RARE SUPERSTITION.

A GREAT SCARE OCCURS IN THE TOWN OF BIRMINGHAM.

The Last Day Looked for-The Alarm Felt by the People-A General Smash up of This Planet is Fully Expected.

Liverpool Post. A singular evidence of the survival of superstition has been furnished in Birmingham. Some days ago the newspapers contained a prediction of some sapient astrologer that on the 11th of January, in consequence of Mars forming a conjunction with Uranus, and of the evil aspect of Mercury, mischievous enough to present itself 90 degrees distant, the unhappy denizens of this globe might look out for all manner of calamities. Among these were named "many sudden deaths among the nobles of the land, numerous accidents in collieries, tires, explosions, murders, wars and earthquakes," and lastly "storms and high winds, with many untoward events, resulting in much fatality." The occurrence of thick darkness at an earlier hour of the day than it might have been expected in the absence of a fog was accepted by more than a few as a startling confirmation of the prophecy, although it had not been specially named by the prophet. There were people who went about with the information that half past 2 in the afternoon was the exact time at which to listen for the crack of doom, and when that hour had passed in peace and quiet they probably hailed the early dark ness as an incident behind which they might shelter themselves from the fire of chaff which Wad begun to beat upon them. All this, of course, was a source of innocent merriment to the majority of people about town, but it was so firmly believed by illeducated people here and there that many of them made fearsome preparation for the end of all things. The police report that not only did old women betake themselves to their bibles with unusual zeal, but younger women remained in bed all day, dreading the coming earthquake. Children were kept away from school as a similar preparation, and those who attended school came home full of fear and alarmist rumors. Two little folks, the children of a police inspec tor, begged their father at dinner time not to be out in the streets at midnight, for two stars were going to meet and burst and set the world on fire. In Constitution Hill the new cable being set running as a trial of its working, a tradesman, startled by the unusual noise it made, rushed out of his sbe with a pale face and called the attention of a passer by to it, offering the suggestion that it was the first symptom of a convulsion of the earth's crust. From the Lulywood police station it was reported that there seemed to be a "general state of lear." Some women called at the Moseley street police station in the hope of deriving comfort and support from the constable in charge of the office, and seemed a good deal shocked at the levity with which he treated their forebodings. They went away at last to buy a copy of the bible, for which three of them clubbed together their coppers. At Moore street police court, in the morning, a woman of the same class, on being fined a shilling for uttering threats of bodily harm, had accepted the alternative of a week's imprisonment with the observation that it didn't matter, for the world would be at an end soon. She was evidently sincere, and imagined that she would perhaps be lucky enough to cheat the law. out of a part of its penalty, although she had not ventured to offer in defence the plea that she would have no time to carry out the threats she had made use of. At night a half drunken soldier was found praying in Holloway Head, with all the fervor of fright and a troubled conscience. The amount of credulity which actually prevailed with reference to this silly astrologi-

A Gradual Decrease in It - The Great Stock Speculato.s in the Past. Chicago Herald.

There were at one time fourteen private New York wires out of Chicago to carry stock brokerage orders. Now there are only eight. In another month there will be only seven going, and possibly only six. This illustrates the way in which the interest in Wall street speculation has fallen off out here, and is just about the proportion in which the business has suffered. Two years ago Chicago sent every day orders for 50,-000 to 75,000 shares of stock. There were here then a group of great active traders. Armour swung in those days a line of 10, 000 to 30,000 shares. Ream took lines just as big. Nat Jones thought nothing or taking on or selling short 10,000 shares. While Cudahy, George Smith, Bloom, Singer, Pardridge and Kent were good for 5,000 share lots when they were interested in the New York market. Nathan Neeld, now of Canada, was a higher roller. The stock trading craze lasted a year. It was of immense value to the Stock Exchange, for the demand here for seats on the board helped to run the price up to $35,000, and hundreds of thousands of dollars were sent down into Wall street commissions. Then the boom collapsed. Armour was amoung the first to get out of "the street." Those who know him best believe that he has been practically out of stocks for over a year. The collapse of Dec. 14th, 1886, made the Christmas of that year so unhappy for Ream that he abandoned Wall street. He is supposed to have lost $260,000 on the break of the Omaha a year ago. It was not long before he sold out out his seat on the Stock Exchange ond devoted himself to the Chicago markets. What few plungers were left here were disposed of or frightened out when the smash came in Manhattan in July. That drop of forty points caught some, but scared a great many more. There is not anybody left out here now except the small players, with the single exception of Nat Jones.

THE GREAT STRIKE.

