THE AGE OF MILLIONAIRES AND SOME OF ITS FORTUNES.

What a Hundred Million Dollars Means -Denver And Its Rich Men-Some Big San Francisco Fortunes, Which Could Not be Taken Into Rich Men's Coffins.

American Exchange. New York has to-day more men worth $1,000,000 each than it had fifty years ago men who were worth $100,000, and the history of the world shows but few instances of men starting with nothing who have reached the enormous wealth of from $25,000,000 to $100,000,000. Still Jay Gould is now said to be worth nearly twice this, and Vanderbilt died feaving a like amount. At 6 per cent. $200,000,000 brings in $12,000,000 a year or nearly $1,000 a day not including Sundays. A thousand dollars an hour would be a low estimate of what Jay Gould's income is and at the lowest rates of interest $15 is added to his fortune every minute of every day and night that he lives. These millionaires are rarely satisfied with 6 per cent., and when you remember 6 per cent. of a million is $60,000 a year it enables you to comprehend something of the values of these immense fortunes.

Isaiah Williamson, of Philadelphia, has made $20,000,000 in dry goods and his income is said to be $1,500,000 yearly.

has also $20,000,000, and works just as hard the sides of the table. In the third course as though he had not a million dollars. Rockafeller, coal oil millionaire, is worth $70,000,000. Leland Stanford is worth from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 and his new university is to cost between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000.

He once thought he was doing well. The names of the New York millionaires are legion. Denver is fast becoming a city of rich men. Ex-Senator Tabor owns real estate worth nearly $1,000,000. Tabor himself lives in a $100,000 house, and Senator Hill is said to be worth $1,000,000. D. H. Moffat, the president of the Denver & Rio Grande RR., is now worth $3,000,000, while the two Clayton brothers are each worth $1,000,000 and more.

The rich men of California are fully equal to those of the past. Stanford is put down at $75,000,000, Mackay was lately credited with $50,000,000, and Fair, another of the bonanza kings, with a like amount. Hearst is said to be worth anywhere from $5,000, 000 to $10,000,000, and there are two cattle kings in California named Miller and Lux who have made about $10,000,000 each within the past twenty years. They own 600,000 acres of California land and they have 300 miles of fences. One of their canals, used for irrigating, is worth $1,000, 000, and their stock consisted not long ago of 1,000,000 head of cattle and 115,000 sheep. "Lucky" Baldwin owns 70,000 acres of land in California, and he had the wool clipped from 10,000 sheep every year. His wealth is said to be $20,000,000 and his income is $1,000,000 a year. Claud Spreckels is the sugar king of the world. He has millions upon millions in sugar plantations, and his sugar revenue has been as high as $18,000 a day. Sharon left $15,000,000, and a number of these California millionaires have brought their fortunes east to increase or decrease them in Wall street.

The richest man in St. Louis is said to be Gerard B. Allen and the amount of his fortune is $4,000,000. He began life as a moulder and made a fortune in foundries.

Most of the rich men of Chicago began life as poor boys, and George Pullman, Potter Palmer, Marshall Field and Phil Armour have been the architects of their own fortunes. Armour is said to be worth from $40,000,000 to $50,000,000. The Farwells started poor and are now rich, and Pullman's wealth is estimated at $20,000,000.

Ohio has many millionaires and they are scattered throughout the various countries from Lake Erie to the Ohio river. In Toledo, Petroleum V. Nasby gets the income of $1,-000,000 out of his Toledo Btade, and Edwin Cowles's paper, the Leader of Cleveland, pays a good interest on a like amount. John R. McLean receives, it is said, $240,000 a year from his Enquirer stock, and a prominent Cincinnatian says he is worth $6,000,-000 and he is still under fifty. John R. Mc-Lean and his father owned nearly a million in real estate in Washington city, and like | tapers, Chinese lanterns or ordinary small a number of other Ohio rich men, spend their | lanterns covered with bright colored paper. winters there. John Hay, who received There is hardly a more effective trimming about $2,000,000 from the estate of Amasa Stone, has a brick palace just across from corn strung on thread. These with the the White House, where twenty years ago he worked for less than $50 a week as Lin coln's private secretary. The Standard oil company has made many Ohio men rich. Rockfeller is worth $70,000,000. John Huntington gets $80,000 a year and Sam Andrews, lately received a check of $1,000,000 for some of his Standard oil stock. Oliver Payne is worth $12,000,000, all made out of Standard oil and a part of Senator Payne's

$4,000,000 comes from the same source. J. H. Wade, who organized the Western Union telegraph company, is now worth millions. Brush, the electric light inventor, still under 40, has made $3,000,000, out of his invention, and Stephenson Burke, starting life as a poor lawyer, has made himself a millionaire from his specialty of railroad law and he lately got a single fee of $30,000.

