Electors of the town of Kingston.

Gentlemen,

I am moved by the solicitations of many of my most respectable friends and fellow townsmen, to offer myself as a Candidate for your suffrages at the ensuing general Election. It is no consciousness, gentlemen, of superior qualification that causes me to assent to their wishes, in aiming at so distin guished an honor as that of being your Representative in Parliament—but if I bring to the cause of public duty a judgment unbiassed and a heart unsulfied, perhaps the feeling which prompts my desire of serving you may gain your respect and approbation.

I am proud, gentlemen, as I doubt not many of you are, to rank myself a descendant of a Loyalist and a Scotchman,—and I must be free tosay, if I know my own heart, must be free tosay, if I know my own heart, that the inheritance of uncorrupted attachment to the cause of patriotism, at least, is mine. I will add, with feelings which gather warmth from the avowal, that every associ ation of honest passion or interest, is inter-twined with the progress and prosperity of this Province. Here was I born—here did I receive the rudiments of every moral and political principle which a subject of Britain is proud to vaunt—here have I embarked in a profession which embraces all the prospects I have of future comfort or fame—

pects I have of future comfort or fame—and here I hope to close my life with the pre eminent gratification of having served my G d and served my country.

I am not pledged, gentlemen, to any particular set of opinions—I profess no politics but these; to keep the British Constitution unimpaired, the privileges of British subjects aminvaded, and British pre-eminence and British honour permanent and untarnished.

However sensible of the smallness of my pretensions to public consideration and favor, I will plead the admitted rule, that no man can be known without a trial-the testimony of experience alone can render just any decision upon public principles, or individual talents. To that I shall be free to bow, when time has evinced whether I have a heart to wish your welfare, and a mind of capacity to promote it.

I have the honor to be,

Gentlemen,
Your most obliged, sincere,
And faithful humble Servant,
D BETHUNE. Kingston, 14th Feb. 1828.

Gentlemen, Having been earnestly solicited by many of my most respectable friends to offer my self as a Candidate at the next General E

In thus presenting myself as a Candidate for your favor and confidence, do not sup-pose, Gentlemen, that either a consciousness of superior merit, or selfish motives urge me to come forward, but as I feel a warm and levoted attachment to the cause of Patrio tism, and have a heartfelt interest in this prosperity of this Province, and more espe cially that this County should prosper! In this County have I lived since a child. and here de I expect to spend the remainder of my days, and to do all I can to promote the Sheriff, M. D.

I hope, Gentlemen, that your good sense will duly appreciate the invaluable privileges and rights you possess, and as free and independent men, you will not give them up to those, who would be base enough to en deavour to purchase them, either by paltry ribery, or despicable flattery!
