LATE SPORTING ITEMS.

The Fight Between Sullivan and Mitchell Arranged—Some Sharp Walking.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—The Sun gives the following account of the meeting of Mitchell and Sullivan on Tuesday night in London, when a match was made between the two. Mitchell suggested a fight on next Tuesday, Sullivan wanted it on Saturday, but agreed to Tuesday, adding as a parenthesis to his friends that if he left anything for Mitchell's wife to recognize by Tuesday night he (Sullivan) would never hold up his hand again but take to driving a team.

Mitchell wanted to fight for £500 a side. Sullivan growled, "Make it more if you've got the money," but agreed to the £500. London prize ring rules were agreed to, bare knuckles and all the rest of it, and then came the size of ring. Then began trouble. Mitchell said a twenty-four foot ring, wanting room, as is natural in anybody who is making arrangements to fight a man who only understands knocking out. Sullivan said, "It'll be a sixteen-foot ring." Sullivan's arm is long. Its reach is increased so much by his shoulders, which poke out like another pair of arms, that sixteen feet is not much. Mitchell knows this. He refused to hear of anything but a twenty-four-foot ring, and then the language which passed was too painful to report, and would probably twist the cable wires besides. The friends kept between Sullivan and Mitchell, and they told each other all kinds of things. What cut Sullivan to the quick was when Mitchell told him he was no gentleman. He had told him before he was a bluffer and had never even whipped a good little man, and the first citizen of Boston had treated those remarks with the disdain which he could well afford, but the "no gentleman" part was too much, and Sullivan, who had promised every one that he would keep his temper, lost it.

He made a grab for Mitchell, but was stopped. Then he offered to fight in a twenty foot ring and when that was refused the Sullivan who has frightened so many Boston policemen and indulged in so many impromptu fights came to the surface. Every one thought blood would be spilled all around the door. The walls of the room, which was only ten feet square, were of glass, and every one would have been cut a little. It was a great relief to those who had no interest in Mitchell's fate when Sullivan said: "Come on, you little bluffer. Bring your father-in-law with you, and I'll lick you now anywhere."

Mitchell's father-in-law made it plain that no such scheme was palatable to him, and Sullivan, grabbing at Mitchell once more, said: "Come, get into the carriage and settle it, if you've got any fight in you."

This proposition met the joyous approval of all the Americans, including Phillips, Sullivan's backer, and Holke, his manager, but Chippy Norton, the big bookmaker and Sullivan's friend, was there, and knew that Sullivan would ruin his chances in England by treating anyone as he would certainly treat Mitchell had they gone away together. He threw himself before Sullivan, forming a 340 pound barrier, and succeeded in preventing what would have been a most beautiful battle. Sullivan was in a rage that was quite unpleasant to witness. He tried to say something, but could only find words more and more expressive to vent his opinion of Mitchell, and at last, urged by Chippy Norton, went away, telling Phillips, his backer, to make any arrangements he liked, first handing to Chippy Norton a bag containing £100 to bind any bargain that might be made.

Phillips decided that the fight must be arranged somehow, to prove Sullivan's willingness to fight anything. Two hours' talking was done, and Mitchell, who has a reputation for cleverness at business, got everything he wanted. A fight was arranged a long time ahead, early in the spring. The date is to be kept secret. It will take place in a 24 foot ring. London prize rules, for £500 a side. The match will be fought not less than six and not more than 1,000 miles from London.

Mitchell's explanation of his having challenged a man, who of course, no one thinks can beat, is that he believes Sullivan can be beaten; that if he doesn't beat him he will be ready to stop fighting, and that he is able to afford £500 anyhow.

The Baseball Gossip.

Casey has signed with Newark, and Higgins with Syracuse.

San Crane has been signed as manager of the Scranton club for next season. Wright has made his peace with Syracuse and will be with the Stars next season.

Chris Von der Ahe's fortune is computed at $200,000, all made out of base-ball. The Brooklyn base-ball club has added Pitcher Foutz, of the St. Louis Browns, to its team.

Four-fifths of the stock of the Rochester base-ball association has been subscribed. This club has the Callahan battery.

Green, who pitched for Binghamton and Buffalo last season, is looking for an engagement with the Hamilton club.

Bittman, of last season's Stars, has received an offer from Brooklyn, but it is probable that he will join the North-Western league. Applications for positions on the International association's staff of umpires are pouring in. President Cox has already received twenty.

The London base-ball club has organized and elected Phillip Powers, late National league umpire, as manager. One hundred and fifty applications for positions in the club were referred.

The New York club is playing a series with the California league clubs, and defeated the Pioneers, the San Francisco champions, by a score of 1 to 0. Over 9,000 spectators were present.