The millionaires of Pennsylvania are too many to mention. Carnegie, at Pittsburg, is worth $20,000,000, and he pays one of his foremen a salary as big as that of the president of the United States. The Olive Brothers are also millionaires, and Tom Bayne, the congressman, is worth $1,000, 000. The Camerons live at Harrisburg, and father and son are millionaires, and the son is the richer.

Philadelphia has many rich men. Weightman, the druggist, is worth $20,000,000. Isaiah Williamson has made $15 000,000 out of dry goods, and H. C. Gibson, has made $5,000,000 in distilling. A. J. Cassatt, the railroad man, is worth $2,000,000. Charlemagne Tower has $2,000,000 from Northern Pacific lands, and the Standard oil company has put $6,000,000 into the pockets of W. G. Warden. Thomas Dolan has $2,000,000 from manufacturing, and F. A. Drexel left about $25,000,000 when he died.

The newspaper proprietors embrace many rich men. Abell of the Baltimore Sun has made $15,000,000 out of it. The Garretts are each worth more than $10,000,000. Joe Brown is perhaps the richest man in the South. His income if from $500 to $1,000 a day. Hal Dulaney, of Virginia, is said to have an income of over $200,000 a year and there are a number of millionaires scattered throughout the Southern States.

ALL AROUND THE HOUSE.

How to Serve a Small Company Dinner-The Christmas Tree and Greens.

The laying of small company dinners is a matter of interest to many housekeepers who do not wish to serve a la Russe. Miss Corson-tells in Harper's Bazar of a happy combination of methods calculated for the attendance of one servant. The approaching season of holiday festivities will bring up this subject to many readers, for whose benefit a part of Miss Corson's advice is reproduced in substance. Suppose the dinner to be made in four courses, as follows:

SECOND COURSE.

FIRST COURSE. Boiled potatoes.

