

COMMUNICATIONS.

To the Editor of the U. C. Herald. SIR.—In the Chronicle of the 19th...

Though both his theory and his arguments are as flimsy as a spider web, it will suffice to present to oppose him with facts.

He also pretends to maintain that men have no right to choose for themselves in religious matters; but ought to follow the religion of the State.

By apostolic blows and knocks. In fine, if he wishes to disgust the people with the British Government, by associating it with his maxims of arbitrary power, let him go on;—if he wishes to bring on the Church of England a greater load of popular odium, by connecting it with principles that deprive man of his moral agency, and reduce him to a mere machine, let him go on;—if he wishes to stand pilloried in the Chronicle, exposed to the people's bitter biting scorn, as the abettor of despotism and slavery, let him pursue his career.

On His Excellency's first coming into office in Canada, there was, among many other proofs of his impartiality and good feeling, one which gave much pleasure to the worthy people of the Newcastle District.

On arriving in the evening at the tavern known to the constable, the witnesses for the prosecution were entertained, without money, to excessive intoxication with the most costly liquors, till one of them was carried to his bed, in a dreadful screaming fit, by four men, his noise continuing nearly the whole of the night.

On the 18th, the constable, would be too absurd indeed! It was to pay the excessive costs in this cruel affair, that the poor defendant was compelled to deprive his family of a part of their inheritance, and to sell a portion of his land though many worthy gentlemen of Cobourg and elsewhere, espoused the cause of the persecuted man in the most friendly manner.

THE FARMER'S MONITOR.—The editor of the Farmer's Monitor, in a letter to the Editor of the American Farmer, says that Farmers in that part of Pennsylvania, who cultivate Indian corn, are governed in planting by the putting out of the leaves of the locust, (the common yellow locust, Robinia pseudo-acacia.)

A DIRECT IMPORTATION OF DRUGS & CHEMICALS. CHARLES HEATH has lately received direct from one of the first houses in England a very general assortment of Drugs and Chemicals which he offers for sale as low as they can be purchased either in the Upper or Lower Province.

CHARLES HEATH is now receiving on consignment, his full supply of Storms' celebrated Maccoboy Snuff, consisting of 200 Jars, various sizes and qualities, which he offers for sale low for cash or short approved credit.

A MAN OF MURRAY.

ROBIN SPOON.—This disorder is generally attributed to the pasturing of sheep on wet grounds, and if the suggestion be correct, it is always attended with the presence of insects in the liver, it is a remarkable fact that the livers of the full grown deer, in Sullivan, and other counties similarly affected.

It is improbable that some insect finds its food, and lays its eggs on the tender succulent grass found on particular soils, (especially wet ones,) which it most delights in.

He then proceeds to recommend salt as being pernicious to most insects, and likewise quotes the authority of Lisle, who, in his book of husbandry, says that a farmer cured his whole stock of the rot by giving each sheep a handful of Spanish salt, five or six mornings successively.

On the same disease another correspondent says: "That the rot is occasioned by the insects found in the liver, and which are called flukes, is very evident; but to account for their coming into the liver is not so easy.

On applying a pocket glass, I found it to contain thousands of these flukes, which were apparently just hatched, and about the size of mites. These, if the sheep had not been killed, would soon have obtained their usual size, and proved its destruction.

CRYSTALS OF OXALATE OF LIME IN PLANTS.—Mr. Turpin has discovered that the cells of Cereus Peruvianus contain an immense quantity of crystals of oxalate of lime.

CURIOSITY FACT IN THE HISTORY OF VEGETATION.—We are told by a Dr. Linderdale, in an English work, that applied from a young apple tree, growing in a field of turnips, contract in their growth, much of the taste and flavor of a turnip.
