TABERNACLE SERMON.

Continued from page three, thing better than anybody else. Buy Virginia Penny's book entitled "The Employments of Women," and learn there are 500 ways in which a woman may earn a living. "No, no!" says some young waman, I will not undertake anything so unromantic and commonplace as that. An excellent author writes that after he had, in a book, argued for efficiency in womanly work in order to success, and positive apprenticeship by way of preparation, a prominent chemist advertised that he would teach a class of women to become druggists and apothecaries if they would go through an apprenticeship as men do, and a printer advertised that he would take a class of women to learn the printer's trade if they would go through an apprenticeship as men do, and how many according to the account of the authoress do you suppose applied to become skilled in the druggist business and printing business! Not one! One young woman said she would be willing to try the printing business for six months, but by that time her older sister would be married, and then her mother would want her at home. My sisters, it will be skilled womanly labor that will finally triumph.

"But," you ask, "what would my father and mother say if they saw I was doing such unfashionable work!" Throw the whole responsibility on the pastor of the Brooklyn Tabernacle, who is constantly hearing of young women in all these cities who, unqualified by their previous luxurious surroundings for the awful struggle of life into which they have been suddenly hurled, seemed to have nothing left them but a choice between starvation and damnation. There they go along the beet at 7 o'clock in the wintry morning yough the slush and storm to the place where they shall earn only half enough for subsistence, the daughters of once prosperous merchants, lawyers, clergymen, artists, bankers and capitalists who brought up their children under the infernal delusion that it was not high toned for women to learn a profitable calling. Young women take this affair in your own hand and let there be an insurrection in all prosperous families of Brooklyn and New York and Christendom on the part of the daughters of this day, demanding knowledge in occupations and styles of business by which they may be their own defense and their own support if all fatherly and husbandly and brotherly hands forever fail them.

I have seen two sad sights-the one a woman in all the glory of her young life stricken by disease, and in a week lifeless in a home of which she had been the pride. As her hands were folded over the still heart and her eyes closed for the last slumber, and she was taken out amid the lamentations of kindred and friends, I thought that was a sadness immeasurable. But I have seen something compared with which that scene was bright and songful. It was a young woman who had been all her days amid wealthy surroundings by the visit of death and bankruptcy to the household turned out on a cold world without one lesson about how to get food or shelter, and into the awful whirlpool of city life where strong ships have gone down, and for twenty years not one word has been heard from her. Vessels last week went out on the Atlantic ocean looking for a shipwrecked craft that was left alone and forsaken on the sea a few weeks ago, with the idea of bringing it into port. But who shall ever bring again into the harbor of peace and hope and heaven that lost womanly immortal, driven in what tempest, aflame in what conflagration, sinking into what abyss! O God, help, O Christ, rescue!

My sisters, give not your time to learning fancy work which the world may dispense with when hard times come, but connect your skill with the indispensables of life. The world will always want something to wear and something to eat and shelter and fuel for the body, and knowledge for the mind, and religion for the soul. And all these things will continue to be the necessaries, and if you fasten your energies upon occupations and professions thus related the world will be unable to do without you. Remember that in proportion as you are skillful in anything your rivalries become less. For unskilled toil, women by the mil lion. But you may rise to where there are only a thousand; and still higher till there are only a hundred; and still higher till there are only ten; and still higher in some particular department till there is only a a unit, and that yourself. For a while you may keep wages and a place through the kindly sympathies of an employer, but you will eventually get more compensation than you can make yourself worth.

Let me say to all women who have already entered upon the battle of life that the time is coming when woman shall not only get as much salary and wages as men get, but for certain styles of employment women will have higher salary and more wages for the reason that for some styles of work they have more adaptation. But this justice will come to woman, not through any sentiment of gallantry, not because woman is physically weaker than man and therefore ought to have more consideration shown her, ut because through her finer natural taste and more grace of manner and quicker perception and more delicate touch and more educated adroitness she will, in certain callings, be to her employer worth 10 per cent. more or 20 per cent, more than the other sex. She will not get it by asking for it, but by earning it, and it shall be hers by lawful con-

Now, men of America, be fair and give the women a chance! Are you afraid that they will do some of your work and hence harm your prosperities? Remember that there are scores of thousands of men doing women's work. Do not be afraid! God knows the end from the beginning and he knows how many people this world can feed and shelter, and when it gets too full he will end the world and if need be start another. God will halt the inventive faculty which, by producing a machine that will do the work of ten or twenty or a hundred men and women. will leave that number of people without work. I hope that there will not be invented another sewing machine or reaping machine or corn thresher or any other new machine for the next 500 years. We want no more wooden hands and iron hands and steel hands and electric hands substituted for men and women who would otherwise do the work and get the pay and earn the livelihood.

