CENTRAL BANK'S AFFAIRS.

How the Work of Liquidation is Proceed. ing-Forty Cents on the Dollar.

TORONTO, Jan. 19.2 The Central's clearing goes slowly forward. The announcement made yesterday that not 40 cents on the dollar would be realized by depositors, cast a gloom over North Terente and Guelph where much of the money ou deposit came from. The effect of the failure in Guelph is luminously set forth in an extract given below from a Hamilton paper. All the information that could be gathered yesterday confirms the general belief that 40 cents will not be realized, and that only in instalments and after much delay. He who waits for the liquidators coming generously to his relief trusts a broken reed. There will be much squabbling, much litigation, much going to and fro and much noise-but little money for the creditor.

The shareholders are also in uncomfortable plight. The proceedings before the Masterin Ordinary at Osgoode Hall yesterday were to the end to let no shareholder escape under guise of transfer or otherwise. Mr. Foster moved for leave to sue certain parties, the names and amounts being set out in an affidavit sworn to by Mr. Campbell, in his possession. He also moved for an order sanctioning certain actions taken by the liquidators on Jan. 6, on their own authority. The orders asked for were made, and it was also directed that proceedings should be taken in the other cases by the liquidators, according to their own judgment of what was to the advantage of the estate of the bank, provided that no action was started without at least a reasonable security for costs, and that no action was to be brought to trial without an order from the Master.

Mr. Foster asked, in reference to the list which was to be prepared of contributories liable as shareholders, whether the names of those who had transferred their shares within the month prior to the suspension should be included, or only those to whom the shares had been transferred. After reciting the provisions of the Winding-up Act, which are more general than those of the Bank Act, in that they direct that not only all persons by law liable, but all persons who are not explicitly freed by law from liability shall be brought in, the Master directed that the liquidators should use their own discretion and bring before him on Saturday next, Jan. 21, as full a list as possible, when the whole matter will be discussed.

The Master directed Mr. Campbell to give him an account on Saturday next of his action as interim liquidator.

In the afternoon Mr. James Maclennan, Q.C., appeared before the Master on behalf of the Niagara Central Railway. It seems that that company borrowed $100,000 from the bank, giving as security notes endorsed personally by the directors and others interested in the road, said notes extending over eighteen months, and an agreement was also made that when the notes matured debentures of the City of St. Catharines were to be substituted for them. Instead of keeping these notes in the safe of the bank the management rediscounted them with other banks in order to raise money to carry it over the difficulties that beset the path of the Central. The Dominion Bank got one of these notes for $25,000 and the Imperial one for $34,500. Mr. Maclennan moved that under the agreement made not to dispose of the notes, the liquidators should be ordered to take them up out of the moneys in their hands. This was opposed by Mr. O'Brien for the liquidators. The Master. however, ordered that the $25,000, which is due to-day, should be taken up by the liquidators, and notice given by advertisement to the shareholders when the other note matures.

The Central Bank in Guelph.

The failure of the Central Bank is felt more in Guelph than in any other community in the country. A branch of the bank was established in Guelph under the management of a gentleman who was popular with the business people of the Royal City. The result was that a large proportion of the business men of the place withdrew their accounts from the older banks and placed them in the Central. Many men of means were induced to become stockhelders in the new concern, and a considerable proportion of the whole stock of the bank was held in Guelph. The crash came and Guelph is in sackcloth and ashes. The failure of the bank made such a clean sweep of the available money of the Guelph people that it is now almost impossible to collect accounts in that city. Business of every kind, except the larger manufactories, is hampered, and the whole city is plunged into such a condition for lack of money that it will be marvelous if some of the business concerns will be able to pull

SHIP FOUND DEAD.

On His Way Home From Lucan a Bullet Sent by an Unknown Hand Pierces His Brain - The Post Mortem and In-

LUCAN, Jan. 18. -Robert Orme, a farmer residing on the Lini condession of the Lawnship of London, attended a cheese factory meeting here yesterday. At 10 o'clock last evening he left the village on his return home. About three miles from the village, when nearing his own residence, he was met by some party, evidently only one person, who must have got into Orme's cutter, as every appearance indicates a severe struggle between the murdered man and his assailant.

The horse and cutter arrived home without the driver and robes. When the man's son, who had been awaiting his father's return, found the borse he immediately got rate the entter and retraced the road, supposing that the horse had run away and left the driver on the road. One mile and three-quarters from his residence he found the dead body of his father and the robes on the side of the sleightrack. He deposited it in the cutter and drave home. He then came back to Lucan and gave the news to his friends.

Several of the villagers proceeded to the scene of the tragedy, and upon a close inspection found the man's cap, a trail of blood for a short distance, and also the revolver with which the deed had been committed.

The man's overcoat and other garments were open, which evidences the fact that robbery was the object. It is supposed that there was not much money on his person, as no money was paid out at the meeting of the cheese manufacturers, and on examination of his pockets a $2 bill was found in one of his pants pockets. He had no weapons of any kind on his person. He owned a revolver, but it was at his house with all the chambers empty. Neither was there any ammunition in the house.

Apparently nothing was disturbed on the murdered man's person. Only the overcoat and undercoat were unbuttoned. A memorandum book in the breast pocket of his overcoat was not disturbed. The revolver found was a first-class one, thirty-two calibre, with silver mounted pearl handle. Four chambers were empty.

