ORIGIN OF THE COOLNESS.

The Correspondence Between Prince Bismarck and the Czar Understood.

Loydon, Dec. 2. - The Standard claims to be in possession of reliable information concerning the forged documents sent to the czar, purporting to be from Prince Bismarck, in explanation of his attitude on the Bulgarian question. The paper states that Prince Ferdinand, before going to Bulgaria, despairing of securing the aid of the central powers in establishing his right to the throne, appealed to the czar, strongly disapproving the policy of Prince Alexander. He was determined to restore friendship between Russia and Bulgaria. Some friends of Prince Ferdinand sent letters to the Russian imperial chancellor, purporting to have been written by Prince Bismarck, ap proving of Prince Ferdinand's action. The czar was, thereupon, convinced of Bismarck's duplicity as the latter, at that time, officially disapproved of Prince Ferdinand's acceptance of the throne of Bulgaria.

A Delegation on Its Way to Ottawa They're Sueing for Peace

WINNIPEG, Dec. 2. Hon. Messrs. Harrison and Lariviere have gone to Ottawa to sue for peace. Norquay and Lariviere are to be shelved and Harrison lead the government. Sir John is to be asked to hand over the land grant of the Hudson's Bay railway on which the province has already given $256,000 in provincial bonds although the grant has not been passed. In return for these concessions a new government will be formed under Harrison, to do dutifully just what Sir John says. The announcement of the calling of the legislature in the second or third week in January created astonishment, as it was believed Norquay's object was to obtain delay. It it now believed that he will, if there is an adverse vote, appeal to the country, and as there are many members of the present house who are not likely to secure re-election it's possible he may not be driven to this extremity.

MR. PARNELL'S RETIREMENT.

The Action of the "Times" in Spying His Movements Condemned.

LONDON, Dec. 2. - The Times set spies on Mr. Parnell, and found him living incognito in the village of Brockley, in Kent, under the name of Preston. Mr. Parnell is in delicate health. He had a perfect right to seek repose while parliament is not sitting. Surprise is not expressed at the conduct of the Times, but the Parnellites are determined to retaliate, and a watch will be set on the private movements of the Times writers. This will prove rather awkward, as a good number of the journalists will shrink from such an ordeal. The Times, one nationalist says, has only discovered a mare's nest. Mr. Parnell is leading a quiet, respectable life. The spying is condemned with remarkable unanimity. Even the Observer and the World are indignant. The latter says that Mr. Parnell is a gentleman, and is entitled to be treated as such.

HE DOES NOT WANT TO WAR WITH THE PARLIAMENT.

Excitement in Krance-Some Think a Revolution is Near-Grevy Did Not Force Boulanger Out of the War Office Arrest of a Deputy.

EX-PRESIDENT GREVY.

Paris, Dec. 2. - At'6:30 o'clock last evening M. Rouvier announced that he had communicated to M. Grevy the vote of the chamber on the order of the day. This communication caused the president to modify his resolution. He had never intended to enter upon a conflict with parliament and would, therefore, send a message to the chamber of deputies and the senate informing them his decision. M. Rouvier added that the president declined to accept the resignation of the cabinet which, therefore, retained its functions. M. Rouvier's statement was greeted with cheers, and at its conclusion the chamber adjourned.

Paris, Dec. 2. - Paul de Roulede had an interview with President Grevy, in the course of which he disclosed the nature of the alleged Russian objections to M. Ferry becoming president. He said the grave and critical position of home affairs required that M. Grevy should retain his post. There recent hostility to President Grevy, which, judges to court. he said, was occasioned by the expulsion of Gen. Boulanger from the war office. M. Grevy denied that he had manceuvred against Grevy turned to each minister and asked his opinion. All told him that his immediate resignation appeared peremptory. M. Grevy replied that it was the chamber that had brought about the existing situation, and that the chamber must bear the responsibility before the judgment seat of history. A discussion ensued on the terms of the ministerial declaration to be made in parliament. M. Grevy begged M. Rouvier not to pronounce the word "resignation" from the tribune. The use of the word, he said, would be unconstitutional, because congress ought to be summoned immediately on the president's resignation, which was only to be announced to-day. He authorized M. Rouvier to informally acquaint the individual deputies that his resolution was taken, and that in the presence of the votes taken, in the senate and chamber it was irrevoc-

When M. De Roulde left the chamber he proceeded to the Hotel de Ville, followed by a large crowd of people whom he harangued calling for cheers for M. Grevy The only responses to his appeal were cries of "A bas Ferry," and "Demission!" "Demission! M. De Roulde and the crowd moved toward the senate when the crowd was dispersed by the police. The Cost of Living-The Necessity of Industrial Schools Insisted Upon.

