THE FAREWELL MEETING.

MR. DOUTNEY ON THE DOINGS OF HIS LIFE-TIME.

He suggests a Temperance Candidate for the Mayoralty—Mr. Donald Fraser Talked of as a Good Man to Act as the Standard Bearer of the Prohibition Party. Last evening Mr. Doutney's prediction, made a few days ago, that he would fill the city hall with listeners before he left the city, was realized. Every seat in the building was utilized. A great many people had to stand in the aisles. It was Mr. Doutney's last meeting.

Before commencing his address Mr. Doutney returned thanks to those who had been kind to him and his wife, including the members of the W.C.T.U., the sons of temperance, the good templars, the clergymen, the janitor and the press. He was pleased that the papers had supported him and his work so well and he wanted all who were similarly pleased to manifest their feelings by standing up. Instantly all in the hall rose to their feet. The speaker said that the vote of thanks to the paper was unanimous, and he hoped the proprietors would take a note of the fact.

Mr. Doutney said that the blush of shame came to his cheeks, and his heart was sorely touched when forced to tell of the death of his father. Nothing but God's grace could help him to bear the remorse caused by that help him to bear the remorse caused more than once he had wished he were dead, so great was his sorrow for past deeds. He had seen the blocks from which slaves had been sold, he had visited slave pens, he had talked with slaves, and had seen the instruments which were used to torture them, but he would rather submit to the misery and torment the slaves were compelled to undergo than to tell the story he was about to relate. His object, and the only one, in talking about the death of his father was to do good to young men who may be led astray by strong drink. His father was born in the province of Quebec, and became a printer and then an editor. At the time of his death he was attached to the Boston Post, which was in the year 1866. After leaving Quebec city he went to Montreal. He became manager of a paper and proprietor of it in 1844, 1845, 1846. Then came a change of government, which meant a lack of patronage to the paper, and it went under. When this occurred there was nothing for his father to do. Drink had already set its mark on his family, and at last caused its dissolution. The members of it went to the United States. His father could get nothing to do in New York at his trade, and peddled cigars in order to support himself and wife. The speaker wandered from Boston to Albany, Buffalo, Cleveland, Columbus and Louisville, getting situations and losing them on account of drunkenness. One day he received a letter from his brother stating that his father was dead, and that his last words were about his absent son. The brother promised to tell him all about the death when he came to Boston. That night in order to drown his sorrow he visited all the saloons in Louisville and begged for drinks. But no matter how much he drank the liquor had no effect upon him. He returned to Boston, and when he arrived there he was drunk. His brother met him and told him that the last words of his father were: "Where is Thomas? I want to see him before I die." While his father was dying in Boston and asking to see him he was drunk in Louisville. He learned to his sorrow that he had been the murderer of his father, who had died of a broken heart because of the waywardness of his son. He hoped all young men would be profited by his story, and lead a sober life.

Mr. and Mrs. Doutney will hold meetings in Portsmouth next week.

A Talk About Candidates.

Farewell meetings were held in the city hall yesterday afternoon and evening by Mr. Doutney and his wife, working here in the cause of temperance. The hall on each occasion was packed. At the afternoon meeting Mr. Doutney's talk was very interesting. He argued that the temperance people should fall into line as a body, and march against the enemy of God and humanity, rum. All the temperance organizations, lecturers and advocates of the cause, headed by the members of the Women's Christian Temperance Union should form the temperance corps. He understood that there were two candidates in the field for the mayoralty. He did not know whether there were Scott act men or not. The temperance people should, however, ask these men what side they were on, and the candidate who was a Scott act man was entitled to their support. In elections they should throw aside the consideration of the politics of the candidates and support the man who was a christian, and on the side of temperance. If neither of the candidates for the mayor chosen was a Scott act man, then a temperance candidate should be nominated. The lecturer thought there were surely enough temperance voters, enough God-fearing people in the city, to elect a candidate of their own. If such a man were nominated, he would come to the city, no matter in what part of Canada he was and work for him. If they did not bring out a Scott act man for mayor and support him, he would not attach any importance to the speeches in favor of prohibition he had heard made by citizens of the city since he had come to it. They could elect their man provided he was not a "doughhead" or a "noodle." Their candidate should be an intellectual and sound reasoning man, not one who could be swayed at will by his council. He should be something more than a figure head, if he were to do any good for the temperance cause. He suggested that Mr. Donald Fraser, banker, would be an acceptable temperance candidate for the mayoralty. Mr. Doutney saw Mayor Carson and Alderman Thompson in the hall. He invited the mayor to come forward and address the meeting. The mayor delivered a few appropriate remarks. Then Alderman Thompson was invited to the platform. He rose from his seat near the door, and after declining the lecturer's invitation to go forward stated that when the proper time came he would tell the people his position on the temperance cause. The meeting was dismissed after Mrs. Doutney had sang, "Tell it again."

