DR. T. A. SLOCUM, Branch Office, 37 Yenge Street, Torcuto. LINCOLN'S CELEBRATED PHRASE.

"He Made no Pretense of Originality in the Matter," Says Ward H. Lamon.

For using, in his Gettysburg speech, the celebrated phrase "the government of the people, by the people, and for the people shall not perish from the earth," Mr. Lincoln has been subjected to brutal criticism as well as the most groundless flattery. Some have been base enough to insinuate against that great and sincere man the crime of willful plagiarism; others have ascribed to him the honor of originating the phrase entire. There is injustice to him in either view of the case. I personally know that Mr. Lincoln made no pretense of originality in the matter, nor was he conscious of having appropriated the thought or the words of any other man.

If he be subject to the charge of plagiarism, so is the great Webster, who used substantially the same phrase in his celebrated reply to Hayne. Each may have acquired the peculiar form of expression (the thought itself being as old as the republican idea of government) by the process known as unconscious appropriation. Certain it is that neither Webster nor Lincoln originated the phrase. Let us see how the case stands: In the preface to the old Wickliffe Bible, published A. D. 1324, is the following declaration: "This Bible is for the government of the people, by the people and for the people," which language is identical with that employed by Mr. Lincoln in his Gettysburg speech. In an address before the New England anti-slavery convention in Boston, May 29, 1850, Theodore Parker defined democracy as "a government of all the people, by all the people, for all the people of course." Substantially Parker in the Massachusetts constitutional convention in 1853. A distinguished diplomat has acquainted me with the singular fact that almost the identical phrase employed by Mr. Lincoln was used in another language, by a person "whose existence even was not probably known to Mr. Webster, the Parkers or Mr. Lincoln, and who certainly did not borrow it from them." On page 31 of a work entitled 'Geschichte der Schweizerischen Regeneration von 1830 bis 1848, von P. Feddersen," appears an account of a public meeting held at Olten, Switzerland, in May, 1830. On that occasion a speaker named Schinz used the following language: "All the governments of Switzerland (referring to the cantons) must acknowledge that they are simply from the people, by the people, and for the people."-Ward H. Lamon's Letter.

Typhoid Fever on the Steamers.

People who are about to visit Europe should be very careful what ship they take for the passage. I have heard within the last two or three weeks of some of the most terrible cases of typhoid fever contracted on board ships of the lines considered by the public first class. I met the other night a New York gentleman who came over with his daughter six weeks ago for the purpose of making an extended tour of Europe. It was the daughter's first visit. She was a perfect picture of health when she left New York. They took passage upon one of the finest vessels of one of the great transatlantic lines. Within two days after their arrival in London she was taken down with typhoid fever. She has been ill for nearly five weeks. She came near dying once or twice, but is now slowly recovering. The physician in attendance, when he was first called to examine the case, asked where the young lady had been during the preceding ten days. When told that she had just crossed the ocean he said: "This fever was contracted on board ship." "How can that be?" said the father. "If there is any place in the world where people have pure air I should think it would be at sea." The physician replied by saying that it was a very common thing for people to contract bad fevers on the great ships which cross the ocean. Nothing but the most strict vigilance in looking after the sanitary condition of a great ship will keep it in wholesome con-

Vessels that may be wholesome in quiet weather become disease breeders when shaken up by heavy weather, and where they have in addition to be closed down against the outside storm. This gentleman, who has had such a serious time with his daughter, has heard of several cases of typhoid fever among the more delicate people on the passage list of this same vessel. The surgeon mentioned above said also that vessels which have been through collision, with a serious shaking up, are apt to breed fevers unless they are afterward thoroughly overhauled. It will be remembered that Secretary Whitney lost his favorite daughter through a malignant diphtheria contracted on board ship on a voyage to Europe. The majority of people leave the United States to visit Europe with the object of securing rest, improving their health and the pleasure of sightseeing. The knowledge that fevers are often developed on the lines of the transatlantic steamers should certainly produce great vigilance upon the part of owners and masters of vessels to guard against further dangers to the public from this direction.-T. C. Crawford in New York World.