The Chicago, Philadelphia and St. Louis base ball clubs have arranged to play thirty-six games in San Francisco, Cal., to conclude Feb. 18th, playing three games each week. Over 10,000 people saw the first game when the St. Louis team defeated the Chicago by a score of 16 to 2.

The Syracuse association nearly completed its team on Saturday by signing Catcher Walker of the Newarks and second baseman Higgins, of the Lowells. The nine is now complete with the exception of one pitcher, and probably Con Murphy will be secured for that position.

Miscellaneous Sport.

John McKay, Dartmouth, N.S., wants to row Wallace Ross a three mile race next Spring for $500 or $1,000 a side.

Phil Casey, Brooklyn, won the championship of the world at hand-ball, defeating James Lawlor of Ireland, by 147 to 62.

Of the $2,500 stake money Hanlan put up $1,500, and a friend in England $500. The balance of $500 was allowed for the Toronto sculler's expenses.

Schaffer and Carter, the billiard experts, now at Cincinnati, have issued individual challenges, open to the world, to play anybody a match at billiards for $1,000 to $2,500 a side.

Bingham offers to match his "unknown" against man in America, Bethune preferred, for $1,000 a side, the race to be run in Montreal, and if he wins he will devote the stake money to any charitable institution the mayor of that city may name.

Hanlan will remain in Australia for some time with a view of meeting Trickett, Kemp and other antipodean scullers who had challenged him. Hanlan's share of the gate money on Saturday's race would enable him to put up all the money himself for these matches.

Littell's Living Age.

IN 1838 THE LIVING AGE enters upon its forty-fifth year, having met with constant commendation and success.

A WEEKLY MAGAZINE, it gives fifty-two numbers of sixty-four pages each, or more than

Three and a Quarter Thousand

Double-column octavo pages of reading matter yearly. It presents in an inexpensive form, considering its great amount of matter, with freshness, owing to its weekly issue, and with a completeness nowhere else attempted.

The Best Essays, Reviews, Criticisms, Serial and Short Stories, Sketches of Travel and Discovery, Poetry, Scientific, Biographical, Historical and Political Information, from the entire body of Foreign Periodical Literature, and from the pens of the

FOREMOST LIVING WRITERS

The ablest and most cultivated intellects, in every department of Literature, Science, Politics, and Art, find expression in the Periodical Literature of Europe, and especially of Great Britain.

The Living Age, forming four large volumes a year, furnishes from the best and generally inaccessible mass of this literature, the only compilation that, while within the reach of all, is satisfactory in the COMPLETENESS with which it embraces whatever is of immediate interest, or of solid, permanent value.

It is therefore indispensable to every one who wishes to keep pace with the events or intellectual progress of the time, or to cultivate in himself or his family general intelligence and literary taste.

OPINIONS.

"We have thought that it was impossible to improve upon this grand publication, yet it does seem to grow better each year. We regard it as the most marvellous publication of the time."—Christian at Work, New York.

"By reading it one can keep abreast of the current thought upon all literary and public matters."—New York Observer.

"Such a publication exhausts our superlatives. There is nothing noteworthy in science, art, literature, biography, philosophy, or religion, that cannot be found in it."—The Churchman, New York.

"It is edited with great skill and care, and its weekly appearance gives it certain advantages over its monthly rivals."—Albany Argus.

"It may be truly said that it never offers a dry or valueless page."—New York Tribune.

"At its publication price it is the cheapest reading one can procure."—Boston Globe.

"It saves much labor for busy people who have no time to go over the various reviews and magazines, but who still wish to keep themselves well informed upon the questions of the day."—The Advance, Chicago.

"It furnishes a complete compilation of an indispensable literature."—Chicago Evening Journal.

"It enables its readers to keepfully abreast of the best thought and literature of civilization."—Christian Advocate, North Carolina Presbyterian, Wilmington.

"It is absolutely without a rival."—Montreal Gazette. Published WEEKLY at $3.00 a year, free of postage. TO NEW SUBSCRIBERS for the year 1888, remitting before Jan. 1st, the numbers of 1887 issued after the receipt of their subscriptions, will be sent gratis.

Club—Prices for Best Home & Foreign Literature. "Possessed of THE LIVING AGE and one or other of our vivacious American monthlies, a subscriber will find himself in command of the whole situation."—Phida, Eccl. Bulletin. For $10.00, THE LIVING AGE and any one of the American $1 Monthlies (or Harper's Weekly or Bazar) will be sent for a year, postpaid; or, for $20.00, THE LIVING AGE and the St. Nicholas or Scribner's Magazine. Address, LITTELL & CO., Boston.
