NEEDS OF THE HOUR.

At the meeting of the board of health yesterday the medical officer of the city again pointed out the danger to health of having the drains empty their obnoxious matter into the water of the harborall along the front of the city. As a remedy for the existing condition of things he suggested Into this sewer all the street drains would enter, and the sewage be thus carried off to any desirable point. The idea is not new, but it does not lose in its significance on that account. It has been discussed by others well versed in sanitary science, and declared to be a necessity, and that without it there can be no hope of a perfect freedom from the obnoxious smells, or from the contamination which the water used for domes tic purposes undoubtedly suffers. The suggesticn to be sure involves expense, but it is a question if that expense can be very much longer avoided if the public health is to receive that care which it imperatively demands. In addition to improving the drainage along the front of the city, or at least in diverting the deposit of the drains' out flow, the city council will have to figure upon the extension of the water works' suction pipe to a point at least several hundred feet beyond where it now ends. The calculation is that the city, not having any dividends to pay, will have, from the present rates collected from consumers, a surplus of funds, and that it can be devoted to the increasing of the efficiency of the water works system. The first duty of the council should be to procure a supply of purer water, and this can never be so long as the source of that supply is in the vicinity of where any sewer empties.

THE PULPIT ON LABOUR.

One of the remarkable signs of the times is the attention which the clergymen are giving to the interests of the working classes, and it is a sign of much significance. Against | church. some of those who have championed labour interests the charge has been made that they are influenced by personal motives, but this charge cannot be fairly or honestly urged against the clergy. They occupy a peculiar position; they minister to all classes, the rich and the poor, the dependant and the independent, the capitalist and the la-. bourer, in spiritual things, and, occasionally, in order to awaken men to a sense of duty to the church and to themselves, they criticise the transactions of their followers in the most trenchent language. Few ministers in the past have, however, shown a disposition to go beyond the line where speech ceases to be non-committal; but the number is increasing, and by and bye the occupants of the pulpit may be the arbiters as well as critics of the differences occurring between the employers and employees.

Not long since a meeting of Protestant Episcopal clergymen was neld in New York (Bishop Huntington and Rev. W. S. Rains. ford, D.D., among them) at which these questions were seriously considered. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Church Association for the Advancement of the Interests of Labour, whose objects and principles are the following:

The Church Association for the Advancement of the Interests of Labour, believing that the clergy and laity of the church should become personally interested in the social question now being agitated, should inform themselves of the nature of the issues, presented, and should be prepared to act as the necessities of the day may demand, sets forth the following principles and methods of work for its members :

1. It is of the essence of the teaching of Jesus Christ that God is the Father of all men and that all men are brothers. 1. God is the sole possessor of the earth and its fulness; man is but the steward of God's bounties. 3. Labor, being the exercise of body, mind and spirit, in the broadening and elevating of human life, it is the duty of every man to labour diligently. 4. When the divinely-intended opportunity to labor is given to all men one great cause of the present widespread suffering and destitution will be removed. Those present were far from being in accord with the principles thus enunciated, but the speeches indicated that serious atten tion had been directed to the attitude the church ought to maintain in relation to the industrial questions now agitating society. Bishop Huntington advised employers to be just and patient, to live unostentatiously, and advised clergymen to study the conditions and needs of the people. The classes could only be reconciled on the foundation of the gospel of Christ and by the church. One of the most outspoken opponents of the purpose of the meeting was the Rev. Mr. Townsend, who said he administered every Sunday to a wealthy congregation and would not take up a crusade against them. He was opposed to taking any part in a meeting which might be construed into sympathy with the labour party. And right upon his heels came Bishop Huntington's son who concluded his address by saying: "There lies a profound distrust of clergy among workingmen. They look at the church as an assembly of respectable.

people, who are willing to uphold the present commercial spirit of money-getting. They read the new testament, and find its teachings different from the church practices. They have asked for bread and have been given a stone. Too many of us think that a good man with money is better than one without money. I am a knight of labour, and the principles of that order aim to make industrial and moral worth—not CONTINUES LANSDOWNE national greatness. How many of us are willing to preach that to our congregations -that the millionaire is not in the highest but in the lowest grade, if he does not render an equivalent for his support. This movement has a deeper purpose than mere politics. It teaches that every man must work in order to live. It is a gospel of work, not a gospel of idleness."