Almost a New Magazine.

It is not publicly known, perhaps, that some time since a syndicate was formed by Dr. William A. Hammond, Julian Hawthorne, George Parsons Lathrop and Irving Bacheller, whose object was the establishment of a new magazine in New York. The scheme came very near to the climax of realization, but was finally upset, and Dr. Hammond and Mr. Bacheller washed their hands of the affair and stepped down and out. Recently, however, Dr. Hammond, who still has a large sized literary bee in his bonnet, has been in negotiations with Mr. F. B. Thurber, with a view to booming a new magazine with the solid backing of this well known capitalist.

This scheme had progressed some way when Mr. Thurber called in as an expert in his councils a well known advertising agent on Park row. Mr. Thurber knew well that advertisements are the sinews of the success of a magazine, and he asked for an approximate estimate from this agent, who has charge of the "space" of the established magazines. The agent of course was impartial and presented a resume of frozen facts as to the history of several defunct magazines, such as The Galaxy, The Manhattan, etc. Finally, as the narrative of the fortunes sunk in such ventures reached its climax, Mr. Thurber excitedly burst forth with: "That will do, thank you, sir; no more - American opera for me."-New York Graphic.

My impression of the students was far from flattering. They are the coarsest and most impolite people I ever saw. When we drove up to the hotel they eyed the girls intently, and one of them had the nerve to come up and try to talk to one of them. My Hessian blood boiled, and I walked up to him and stood between him and the young lady and inquired of the proprietor, who was standing close by, if this was a sample of his servants, for if so I preferred to carry my bag up stairs myself rather than trust it to such a person. You should have seen that student flush up. The other students laughed at him and he became furious. His face was covered with scars, and I expected a challenge to fight a duel. One of the students said something to him and he walked away.-Heidelberg Cor. Brooklyn Eagle.

The Legality of Sunday Issues.

A decision has just been handed over in the St. Paul courts that may, if sustained, bring joy to the millions who struggle under mountainous Sunday blanket sheets. A year or so ago Mr. Egbert Handy, of Philadelphia, concluded a contract with the publishers of The St. Paul Globe for the use of three columns in their Sunday issue. Mr. Handy's enterprise resulted in an almost instant success. His profits from the three columns were $40,000 the first year. Thereupon the publishers repented their bargain and refused to carry it out.

Mr. Handy brought suit, and the court decides that no contract involving work to be none or matter to be published on Sunday is binding. The case will doubtless be appealed, as Mr. Handy holds that the failure on the publisher's part has escheated him of $150,000. Should it be teffirmed the Sunday newspaper will be in a bad way, since no contracts can be made with advertisers, and it is upon Sunday advertising that many of the most solid of our esteemed contemporaries count to recoup the losses of the week. No journal sold for two cents could live if advertisements were not a great part of their pages. A case involving a somewhat similar point was decided not long ago in Ohio when the court affirmed that without a statutory provision there was no law recognizing the Christian Sabbath in this country. The issue is a delicate one, and every editor in the country will watch the result with an almost personal interest,-New York Graphic.

Try And Be Cured.

Lame back and nervous debility, associated with rheumatism, is sometimes met with in every day life, but as a rule we find not more than two of these complaints in the same party. Be this as it may. The only sure and perfect cure is electricity and the best form of administering it is by Norman's electric belts and insoles. W. J. The much abused policeman is again in sorrow. A disorderly character named Clark, of Fredricton, N.B., has deeply offended Policeman Phillips. He would not move when this gentle loving guardian of the law and of the persons of her majesty's subjects wanted him, and his leg was so inconsiderate as to break under the policeman's baton. Such punny weakness in humanity is most discouraging to a humane official.
