GALLOWAY'S GREETING

Peace on earth, good will towards men, Is the theme of our earthly song; Peace on earth, good will towards men, Should mould our actions all day long.

Is should lead us think how best to bring The happy smile, the cheerful ring Of laughter to the cheerless hearth, And thus make glad this dreary earth.

The way is plain: see GALLOWAY'S Furs. There neither cats skin, sheep, nor curs, But just the thing to keep your warm : To keep you free from cold and storm, Which must bring peace in this cold clime, And make your Christmas a happy time.

Dr. T. R. Dupuis-Miss Annie Crawford. An interesting event occurred at 1 o'clock in Queen street Methodist church, the marriage of Miss Annie Crawford, a late teacher in Louise school, and greatly beloved by the young ladies of this city, to Dr. Thomas R. Dupuis, professor of anatomy in the Royal medical college. There was a large audience to witness the ceremony, and a thousand more were disappointed by the service beginning an hour earlier than was announced. The change was necessary, as the G.T.R. express had to be taken instead of the steamer Maud. Mayor Carson acted as groomsman, and Miss Sarah Crawford as bridesmaid. Rev. R. Whiting performed the ceremony. A ring was slipped on the third finger, a kiss given, and the happy pair immediately started for New York, Philade!phia, and other points.

THE PUBLIC INSTITUTION.

The Christmas Festivities And the Enjoyment They Afforded.

The charitable institutions were full of cheerfulness yesterday. On Sunday the patients were treated handsomely, but for Monday was reserved the best of the good

At L'Hotel Dieu the inmates were given an abundance of cheer. All who enjoyed it were happy.

The aged and infirm inmates of the house of industry relished turkey, ham, cake, and plum pudding, which was served to them by several of the directors. Then the old people got tobacco, the smoking of which they greatly appreciated. At the asylum the patients had the usual feasting. Their dinner consisted of chickens, ducks, geese, turkeys, plum pudding, cakes, and candies. Afterwards the men were given presents of pipes, ties, slippers, etc., and the women were decorated with ribbons, jewellery, and other things.

The little folks at the Orphans' home were kindly remembered, and dined on provender ot a delicious character. All the public institutions had visitors, and it was to many of the inmates "a merry Christ-

Christmas at the house of providence was spent pleasantly. There were two masses; first, celebrated at 5:30 by the Rev. P. O'Brien, chaplain; second, by Rev. T. Kelly. The altar and chapel, as well as other parts of the institution, were tastefully and appropriately decorated. The good things of the season were plentifully supplied by kind patrons who at this season of rejoicing were not unmindful of the wants of the needy. It is needless to add that the inmates fully enjoyed the luxuries thus bountifully provided for them, and invoked many a blessing on their benefactors. Benediction of the blessed sacrament closed the day's proceedings. In no institution was Christmas more thoroughly enjoyed than by the inmates of the county gaol. The dinner there was something to be remembered by those who, for the most part of the other 364 days in the year, live on the government dietary of "skilly." The festivities of the day opened by a grand beristeak breakfast by the full choir. The dinner, however, was the scene longed for. The fat turkey brought on the stage by one entrance soon disappeared by many exits. The plum pudding, a thing of beauty and a joy as long as it lasted, was of majestic proportions. To see it vanish gave one an idea of legerdemain performances. Oranges, apples and grapes brought the banquet to a close. After the cloth was removed light whines were used by some of the guests, as the turnkey with some difficulty squeezed them through the dining room door on their return to their quarters.

A plum pudding, weighing 600 fbs., was enjoyed at the penitentiary yesterday. The convicts were treated to a feast of toothsome articles and had the usual holiday. Friends did not forget them, for about 150 boxes were received and the contents of them distributed amongst the less fortunate of the prisoners. Calling at the general hospital we found ourselves surrounded by cosy Christmas decorations. Festoons, mottoes, crosses, and stars of evergreen were tastely suspended on every hand, making the hall and wards to appear as such are seldom seen, with such an air of comfort and good cheer, The patients were nearly all in a condition, fortunately, to enjoy the ample dinner of roast turkey and plum pudding. Iwo of the worthy governors looked in at dinner time and helped to enliven the party and to assure themselves that the patients were suitably looked after on this festive day. A box of oranges, given by Mr. Swift, served as a climax to the hearty dinner. Cake given by Col. Villiers, and presents for the children given by Mrs. Strange, all helped to gladden hearts that responded freely to the desire to please. The day ended with a concert in which nurses, students and patients all took part. We are glad to hear that there were none so ill as to be disturbed by the sounds. On the contrary all seemed pleased and retired to rest feeling the events of the day had endeared them to the place that they do not naturally consider one of pleasant recollections. The hand of a healer is certainly felt where peace and good-will abound.

A RATHER SMART ALICK.

He Runs Off With Henderson's Delivery Waggon-The Police Looking Him Up.

On Christmas eve about 10 o'clock, a young man staggered into Henderson's grocery store on Brock street, and sat down. He acted as if he were drunk, but the clerks are of the opinion that he was not, at the time, as much under the influence of liquor as he pretended. The shop was full of customers. The movements of the clerks waiting upon them were watched closely by "Santa." The delivery waggon was being filled with ordered goods, and the drunken visitor took particular notice of the fact. As soon as the driver, Master Quinliven, was ready to leave with the waggon, he notified the clerks and started. "Santa" left the shop about the same time, and, it is thought, was carried a distance on the vehicle. Quinliven drove to Earl street, and carried a parcel into Mrs. Haskell's house. While he was away "Santa" jumped in the waggon and drove off at a furious pace. He headed for Williamsville, and distributed the orders at different houses occupied by friends of his. Two boxes of stuff were left at Dougherty's house, where it was found by policemen. The waggon must have been driven along the Bath road, for a blanket and boxes belonging to it was found on this highway. The horse and vehicle were seen by a street car driver named Hughes on Princess street and brought to the city. All the night police; men started in pursuit of "Santa" but could not find him. They heard that he had reached Cataraqui and that he was in Mrs. Hennessy's hotel. They tried to get in the house, but not having a warrant they were refused admission. On Sunday evening Officer McCullough thought he saw "Santa" near the city park and chased him. The man got away, but, it is said, he was not the one. On Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock people attending a funeral saw him at Hennessy's hotel. The goods stolen were worth considerable. At 3:30 the theif had not been captured.

