organs. In common colds and influenza, the Pills, taken internally, and the Ointment rubbed over the chest and throat, are exceedingly efficacious. When influenza is epidemic, this treatment is the easiest, safest, and surest. Holloway's Pills purify the blood, remove all obstacles to its free circulation through the lungs, relieve the over-gorged air tubes, and render respiration free, without reducing the strength irritating the nerves, or depressing the spirits; such are the ready means of saving suffering when anyone afflicted with colds, coughs, bronchitis, and other chest complaints, by which so many persons are seriously and permanently afflicted in most countries.

He Was Sick.

Had a far away look in his eyes, predicted all sorts of evil, short crops, low prices, a new rebellion in the North-West. His skin was yellow, and a fever spot on each of his cheeks told of a torpid fever and poisoned blood. A box of Hamilton's Mandrake and Butternut Pills worked a wondrous change, for through their stimulating action on the liver, all poisonous germs were removed from the true river of life—the blood. Crop prospects improved, prices were away up, and life at once became filled with new prospects and pleasures. Try Hamilton's Pills at druggists and dealers in medicine.

A Hint to Housekeepers.

Mrs. Robert Williamson, of Glenora, Parry Sound, Ont., says, "I could not keep house without Hagyard's Yellow Oil at hand. I have used it in my family for croup, sore throat, and a cut foot and can highly recommend it to everybody."

Try And Be Cured.

Lame back and nervous debility, associated with rheumatism, is sometimes met with in every day life, but as a rule we find more than two of these complaints in the same party. Be this as it may. The only sure and perfect cure is electricity and the best form of administering it is by Norman's electric belts and insoles. W. J. Wilson is agent, and from him you can procure testimonials and circulars relating to any of your complaints.

Nil Disperandum.

"Never despair," is a good motto for all. If afflicted with any lingering disease, remember "while there is life there is hope." Never despair of relief until you have tried Burdock Blood Bitters. It cures diseases of the stomach, liver and blood when all other medicines fail.

Trouble in the Foot Guards.

OTTAWA, Nov. 29.—It is reported that trouble has arisen among the officers of the Governor-Generals Foot Guards and that one of the captains of the regiment has lodged with the adjutant general of militia some serious charges against the commanding officer.

Since last October I have suffered from acute inflammation in my nose and head. For a week at a time I could not see. I have used no end of remedies, also employed a doctor, who said it was impure blood—but I got no help. I used Ely's Cream Ealm on the recommendation of a friend. I was faithless, but in a few days was cured. My nose now and also my eyes are well. It is wonderful how quick it helped me.—Mrs. GEORGE S. JUDSON, Hartford, Conn.