Rev Hugh O. Pentecost, of Newark, commenced a series of sermons on the relations existing between employers and employees, and created such a feeling in the congregation that he was called to account for his views. His church sustained him, but it was suggested that he give his thoughts to things less affecting the pockets of the people, lest they should take offence, and, in retaliation, make his pocket suffer. He may be silenced thus, but it is doubtful.

Last Sunday the Rev. Dr. Heber Newton, that a sewer be built along the water front. of All-Souls' church, New York, in discussing "The Dangers of the Republic," found fault with the educational system. He would have the people's schools afford some training in industrial pursuits, "if we are not to go on breeding the discontent of the crowds standing idle in the market place of labour, because no man can hire them as a charicy." As for the remedy for the dangers of the republic Dr. Newton said it lies in the intelligence and conscience of the nation. All legislative and judicial partialities and denials of the natural rights of man as man must be brought to an end. Equal aid by law and equal chances in the free field of industry provide all the equality possible under the constitution. "With these," he asked, "What has any man to fear or complain of ?" Nothing whatever.

And last Sunday, too, in this city, Rev. Mr. McGillivray, of Chalmers' church, spoke out in such a manner as to show that his heart was in the right place, that he had some thought for the sufferings of the unoccupied and underpaid classes, and that he felt it to be his duty to counsel the exercise of fairness and humanity in the dealings of man with man.

The pulpit has been somewhat slow to catch the spirit of the times, but the pulpit is speaking out, intelligently, hopefully, impressively, and from the pulpit there should issue an influence of speech that is to be commanded from no other source. And the Anglican pulpit leads in the discussion, a notable fact, seeing that it confronts capitalistic power in the pew quite equal to, if not greater than, that possessed of any other

LABOUR AND WAGES-

Flint Glass Workers' Ultimatum-Strike in Northampton Shoe Factories.

London, Dec. 2. - A strike is in progress in the shoe factories at Northampton. Last evening while a body of police were escorting the workmen to their homes they were attacked by the strikers, and a severe struggle ensued. Eight constables were injured by being struck with stones. It is expected that worse trouble will occur at the end of the week, when an immense number of operatives will be locked out.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—A Philadelphia despatch says that through the efforts of Gen eral Manager McLeod, of the Philadelphia & Reading railway, and a committee of the Reading employers and striking miners, all danger of a serious complication between the company and Lehigh operators, because of the interception of the Lehigh "scab" coal, has been avoided. It is thought that the Reading freight hands will not in future attempt to intercept any more "scab" coal sent down from the interdicted Lehigh region. The editors of the leading papers of Philadelphia were appealed to yesterday by a committee of miners to act as arbitrators in the Lehigh strike, and the committee was assured that the cause of the men would receive the hearty sympathy and co-operation of the editors. NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—An important secret meeting was held in this city on Tuesday in which the shoe manufacturers participated. From several of the centres for that trade in the United States several methods were considered, which if adopted, the manufacturers claim will do away with most of the annoyance incident to strikes in their trade.

MR. DILLON AS A LEADER.

His Growing Popularity in England-He's Mr. Parnell's Ablest Lieutenant.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2. - A London despatch to the Times says John Dillon's splendid reception at Plymouth, coming on the heels of the great ovation given him at Manchester, excites interest even more personal than political. He will come back to parliament in February as a very close rival to Parnell in point of distinction and popular backing, and if the latter's health should prevent his regular attendance Dillon will be easily the foremost of his lieutenants and the leader of the party. The English liberals do not look forward to this prospect with complete unanimity. The result of the Dulwich election is a moral victory for home rule. In 1885, before the home rule question was raised, the tories had a majority of 1,694. Now, after it has become an issue more or less dividing the liberal party, they win by 1,412.

Charges Against Him Anent the Beecher Eulogy Service. NEW YORK, Dec. 2 -Rev. Dr. Joseph Parker was last night duly exonerated from all the charges, made in regard to proceeds of his work of love by the Beecher statue fund committee, at a special meeting. The resolutions exonerating him state that the trouble was the result of conflicting cablegrams, and conclude by characterizing Dr. Parker as "an honorable and christian gentleman." It is understood that he will occupy the Plymouth church pulpit next Sunday and will be tendered a reception during the following week.
