SCIENCE AND PROGRESS.

INGENIOUS PUZZLE OF THE HEART AND ARROW.

Information Regarding the Speed of Ocean Steamers-A Famous Patent Declared Invalid-Flowing Gas Wells in the Town of Fort Scott, Kan.

The town of Fort Scott, Kan., appears to be in the enjoyment of special blessings, natural and artificial. The government sugar works are located there, and during the late sorghum cane harvest 16,500 pounds of mercantile sugar was daily manufactured, and the success of the sorghum sugar industry established.

GROUP OF GAS WELLS.

One of the natural resources of the town are the gas wells, about which The Kansas Tribune relates the following particulars: "There are now some twelve wells, from which uncounted millions of cubic feet are daily flowing. At night they glow like gigantic torches, with flames twenty feet or more in height, which illuminate the surrounding country. Pipes have been laid through the town, supplying light and fuel to everybody at a cost of almost nothing. Various manufacturing industries are beginning to locate at Fort Scott, and others are coming in. The future prosperity of the place seems to be well settled."

Speed of Atlantic Steamers.

The returns, which have recently been is sued by Nich. M. Bell, superintendent of foreign mails in the postoffice at Washington, give some information regarding the speed of Atlantic steamers. These give the time occupied in the conveying of mails during the twelve months from New York to London, The Cunard liner Umbria heads the list with an average time of 187.5 hours, while the Wisconsin, of the Guion line, which stands at the foot, requires 258.1 hours to perform the same passage, being a difference of very nearly three days. Second on the list is the Umbria's sister ship, the Etruria, with 188 hours. Next comes the North German Llöyd steamer Trave, with an average of 199.3 hours, and the Anchor liner City of Rome, with 203.4 hours; while the Alaska, of the Guion line, and the Aller, of the North German Lloyds, compete very closely for the fifth place with times of 205.3 and 205.7 respectively. Then we have a considerable number of North German liners with approximately equal times, the average of which is very nearly the time taken by the Cunard liner Aurania. Then follows the Servia, of the Cunard line, with 211.2 hours, and then the White Star liners put in an appearance-the Britannic, with the time of 219.8 hours; the Germanic, 228 hours; the Adriatic, 230 hours; the Republic, 235 hours; and the Celtic, 236 hours. The best of the Hamburg-American line takes 240.7 hours, while almost at the bottom stand the Inman liners, the quickest of which, the City of Chicago, takes 241.6 hours; and the slowest, the City of Chester, requires 256.8 hours.

Fat as a Food.

The late Professor Hughes Bennett is quoted as saying that the great cause of the prevalence of pulmonary pythisis was the scarcity of good butter and the abundance of pastry cooks. A writer in Medical Reporter affirms that the butter supply has always been inadequate. He says: "The wise fools calling themselves reformers, who a few years ago went about lecturing upon the injurious nature of fat as a food, did a great deal of harm in exciting a prejudice against fat ham, bacon, pickled pork, and other forms of wholesome fats,"

The Barbed Wire Patent Invalid. This famous patent has at last been declared invalid in circuit court proceedings. The rights were founded on the Glidden patent, dated Nov. 24, 1874. Hitherto it has met with no legal reverses, though numerous attempts have been made to overturn it. The latest decision, rendered by Judge Shiras, in Iowa, declares it void for want of novelty.

A New Petroleum Spring.

At Balakhan, near Baku, Russia, a new petroleum spring, which rose 150 yards, flooded the country, impregnating everything. Nobody ventures to light a fire for fear the town will go off like fireworks.

An Ingenious Puzzle.

The cut here given shows a single perforated piece of wood having the form of a conventional heart, and in the perforation is inseried an arrow, also formed of a single piece of wood, the barb and head being much larger than the perforation in which the shank of the arrow is received. The heart is made of one kind of wood and the arrow of another. The question is, How did the arrow get into the heart?

A NOVEL PUZZLE.

Scientific American, in which the illustration originally appeared, explains the apparent impossibility. The heart is of black walnut and the arrow is of bass wood. Bass wood, as all may not know, can be enormously compressed, after which it may be steamed and expanded to its original volume. This peculiar property is the key to the secret, one end of the arrow was thus compressed, and in its compressed state was passed through the aperture of the heart, after which it was expanded. Advantage has been taken of this principle in the manufacture of certain kinds of moldings. The portions of the wood to be left in relief are first compressed or pushed down by suitable dies below the general level of the board, then the board is planed down to a level surface, and afterward steamed. The compressed portions of the board are expanded by the steam, so that they stand out in relief.

AN AMERICAN SAINT.

Bishop Neumann Soon to Be Canonized.

The Pope's Jubilee. Word has recently come from Rome that Archbishop Ryan, of Philadelphia, who is making his decennnial visit to the Vatican, is collecting intelligence in the case of the appeal for canonization of John Nepomucen Neumann, a predecessor of Archbishop Ryan. The prospect of Bishop Neumann's canonization gives great pleasure to those of his faith in Philadelphia, where he was known for his spirituality and rigid conduct.

The process of canonization is very slow. At least four miracles, performed through the intercession of the person named for canonization, must be established before canonization can be declared. In the case of Bishop Neumann, there is an objection which is not likely to be easily overcome. An almost invariable rule requires that fifty years shall have passed since the death of the person canonized, while in the case of Bishop. Neumann thus far only twenty-eight years have elapsed. The prelate was born in Bohem: , it the city of Prachatitz, on March 28, 1811, and on a Good Friday. He received his education at the seminaries at Budweis and Prague. In 1836 he came to America. He was ordained at New York by the late Bishop Du Bois, and was sent to Williamsville the western part of the state and placed in charge of an extended parish. Father Neumann became a member of the order of Redemptorists, one of the most zealous and ascetic of the orders of the Roman Catholic church. It is devoted largely to the work of giving missions-that is of conducting special services, in whatever Catholic churches the members of the order may be called to, with reference especially to awakening an increase of religious fervor. Bishop Neumann finally became vice principal of this order.

The priest was appointed to be a pastor in Baltimore; also in Pittsburg. He was made bishop of Philadelphia in 1852. Notwithstanding his natural gentle disposition, he manifested great zeal and energy in this higher field. He completed the Philadelphia Cathedral of SS. Peter and Paul, and officiated at its dedication. He was a profound

THE BENEDICTR'N "URBI ET ORBL" scholar. He leaned toward asceticism, being the first to introduce into this country the service known as the "Forty Hours' Devotion," an office which had long been known in Europe. The rules laid down for his daily guidance, and preserved in his diary, show a high degree of ascetic devotion.

Bishop Neumann is said to have prophesied that he would not live beyond the age of 50. He did not reach 49. On the morning of the 5th of January, 1860, he was suddenly taken ill and died the same evening.

To this account of the life of Bishop Neumann we add a cut representing Pope Leo XIII at the time of his giving the benediction, "Urbi et Orbi," in the basilica of St. Peter, during the recent jubilee ceremonies at Rome. Readers of the newspapers have already read the details of the ceremonies. The cut is from the current number of Le Monde Illustre, published in Paris and just arrived in America.

Chiara Cignarale.

Readers of the newspapers everywhere have become familiar with the facts in the case of Chiara Cignarale, the Italian woman, of New York, who killed her husband some time ago, and is now under sentence of death therefor. She was brought into court the other day to testify on behalf of Antonio D'Andrea, her alleged paramour, who is charged with having incited her to the deed, and who is therefore charged with being accessory to the murder. Mrs. Cignarale is reported as being very much wasted in person by her imprisonment, and had to be supported in court by a female friend. The cut is from a sketch taken in the court room by our New York artist.