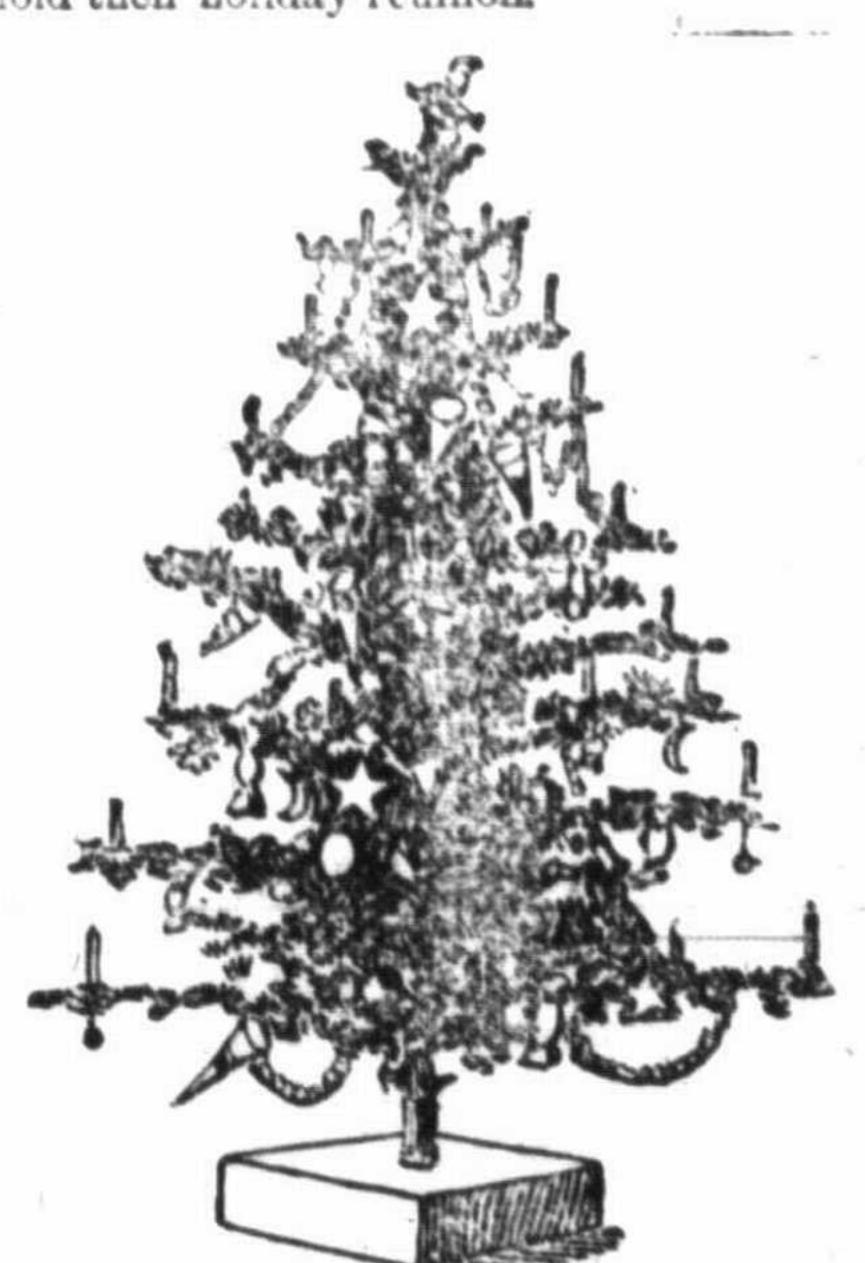

1. Small entree or vegetable. 2. Principal dish of course. 3. Vegetable. 4. Vegetable. Cucumbers. THIRD COURSE.

1. Principal decsert dish. . The salad. 2. The roast. 2. Some small sweet. 3. Macaroons, Cheese. 4. Candied fruit or nuts. Crackers.

Dish No. 1 in each course is to be placed before the hostess and served by her. No. 2 is placed before the host, by whom it is served. Nos. 3 and 4 are placed midway of the table on either side. After the first course of soup, fish, boiled potatoes and cucumbers has been finished and removed, let the second course be served, the principal dish of the course being placed for the host to serve; if there is a second entree, place it before the hostess, otherwise put the princi-Weightman, the Philadelphia druggist, pal vegetable before her and the others at place the roast before the host, the salad before the hostess, with oil, vinegar, salt and pepper within reach; and out the cheese and crackers which many people like to eat with a green salad at the sides. After the roast and salad have been eaten, the table is to be cleared of all things except the cheese, crackers and the dishes belonging to the dessert; the crumbs are to be removed, the finger bowls placed and the chief dessert dish set before the hostess. The smaller dessert, such as the candied fruit, macaroons, etc., occupies the other three places; if nuts are served the salt should be returned to the table.

Christmas Trees and Trimmings.

The Christmas tree-how wonderful it is to the children. The gifts gathered from its branches in the midst of delighted anticipation and joyful surprise have a flavor above common things. The tree gives the touch that makes Christmas the gala day of the year. Even good St. Nick's mysterious arthe magic tree. This source of delight may be of any size, from a dainty little tree that can be set up on a table for the pleasure of the two or three young folks of one family to a large specimen, apparently transported in Arabian Nights, fashion from its native forest, around which several families may hold their holiday reunion.

THE CHRISTMAS TREE.

The tree must first be planted in a hole bored in a large block of wood heavy enough to keep it firmly in position. If it is quite a large tree, a rude platform can be built for it and covered with green baize or moss and lichens. It is a prime essential to light the tree well. This may be done with small than the old fashioned one of festoons of popbright lights and pretty paper cornucopias, and boxes and gay colored bags of nuts and candies will make a tree beautiful in the children's eyes almost without the gifts that ingenious and loving hands have hung upon it.

Another great source of pleasure to all the younger members of the household is in appropriately decorating the home. This they can do with a little advice from elders. Ground pine, holly and mistletoe, as well as dried grasses and immortelles, are now to be had at the holiday season in many markets; and if they are not obtainable there is always some greenery in every locality that can be utilized. Cedar, spruce, hemlock or arborvitæ, brightened with sprays of the red bitter sweet berries, is handsome. Ground pine interspersed with sprigs of holly, with its dark, glossy leaves and scarlet berries, furnishes a beautiful and popular trimming. Evergreen decorations may be given the effect of being lightly flecked with snow by dipping the branches in gum water and then into flour. Ropes of evergreen for festooning, forming wreathes, etc., are made by binding evergreen twigs to a stout cord by means of small twine threaded into a packing needle, which is passed through the cord occasionally to hold all firmly in place. Crosses and other emblems, as well as letters for mottoes, may be cut out of cardboard and spread with gum, upon which are applied pieces of cotton wool, which, when dry, may be pulled out to look loose and fluffy.

Decorate the house and set up the joyful tree, for "Christmas comes but once a year."

Famous Black Cake.

famous cake maker, furnishes to a cook book gotten up for a church fair, her recipe for black cake. The ingredients are one pound of butter, one and one-quarter pounds of sugar, one pound of flour, ten eggs, two nutmegs, a small pinch of ground mace, two wineglassfuls of wine and two of brandy, two and one-half pounds of raisins, two and onehalf pounds of currants and one pound of citron. The yelks, sugar and spices should be beaten together and the butter should be creamed and next added. Whip the whites of the eggs very light and add them alternately with the flour. Then put in your brandy and wine, and last of all the fruit. Bake this in a moderately slow oven. This cake has tickled the palates of eminent men and women, and the recipe invites trial.

Fig Cake.

Filling for fig cake may be made with one pound of figs, chopped very fine; one cup of sugar, one-half cup of water. Put it on the back of the stove and mash with a spoon until it forms a smooth paste. Flavor with vanilla and spread between any white layer
