

MEDICINES.

A Creaking Hinge

Is dry and turns hard, until oil is applied, after which it moves easily. When the joints, or hinges, of the body are stiffened and inflamed by Rheumatism, they cannot be moved without causing the most excruciating pains.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla has effected, in our city, many most remarkable cures, a number of which baffled the efforts of the most experienced physicians.

Rheumatism,

after being troubled with it for years. In this, and all other diseases arising from impure blood, there is no remedy with which I am acquainted, that affords such relief as Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla cured me of Gout and Rheumatism, when nothing else would. It has eradicated every trace of disease from my system.

I was, during many months, a sufferer from chronic Rheumatism. The disease afflicted me grievously, in spite of all the remedies I could find, until I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla, Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

THE WOMAN'S SPHERE.

IS IT IN THE HOME, OR NOT BEFORE THE PUBLIC.

Ella Wheeler's Interesting Answer—Should Women Earn Money Outside the Home?—Women who Long for the Plaudits of the World—A Word to Stingy Husbands—The Grandest and Truest Sphere Possible for Women. (Copyrighted, 1887.)

According to my creed a woman's place is wherever circumstances beyond her control have situated her.

It she feels a constant and never-ceasing rebellion against her environment, and craves a change of conditions, the change will come. We may whine and complain at fate all our lives without ever accomplishing anything.

There are no circumstances which can overthrow or circumvent the passionate resolve of a noble, earnest soul.

I believe we are only denied the things we crave in order to test the strength of our desire. There are no accidents of birth or fortune. A mighty intelligence directs it all, and grants to each soul its wish, if that soul never swerves from the intensity of desire.

The reason so few of us obtain what we want is because so few of us are persistent and patient.

If any woman is placed in a situation where she is deprived of the comforts and the appreciation so necessary to our happiness, and she longs ardently enough to better her condition, the way will be opened for her, and it will be right and wise for her to walk therein.

I cannot understand how a woman who has been accorded that greatest of all gifts from heaven, a happy home life, can desire any career which interferes with it. The result of my observation does not lead me to believe that women who are sheltered with love and protection and appreciation, do long for the plaudits of the world.

A great deal is said and written of the young girl or worshipped wife, who neglects kind parents or a devoted husband to pursue a career. If you will take pains to investigate the unwritten history of such cases you will find in almost every instance a skeleton whose rattling bones drove that daughter or wife from her home into public life.

Men are given to make sarcastic remarks concerning the great horde of women lecturers, actors, readers, and performers of all kinds row before the public. Our daily papers teem with paragraphs of ridicule or advice to women to stay at home and attend to their families.

If every man who takes upon himself the voluntary obligations of matrimony performed his whole duty as husband and father there would be fewer women before the public to-day. The girl or wife who has to tease, beg, or pout in order to obtain a few dollars for her own use, naturally lies awake nights planning some method of earning money.

I knew the daughter of a man whose riches were counted among the hundreds of thousands, and yet she was obliged to resort to petty ruses and humiliating schemes to get a dollar of pin money. She was allowed to run large bills, which her father scanned and anathematized them by item each month, but he did not consider the female members of his household competent to carry a purse. When the daughter ran away, and went on the stage as a third-class actress, the world was shocked that she should leave her elegant home and devoted parents for the glare of the footlights.

I overheard a well-dressed and fine-looking man recently, in a railroad car, scolding his wife for an extravagant purchase. She showed him the sample of a new dress she had purchased, and asked with a timid look if he thought it was pretty.

"How much did you pay for it?" he asked, and her answer, given with a deprecating glance, brought forth such a growl and sneer that the poor wife's pleasure in her purchase must have been instantly ruined. I am quite sure I should have put the dress up at auction, and presented Sir Groucher with the proceeds of the sale, and then I would have joined a circus or a minstrel troop if I could find no better method of earning a dollar for myself.

Two women, who are working outside of homes for a livelihood, told me recently with tears in their eyes, that they would consider themselves the most blest of mortals to be shut within the walls of some humble cottage, where only faint echoes from the world could reach them. Both women were driven from their homes by the skeleton of poverty. And yet I have heard one of these women commented on severely as "a bold seeker after notoriety." She is simply doing what she is compelled to do to keep the wolf from the door.

There is occasionally born into the world a woman whose whole nature rushes like the tide of a mighty ocean toward the shore of some especial career. Rosa Bonheur was one of these, the first Mrs. Siddons was another, Annie Dickson was another. In each of these women the force of her peculiar genius was so great that no perfection of home life, no opulence of wealth could have kept her from fulfilling her destiny. They did not choose a career; a career chose them. Many other names could be added to the list, yet such richly and remarkably dowered women are the exception.

The rule is, that the women who pursue the hard path of a public career, which deprives them of a quiet domestic life, are women who have been driven into it by stern necessity.

To be queen of a happy home, loved and appreciated by a kind husband and little children, to live only for their approbation and respect, surely this is the grandest and truest sphere possible for woman. It is the only genuine happiness which earth affords; all else is a mere imitation. In no reform can women do a work so beneficial to mankind as increasing the number of happy homes in the land.

But this work is not given every woman to do. Good husbands, who will love, respect, appreciate, and support their wives and daughters, do not stand on every threshold ready to lead all women into this earthly Paradise. And therefore it is every woman's duty to be prepared to meet the world single-handed.

If I were blessed with a daughter I should teach her some method of self-support as religiously as I should teach her to love God. But my daily prayer would be that she might never go forth from the shelter of the parental roof, save as the queen of a good husband's home.

An Embarrassment of Virtues.

A little girl wishing to make her father a present was very much at fault what to buy for that purpose. After puzzling her little brain considerably, and getting what suggestions she could from other members of the family, she finally went to her mother, who was entertaining Mr. Drinkwater, and said, in despair: "Only think, mamma, I don't know what to get papa for a Christmas present; he don't smoke, nor drink, nor nothing."

Dyspepsia.

Much will necessarily depend upon the care exercised in the selection of food, which is all important to the dyspeptic. Hamilton's Pills may be used with the greatest benefit in cases where liver and bowel complications are produced by or are a result of dyspepsia.

The Tip System in New York.

"It has been pretty hard for Americans to get used to the tip system, but it is pretty firmly planted in New York now. It is no wonder that waiters expect it, and carry out neat little schemes to fish the small coins from your pockets. Many of them have to if they mean to live at all. They only get from $8 to $12 a week. The girl waiters in some of the places get less than that. It is tip or nothing, you see. It's a shrewd, small scheme of the proprietors to make the people pay their employees. They pay nominal wages and encourage the waiters to take the rest out of the customers, just as the sleeping car companies pay the porters $15 a month, and turn them loose to gouge the other $70 out of the traveling public."—New York Commercial Advertiser Interview with Club Man.

Penny Sheet Music.

The penny song sheet business in New York city is confined to a couple of firms. When the music dealers publish a new song they permit these firms to reproduce the song, without the music, in their penny sheets, thus creating a demand for song and music. The business, so one who is in it said, is not profitable just now, perhaps because songs can be bought so cheaply with music attachment.—New York Sun.

A Kiss Among Ancient Romans.

Among the Romans, if a man kissed his betrothed, she gained thereby the half of his effects in the event of his dying before the celebration of their marriage. If the lady herself died under the same circumstances, her heirs or nearest of kin took the half due to her. A kiss was regarded very seriously by the ancient Romans.—Chicago Times.