Martin's Opera House.

The performances of the Wilson Day dramatic troup in the opera house yesterday were attended by unusually large audiences. On both occasions all the seats in the building were occupied, and many persons were obliged to stand. In the afternoon a new play, "Lost and Won," was presented, and in an excellent manner. It pleased all present, the majority of whom attended the evening perfermance. The drama given then was a humourous one, "The Hugueuot Captain." It was well put on, and followed by a farce, "A Regular Fix" To-night "Nobody's Child" will be given.

THE VILLAGE NOMINATIONS.

Nominations at Portsmou h. For reeve-George Sexton, Alexander

For councillors-James Adams, Richard Atkins, E. F. Burke, John Fisher, George McAuley, John McLeod, John Marks, James Matthewson, William McConnell, John Nicholson and Joseph Potter. For school trustees-H. Dodds, Joseph Liddle, A. Milne and William Holland.

After the nominations the meeting was made public. James Adams was appointed chairman and Thomas Kelly secretary. The chairman said he hoped every one would be given a fair hearing, and he would allow each one fifteen minutes. Mr. Sexton, called on, said he did not know why Mr. Cameron should oppose him. Mr. Cameron replied that every British subject and freeman had a right in this matter, and went on to ask some questions of the reeve, but in the confusion, caused by R. Norris and H. Shine, nothing satisfactory could be arrived at. Great disorder followed and it was some time before silence could be secured. When the chairman asked for the views of the other candidates several offered to speak, the most prominent being Mr. Matthewson. Mr. Sexton was moving away, but was called back, but in the uproar nothing could be heard. John Marks said he was going in as an independent candidate. About twenty attempted to speak at once and the chairman being unable to preserve order left the chair. The meeting concluded amid much confusion.

A correspondent writes : "It was 'stated by the present reeve that the taxes now being collected would be sufficient to meet all demands against the village. This statement was challenged and appeal made to a person present who was in a position to settle the point, but the rowdy element was in such strong force that no one could get a hearing. Let us examine the reeve's statement. The village debts are as follows Due to county treasurer, $460; public school, $641.60; separate school, $262.75; Wishart loans and interest, $419; volunteers, $29; for salaries, $50; various other items, $75; total indebtedness, $1,937.75. The available assets are as fellows: Cash in hand, $48.90; due by collecter (after deducting his commission), $1,656.51; other available assets, $60; total $1,765.41. But from this amount must be deducted at least $100 for remissions, absentee land tax, etc., hence the available assets can only be considered as about $1,665. So if the whole of the assets were in the hands of the treasurer he would still be $272 short of the amount necessary to pay the village debts. So much for the accuracy of the reeve's statement. But suppose the taxes were all collected and the debts paid as far as possible, what position would the village be in without a cent in the treasury to carry on the government till next October. Surely it is time for the ratepayers to look a little more closely into municipal matters and see that the affairs of the village are put in a more satisfactory

LETTER TO THE EDITO".

Mr. Dickson Again Heard From. Belleville, Dec. 23.—(To the Editor) That free trade with the United States would benefit both countries has always appeared to me self-evident. The geographical position and extension of our dominion, and the kindred people to the south of us, commends it at once to Canada. One of the main grounds upon which the national policy was urged was for this end, so that in advocating it now I am taking up with no new "fad." But as I have said elsewhere I do not advocate any particular form or scheme. If the Americansare willing to offer it our statesmen are quitecapable of arranging the details consistent with the honor and interests of our people. For reasons stated by Mr. Baker, of Philadelphia, in a letter recently re-published in the columns of the Mail, it ought to commend itself to -protectionists as well as to free traders. As to political union or annexation following I do not think it at all probable. The great majority of Canadians are strongly opposed to it and determined to work out their own political destiny, besides the continent of North America is too vast and the population will soon be to great for one political union.

The capacity of people for self-government and the desire of individual families and communities for political power has been a powerful factor in the history of the old world, and is not likely to be dominant in the new. So we may expect at some future time political separations.

Our commercial policy should be dictated by purely Canadian interests. We do now discriminate in favor of the Canadian as against the British manufacturer. Every time we increase the duty we hear a loud . protest from the British manufacturer. A reduced American tariff to about the level of our own would more than compensate him for any present loss of Canadian Allow me, in explanation of my hastily written letter of the 21st, to say that the descriptive words "tories" and "toryism," as frequently applied by party journals to the to the liberal-conservative party, is not correct or just. The tory party as well as the Baldwin reform party was superseded by the liberal conservative party many years ago, and has since been led by its founder. Most assuredly it has never been without a policy, but always active and progressive.

The great public works and highways, which commend us to favorable notice at home and abroad are aimost entirely I think due to it. Our debt, considerable as it is now, was wisely incurred in furtherance of the progress of the country. Free trade would utilize these works and highways and develope our great national resources more quickly than any other policy. No one would think for a moment of returning to the form or principle of government associated with what is called tory rule.

I regret having used the words I did in designating the tories and grits and beg to withdraw them. - Yours, GEORGE D. DICK-