HE MEANT MISCHIEF.

An ex-Convict Throws a Missile at Policemen While a Row Goes On.

On the evening of June 30th Officers Burnett and McCullough arrested J. McKee for disorderly conduct. While the officers were bringing their prisoner to the station house, James Walsh, released from the penitentiary, having served a term in gaol, threw a block of wood at McCullough. The missile missed him and struck a boy in the breast, knocking him down. Four days after the affair, which occurred on November 17th, Walsh was served with the summons. He did not appear at court. This morning, accompanied by his wife, he appeared at the police court and pleaded guilty to the charge of throwing the missile. He said that since his last appearance at the court he had become a temperance man and did not intend to drink again. He and his wife had secured a situation at Barriefield. He was found guilty and his sentence reserved. "Behave yourself," were the last words the magistrate said him.

Rev. Dr. Barbour's Services.

Yesterday the Rev. W. M. Barbour, D.D., principal of Congregational college, Montreal, delivered two eloquent sermons to large congregations in the First Congregational church. The discourse in the morning was founded on the fifth verse of the twelfth chapter of Jeremiah, and was intended to show the use and warning of the trials of life as a preparation for the future. That in the evening was on Christ's method of dealing with souls, shown by the conversion of Zacchaeus as related in the nineteenth chapter of Luke, first and tenth verses.

Advice to Preachers.

Rev. H. H. Fairall, D.D., editor of the Iowa Methodist, says editorially, in the November (1883) number of his paper: "We have tested the merits of Ely's Cream Balm, and believe that by a thorough course of treatment, it will cure most every case of catarrh. Ministers, as a class, are afflicted with head and throat troubles, and catarrh seems more prevalent than ever. We cannot recommend Ely's Cream Balm too highly."

A Very Prosperous Works.

During the ensuing year business at the car works will be unusually brisk. Superintendent Taylor, of the K. & P. R., has secured a contract to build 500 cars for the C. P. R. There will also be built 100 cars for the K. & P. R. The cars for the C. P. R. will have to be ready by Sept. 1st, 1888. Mr. Taylor expects to receive other large contracts for the works.

Food for Consumptives.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, is a most marvelous food and medicine. It heals the irritation of the throat and lungs, and gives flesh and strength quicker than any other remedy known. It is very palatable, having none of the disagreeable taste of the crude oil. Put up in 50c. and $1 size.

A Postmaster's Opinion.

"I have great pleasure in certifying to the usefulness of Hagyard's Yellow Oil," writes Dr. Kavanagh, postmaster, of Umfraville, Ont.; "having used it for soreness of the throat, burns, colds, etc., I find nothing equal to it."

A Matter of Economy.

As a matter of economy B. B. R. is the cheapest medicine in use, for it takes less to cure chronic diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys and blood, than of any other known remedy. B. B. R. is only one dollar a bottle.

Otsego Golden Fruits.

Choice cranberries, 25c quart; sweet oranges, 25c; Malaga grapes, 15c; sweet cider, 25c; winter apples, 25c peck. James Crawford.

What is it?

Not a snuff, powder or liquid, but a preparation peculiar in itself. Easy to use, pleasant in effect. Nasal Balm will positively cure cold in the head, catarrh and kindred diseases.