THE MURDERED MAN.

Little Light Thrown on the Tragedy at the inquest.

LONDON, Jan. 18.-Robert B. Orme, the victim of last night's tragedy on the town line between Biddulph and London, was about 45 years old, born on the eleventh concession of London and had been a life-long resident of the neighborhood. He was a member of the Methodist Church, as were also the rest of the family, and was a well-to-do farmer. Rev. James H. Orme, the Methodist minister at Wardsville, and J. W. Orme, proprietor of The Lucan Enterprise, are brothers of de-

Whitfield described the return of the horse and cutter last night about 10 o'clock without a driver. The horse was not heated. Witness and his brother found their father lying beside the road about a mile from home. The robe and horse blanket were partly under him. The body was still warm, but showed no signs of life. When the boys got their father home they tound the bullet hole in his

John H. McConnell of Lucan testified that blood was traced for over 100 paces toward Lucan from the place where Orme's body was found, and here his cap lay in the snow with blood on the front of it. Near the cap a revolver was found and the side of the cutter was cov ered with blood. Ernest Orme, a younger son of the victim, corroborated his brother's evidence and the inquest was adjourned for a week. The post mortem made by Dr. Satton of Clandeboyeshowed that the bullet, a 32-calibre one, had entered the right side of the sk ul and lodged in the lower part of the brain on the left side. The weapon was a new selfcocking six-chambered revolver, 32 calibre. Four chambers had been loaded. One was charged when found. There were three empty shells in the pistol, one shell being an old one and slightly rusty while the other two had been recently exploded.

A few days ago Orme drew $150, his share of profits in a cheese factory. He spent $50 or $60 of this money in London, but the balance is not accounted for.

In the absence of any clue to the murderer there is talk of suicide, but no plausible resson can be assigned why Mr. Orme should have taken his own life.

AN ANIMATED DISCUSSION.

Over the Proposition to Continue Banker Taylor's Examination in His Cell.

LONDON, Jan. 18 -The proposition to hold another judicial scance in *Banker Taylor's cell to-day gave rise to a very animated discussion in the corridor of the Court House between County Crown Attorney Hutchinson, Mayor Cowan and Taylor's counsel, Mr. James Magee.

Mr. Hutchinson questioned the right of Mayor Cowan to preside at the examination. The Mayor stated he had been requested by the magistrate to do so, but admitted he had no written authority to that effect. Mr. Hutchinson then emphatically declared the trial of the case must be held in the Court House or not at all. The Mayor said that in consideration of Mr. Taylor's physical condition the examination would be held in the debtor's cell.

Mr. Hutchinson: 'If Taylor was able to go before the Chief Justice he is able to come ap in open court on these charges. I'm going to have no more hole and corner business,"

Mr. Magee: "Let us get Dr. Smith, the jail's surgeon, and hear what he has to say."

The Mayor then read the certificates. That from Sir Henry Clarke stated that it would in all probability endanger Taylor's life to mete out to him the treatment of any ordinary criminal. Dr. Woodruff's was to the effect that he was suffering from an acute form of heart disease.

Mr. Hutchinson said he would let the information lapse and bring Taylor before the Grand Jury at next assizes direct. Subsequently, however, it was agreed between Mr. Magee and Mr. Hutchinson that the case should be adjourned till Monday, when the Police Magistrate would take it up.

A BRILLIANT GATHERING.

Twelve Hundred Invitations Accepted for the Ball at Government Mouse.

TORONTO, Jan. 19. - The ball at Government House last night was one of the most brilliant affairs of the kind ever witnessed in Toronto. The greatest throng ever seen within the gubernatorial mansion had assembled by 9 30. It was the first 'big ball' held there since Sir Alexander Campbell and Miss Marjoric Campbell became its host and hostess. Over 1500 invitations had been sent out and 1200 had been accepted. The ladies were there in the proportion of four to three, but the throng was too dense to enable anyone to gain a correct idea of the richness and beauty of the hundreds of feminine costumes. Sir Alexander and Miss Campbell spent over an hour in receiving their guests when they began to arrive. Miss Marjorie looked lovely in white tulle as she assisted at the early reception. Hon, O. Mowat, Hon, A. S. Hardy and Hon, G. W. Ross did the honors for Sir Alexander's constitutional advisers, and as is usual with these astute politicians, they did it well. The Attorney-General was frequently quizzed about his meeting with Sir John and the Governor on Tuesday, but he was too deeply concurred in the gay scenes around him to talk about such trivial matters. By the way, the gentieman from Brantford who presides over the State Department is really an attraction to the ladies on such occasions, Brave Enough in the Field But Overthrown By Love -A Sad Ending.

Cunningham accepted the offer and Woolwich joined a battalion at Montreal, where he was immediately made sergeant. He was one of the bravest and most popular noncommissioned officers in the battalion. After his return he became a traveller for the dry goods house of W. & C. Silver. For some time past he has been very lowspirited, it is supposed from love affairs. Some time ago he gave up a Halifax girl and engaged himself to a Sydney girl, whom he was shortly to marry. He went to Cape Breton on a trip, and was to have driven to see his affianced yesterday morning, but twenty minutes before the team was to start he hung himself with a small satchel strap in the sample room. He left a letter, addressed to his mother, saying he was in Canadian Pacific Railway train last night in great trouble, and had committed a great crime, but it would soon be all over, and bidding her farewell.