But God will arrange all, and all we have to do is to do our best and trust him for the rest. Let me cheer all women fighting the battle of life alone, with the fact that thousands of women have in that way won the day. Mary Lyon, founder of Mount Holyoake female seminary, fought the battle alone; Adelaide Newton, the tract distributor, alone; Fidelia Fisk, the consecrated missionary, alone; Dorothea Dix, the angel of the insane asylums, alone; Caroline Herschel, the indispensable re-enforcement of her brother, alone; Maria Takrzewska, the heroine of the Berlin hospital, alone; Helen Chalmers, patron of sewing schools for the poor of Edinburgh, alone. And thousands and tens of thousands of women of whose bravery and self sacrifice and glory of character the world has made no record, but whose deeds are in the heavenly archives of martyrs who fought the hattle alone, and, though enrecognized for the short thirty or fifty or eighty years of their earthly existence, shall, through the auintillion ages of the higher world he pourious out with the numiring cry: "These are usey who came out of great tribulation and had their robes washed and made white by the blood of the Lamb,"

Let me also say for the encouragement of all women fighting the battle of life.alone, that their conflict will soon end. There is one word written over the faces of many of them, and that word is Despair. My sister, you need appeal to that Christ who comforted the sisters of Bethany in their domestic trouble, and who in his last hours forgot all the pangs of his own hands and feet and heart as he looked into the face of maternal anguish and called a friend's attention to it, in substance, saying: "John, I cannot take care of her any longer. Do for her as I would have done if I had lived. Behold thy mother!" If under the pressure of unrewarded and unappreciated work your hair is whitening and the wrinkles come, rejoice that you are nearing the hour of eacape from your very last fatigue, and may your departure be as pleasant as that of Isabella Graham, who closed her life with a smile and the word "peace," The daughter of a regiment in any army is all surrounded by bayonets of defense, and in the battle, whoever falls, she is kept safe. And you are the daughter of the regiment commanded by the Lord of Hosts. After all you are not fighting the battle of life alone. All heaven is on your side. You will be wise to appropriate to yourself the words of sacred rhythm:

One who has known in storms to sail I have on board; Above the rearing of the gale I hear my Lord.

He holds me; when the billows smite I shall not fail. If short, 'tis sharp; if long, 'tis light; He tempers all.

Some time ago the government of Colombia offered $10,000 in silver to any one who would discover a new merchantable article of export. Rafael Vauegas thinks that he deserves the reward, or two of them, because he has discovered a valuable medicinal plant, hitherto unknown; and also has ascertained that cocoa trees abound in such profusion in the forests along the river Guabiare, that the gathering of their pods would furnish work for thousands who are now idle, and bring great wealth to the country.

Thought It Was a Ghost.

Two residents of Chapman Quarries, Northampton county, Pa., who were returning to their homes late at night, were very badly frightened at what they supposed was a ghost. They saw a white object in a corner on a lonesome road, ran to the hotel, a distance of 100 yards, burst in the door, cried for help, frightened the inmates, and were nearly scared to death. The burgess was hustled out of bed, and accompanied the young men to the spot where the alleged ghost was seen, but the specter had disappeared. The object was a young lady dressed in white, who had been to an evening party. She saw the young men coming, and stepped into the corner to let them pass on.

A Casket for the Queen. A casket presented to the queen of England recently, worked by members of the Society of Decorative Art Needlework, is made of wood covered with green velvet, which is divided into panels and beautifully embroidered in silk and gold thread. The ornamentation consists of conventionalized flowers and gold scrolls, and royal arms and monogram on the front, and a short inscription with the date of presentation on the back. The casket stands on eight gold feet -Chicago Herald.