Toronto, Dec. 2 .- The labour commission met yesterday, and Thomas Galbraita, commercial editor of the Globe, gave evidence regarding the price of farmers' produce, groceries, etc, showing that they were lower than in 1872.

John Galt, civil and mechanical engineer, had a good deal of experience in industrial education in England. The men who attend the schools are practical workingmen who have a practical knowledge of this work, but require instruction in the theory. In this country mechanics cannot advance for want of industrial schools, which should come between the common school and the university. The witness did not think these schools should be run in connection with the public schools. They must be separate and be open at night. The School of Technology, Toronto, does not go far enough. It can never take the place of the apprenticeship. It gives theoretical but not practical knowledge.

Louis P. Kribs, journalist, was also examined regarding industrial education. The system of apprenticeship in Canada, he said, had outgrown itself and there was nothing to take its place. The schools give boys no idea of how to use their hands, and when they go to work it takes them a loug time to learn they have hands. He described the technical schools in various parts of Europe.

Charles Rogers Rundle, contractor and builder, thought that combinations had on the whole been of benefit to the workingmen. He believed that nine hours was long enough for a day's work.

John Galbraith, professor of engineering in the university of Toronto, believed night schools were the best for the advancement of the mechanic.

At the evening session Albert M. Wickens gave evidence regarding stationary engineers. He thought they should be required to possess certain qualifications so as to avoid the accidents which are constantly occuring through the employment of incompetent engineers.

Charles W. Barton, harnessmaker, gave a somewhat melancholy account of the condition of his trade. The union was practically dead, wages were low and there were too many boys and poor workmen in the

ADMITTED TO BAIL HE BUNDLES UP AND SUDDENLY FLITS.

He is Accused of Taking Between $20,-000 and $30,000 of the Belleville People's Money While Acting as Manager of a Local Manufacturing Concern-His Bail Too Light.

Belleville, Dec. 2 .- Yesterday the trial of John Harte, late general manager of the stove foundry, was to have been resumed, but the prisoner, out on bail, did not appear. There was a sensation in consequence. Mr. Dickson stated that he had seen Mr. Harte a week since, that his son and Mr. Patterson, his son-in-law, had called and stated that Mr. Harte was at Hamilton. As he had not put in an appearance they had wired to Hamilton to see where Mr. Harte was. He sought an adjournment. This was granted, but at I o'clock the prisoner failed to appear and his bonds were estreated. C. W. Meekin, of Hamilton, a son-inlaw, was on one for $2,000.

John Patterson, nephew of Mr. Harte, was in the city yesterday. He is a leading builder in Hamilton, and worth probably $75,000. John W. Harte, son of the accused, was with him. They returned to Hamilton last night. They did not evince surprise when Harte did not turn up, and it is just possible they were better acquainted with his movements than they wished the public to understand.

It was ascertained that Harte and his wife and child had left for Hamilton on Wednesday. "They had a lot of baggage," said Mr. Lake, "and when we got to the station Harte reached me a $10 out of which I took my pay for the cab hire. They seemed to be happy as clam's and I thought he was coming back or I should have kept the $10 bill.

Mrs. Harte had an auction sale of her furniture on Friday last, and sold about $300 worth. The best furniture she kept and shipped to Hamilton. Mrs. Harte had considerable money of her own.

There is a feeling about town 'hat Harte's bail was not sufficient to ensure his attendance at the trial, and strong language is used in denunciation of the magistrate's leniency. "I tell you this sort of think is placing a premium on crime, and the press of the city should expose it," said one. "Harte had wealthy relatives, and if the bail had been five or ten thousand dollars he could have got it. Mr. Flint is too lenient. As police magistrate he is not expected to know anybody, but to try the case on its merits, and if the man is found guilty send him up for a term that will put a stop to crime of this sort. It is a crying shame that this man was allowed to go, when it is said he took between $20,000 and $30,000 in hard cash belonging to the citizens of Belleville. It's no wonder joint stock companies are considered frauds "

"Take Ponton's case, Appleby's, and many others I could mention that have come before the present police magistrate. Not one of them ever went to trial. The accused got away on what might be called a weak bail, because I have yet to learn that in a single instance has their recognizances been estreated, and Harte has gone to join them. His bail may be forfeited; time will