A Riot and Narrow Escape From Loss of Life-The Poles Are Excited.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Feb. 3.-To-night was an eventful one in the history of the strike, and probably seals its fate. Riot ran loose, and not in years has the town seen such a spectacle. All day the Shenandoah city and West St enandoah collieries worked with a good force of men, and everywhere among the idle men especially the Polanders, there were mutterings that foretold the coming storm. It troke at five o'clock, when the minors at work started home. Some Poland ers opened fire on them with stones, whereupon Moyer, Diebert, Shane and Krieger, coal and iron policemen, at once went to their aid. Moyer and Diebert caught one Polander and hustled him up the screet. Almost as if by magic the region swarmed with men and boys, and in a second the prisoner was free and the officers roughly handled. They got away and started back for the Shenap loan city mine, followed by the crowd, now numbering over a thousand. The latter continued beating the workmen, and boys as well, when the officers in a body again sprang to the rescue. It was a brave act, six men against a crowd of such proportions, but for five minutes it was successful. Then as the officers were going off Moyer and Diebert with one prisoner, and Krieger and Shane with another, the crowd surged on them again. Krieger got away with his man and finally landed him in Squire Shoemaker's office. Moyer and Diebert were not so fortunate. They were being badly beaten with clubs and were both down when they drew their revolvers and both fired into the crowd, which scattered and ran in all directions. Mike Heffron, a young man, received a ball in the month and was badly injured. John Cather, an iron founder, was shot in the arm, and a Polander was shot behind the ear. A third shot was fired by a Polander, but with what effect is not known. James Shields, a borough officer, then arrested both officers for shooting in the borough. They were taken before Squire Monaghan. While there a warrant was sworn out by a Polander charging them with assault and battery with intent to kill. They pleaded guilty under the advice of Captain Christian, and were awaiting committal to Pottsville gaol when things took another bad turn. The two magistrates' offices are in East Centre street, a square and a half apart. That whole space was densely packed with people, a large portion Polish, who were wild with passion. They surrounded both offices yelling for the officers to "lynch them," "kill them," etc. Suddenly a stone was thrown at Shoemaker's window. It was the keynote for mad work. In a minute the fronts of both buildings were riddled with stones, and the inmates had a scramble for safe'y. Some bruised bodies resulted, but no serious damage was done except to the offices, which are wreck ed. Monaghan, Othicers Moyer, Diebert, Orme and Captain Christian were in a small room separate from the main room. Through a window in its rear they got off safe. Still for a half-hour the mob, thinking them still in, pelted the office. The town is in a perfect uproar, men mad with passion and drink, and no one appears to have any power to quell them. John Durkin, assistant foreman at Kohinoor colliery, was shot at this evening by a Polander, but escaped injury. His assailant was arrested. Thomas Ryan, of Williams, Pa., is also under arrest

The Sentences Upon Callan and Harkins

. Universally Approved. LONDON, Feb. 4. - The sentence of fifteen years for the dynamiters, Callan and Harkins, is universally approved of. It was thought it might be for a longer term, as Judge Hawkins, who tried the case, is the man who, when at the bar, prosecuted the Tichborne claimant for perjury, has the reputation of being severe, and under Sir William Harcourt's law, he had power to inflict penal servitude for life. However, he took into consideration the fact that Harkins and Callan were mere tools of other men, and had not, like Gallagher and others formerly convicted, made any actual a tempt to cause explosions, but only had possession of dynamite. Minister Phelps watched the case with much interest, and was permitted by the courtesy of the court to occupy a seat beside the judge, with whom he shook hands before leaving after the sentence was pronounced. It is quite likely that before long the Irish government will have put an ex-cabinet minister on a plank bed. Fresh evictions being threatened on Lord Clanricarde's estates, Right Hon. George John Shaw Lefevre, ex postmaster general, in accordance with a promise made some time ago, announces that he will preside at a meeting of tenants at Loughrea, the centre of Lord Clanricarde's estates, to make a formal protest, on the 10th inst. He says he will act in no spirit of defiance, but under the belief that it is his right, and that of the people of his district, to hold such meetings free from the difficulties which, in his opinion, were most unfairly considered to justify the prohibition of that which was held by Mr. Blunt. Mr. Lefevre is a man of great determination, and there is not the slightest doubt he will do as he says.

THE FARMERS' CLUB.

One of the Best Meetings of the Season -Features of the Event.

The meeting of this visiting club held in the afternoon and evening of Feb. 1st at the house of Mr. J. V. Wolfe, of Latimer, was one of the most lively meetings of the season. President, W. Ferguson, opened the meeting in his usual happy manner, and the secretary made a report on the purchase of clover seed for the club. The essayist, Mr. Holmes, on account of indisposition, had not an essay prepared so he gave a short speech instead; there was talks and discussions on various subjects. The secretary was authorized to get a car of land salt for the members. After partaking of the good things provided by the hostess it was decided to meet with Mr. Quail in two weeks and hear Mr. Holmes' essay on the "The best kinds of crops for feeding cattle and how to raise them;" Mrs. Tolls to read an essay on "House Cleaning," and Mrs. Ferguson on "Cooking."
